By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

An envelope from a man identifying himself as Marshall Fields Jr., the man who crashed the gate of the White House in his car Christmas Day, was mailed to KUON-TV in Lincoln two weeks ago.

The envelope contains pictures and other material and a statement that appears to be similar to statements mailed to Washington television stations.

The statement, most of which was typed on the back of "an eight point message" from the Islamic Party, states, "As a matter of fact this a public notice so to speak which is bring (sic) circulated throughout the world."

"I Am The Messiah"

The statement contains lines such as "I have returned to break crosses and kill swine. I am the Messiah to those who wish to believe."

It rambles on to a description of the God Jupiter, switches to a discourse on the diameter, mass and albedo of the planet Jupiter and jumps to the statement, "If it is God's will I will denounce my citizenship to this country(?) on December 25, 1974."

"If it is God's will I will be out of this country to seek political asylum in one of the countries now known to be a member of the 'third' world."

Later the statement says, "I am applicant to the Islamic Party in North America, though I bare (sic) full responsibility for my actions against the Government of the United States of America."

Four Photographs

The envelope contains four pictures of a man in a white robe. One picture shows a man kneeling in front of the Capitol Building in Washington. Another picture is a closeup of the same scene.

The third picture shows a man with arms folded and the fourth a man holding what appears to be a sword.

Also in the envelope is a copy of what appears to be a news story on the Fields family carried in a 1956 edition of the Pittsburgh Courier.

According to the story and current wire service reports from Washington, Marshall-Field's father was a vocational education specialist with the State Department serving in nations in the Middle East.

According to the Courier story, 7-year-old Marshall Fields Jr. could speak both English and Arabic fluently. At the time of the story the family was preparing to return to Iraq.

According to wire service reports, Fields began acting erratically after his father's death last May.

Not A 'Big Deal'

B. J. Keller, a "continuity specialist" with KUON-TV, said that when the station received the letter, "We didn't make any big deal of it."

She said that she saved the letter so it could be shown to journalism students as an example of some of the mail the media receive.

The letter was addressed to the station's post office box number, although it carried the KRNU radio station call letters.

Aid Rushed To Devastated Darwin

Darwin, Australia (UPI) — American and British aircraft Thursday joined a huge armada of planes and ships ferrying emergency aid into cyclone-devastated Darwin and evacuating more than one-fourth of the city's 37,000 people.

Medical teams were flown in to combat threats of cholera, tetanus, gangrene salmonella and other diseases in the wake of cyclone Tracy. Dr. Gwyn Howells, federal director-general of health, said the medical relief operation was the biggest mounted in Australia since World War II.

A spokesman for National Disaster Organization Headquarters in Canberra said 45 persons were known to have died. Some official estimates said the death toll may go as high as 80.

Rescue officials said the cyclone winds of up to 125 miles an hour destroyed 90% of Australia's northernmost city when it struck on Christmas Day, leaving hundreds injured and 20,000 homeless of the 37,000 population.

British and American aircraft joined Australian transports in flying out the homeless.

The Australian broadcasting commission said at least ten ships were still missing in the wake of the storm, including three or four shrimp boats, which usually carry up to 15 crewmen each.

Another five or six vessels were aground in the harbor, the commission report said.

The National Disaster Organization said that 10,000 persons would probably be evacuated, with women and children and the sick and injured given preference.

Two ships filled with food supplies arrived at Darwin Friday and were unloaded with difficulty on docks that were severely damaged in the storm.

A hole was blown in one of the piers when a navy patrol boat rained into it and exploded Christmas Day.

Eight military and civilian air transports, including a giant U.S. Air Force C-141 Starlifter, kept up a steady stream of supply runs onto Darwin's debris-strewn airport and picked up refugees for the return flights to other parts of Australia.

By New Year's Day ten navy ships and two landing craft were expected to arrive to help the rescue and rebuilding. Among them a British submarine, HMS Odin, was expected to lend its generator to aid in the restoration of power to the city, rescue official said.

Able-bodied men were asked to stay behind to help rebuild the isolated frontier community in the Australian tropics 2,000 miles northwest of Sydney.

Prime Minister E. Gough Whitlam cut short a scheduled 5½-week European tour to fly to Darwin to see for himself what his government has described as "the most serious and sudden calamity that has ever struck an Australian city or town."

Britain sent Royal Air Force planes from bases in Singapore.

Scores of Royal Australian Air Force transports, airliners of Qantas and domestic firms and small civil aircraft were thrown into the evacuation effort.

All leave for sailors was canceled.

The first three ships of a Royal Australian Navy task force of eight vessels led by the carrier HMAS Melbourne were on their way from Sydney and other southern ports with emergency food, blood plasma and other relief supplies gathered Australia-wide.

Highways Slick In Lincoln Area

Highways in south central and southeast Nebraska turned slick Thursday night as snow, preceded by freezing rain in some areas, fell in a broad band that moved out of the southwest.

Lincoln police reported more than two dozen accidents by midnight, mostly minor fender-benders.

On U.S. 34 just north of Lincoln a Bellwood woman lost control of her car and it skidded into the ditch, overturning and sliding on its roof.

The State Patrol said Marilyn Schmit's car narrowly missed a station wagon that had been parked on the shoulder for several days. She was not injured, but damage to her car was put at more than $1,000.

At Capitol Beach Lake, an all-terrain tracked vehicle broke through the ice into four feet of water. Fire officials said the riders escaped without injury.

The heaviest snowfall was reported at Grand Island, where the National Weather Service said five inches of new snow had fallen since midday.

Both Lincoln and Omaha were approaching two inches at midnight.

The Weather Service issued a travelers' advisory, but forecast only light snow or snow flurries for Friday. Highs in the 30s were expected Friday.

Exon Wants Cut In State Spending

Gov. J. James Exon Thursday appealed to all state agencies to cut expenditures for the next six months.

But at the same time he ruled out major lay-offs of state employees to counter lagging state tax revenue.

Exon said the savings are needed to "help ease the critical money crunch we all face for fiscal 1975-76."

Agencies can cut spending by reducing travel, purchases and "non-essential programs" to effect the savings, he said.

Most agencies, he said, received substantial increases in appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30.

"Why is this necessary?" Exon said in a letter. "The state is facing at least a $50 million shortfall for the 1975-76 fiscal period at the present state tax rates and considering known and required future appropriations."

"This is based on all state agencies receiving only their same general fund appropriations next year with only minimal allowances for inflationary increases. These figures also contemplate no capital construction additions."

Revenue savings accomplished this year, he said, will carry over into the next fiscal year to ease the dollar pinch.

He noted that recent bureau of business data indicate Nebraska suffered the most severe decline in personal income.

"This is certainly a time," he said, "when all officials and employees of state government must respond constructively, unemotionally and with prudence to conserve our available funds . . ."

"No mass lay-offs are planned in state government. We have good workers and we intend to keep them. Traditionally, government service is most attractive in times of (economic) downturn . . . because of government's general stability. However, we are not scared cows who can isolate ourselves . . . as if nothing has happened."

Who Will Get Redevelopment Funds?

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A battle may be shaping up between city officials and neighborhood representatives over which neighborhood will get the lion's share of some $499,000 in redevelopment money next year.

Community Development Director Leo Scherer said Thursday he will recommend to the development task force that most of the money be poured into the Clinton neighborhood.

Several task force members don't want all the money "dumped into Clinton," said Coleen Seng, who lives in the University Place neighborhood.

Seng said several task force members want the money spread around as "seed money" so that a number of projects can get going next year.

More Information Needed

A task force subcommittee which will wrestle with the issue Friday may not make a recommendation as soon as city officials would like it, Seng said. She said more information is needed before a recommendation can be made on the city's community development program for next year.

At stake is $499,000 which the city is slated to receive in community development dollars next year. More than $8.9 million is expected to flow into Lincoln over the next six years.

Scherer and Planning Director Doug Brogden are lobbying to have the Clinton neighborhood designated as the major first-year redevelopment project — partly because that area is one of the most run-down in the city, partly because Clinton residents are enthusiastic about renovation and partly because the City Council already has earmarked $123,000 for redevelopment projects there.

Seng acknowledged that "there are definite needs there." But, she argued, "There are needs in other areas, too."

'Needs' Catalogued

Those "needs" include more housing, rehabilitation of existing housing, more recreation facilities and paving, according to the latest neighborhood analysis compiled by the Community Development Task Force.

That 22-member panel has been charged with overseeing the city's application for federal funds and is compiling one and three-year development programs.

The so-called "grocery list" of neighborhood needs will be used to chart those redevelopment programs, Scherer said.

The list was compiled from data obtained in several neighborhood attitude surveys, the recently completed housing study, the Goals and Policies Committee report and information from the housing administrator's office.

The areas studied included: Clinton, Malone, West A, West Lincoln, Belmont, Near South, Havelock, Uni Place, Arnold Heights, central business district (CBD), College View and the area bounded by 9th, Salt Creek, Van Dorn and Leighton St. extended.

Ranked High Everywhere

In all neighborhoods, housing, new park and recreation facilities and paving ranked high on the need list.

Additionally, the task force said an environmental health officer should be hired to monitor neighborhood conditions such as junk cars and garbage pick-up. In particular, the report recommended that the officer concentrate on the Clinton, Malone, West Lincoln and Havelock areas.

Land use incompatibility was seen as a major problem in Clinton, Malone, Belmont, West Lincoln, Near South and Havelock.

And in all areas but West A, Near South and the CBD, economic opportunities were viewed as a major problem requiring action.

All over town, the task force determined that improvements are needed to enable the elderly and the handicapped easier access to all facilities and services.

The task force also looked at transportation needs and reported that shelters should be built along all bus routes.

Additionally, the committee said there is a major need for better north-south bus service in the Clinton, Havelock and Uni Place neighborhoods.

Nursing Care Cited

Better health services should be provided to all areas. In particular, the report asserted additional nursing care facilities are needed in Uni Place. Scherer noted, however, that cities cannot use federal funds for nursing homes.

Other areas rated in the survey include residential street lighting, social services, beautification, public safety, utilities, commercial development, education and citizen participation.

Now that the needs have been assessed, Scherer said, the next step is the rating of those needs. No price tag has been set on those numerous improvement projects.

N. Viets Overrun 5th District Town

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)

— Communist-led forces overrun a fifth South Vietnamese district town and pushed government casualties near the 7,000 mark in an offensive started three weeks ago, the Saigon command reported Thursday.

Military analysts said the offensive is aimed at expanding North Vietnamese and Viet Cong territory, inflicting heavy losses on the Saigon army and pressing the Saigon government to the breaking point to force President Nguyen Van Thieu to make political concessions. Despite continued setbacks and reported military demoralization, neither Thieu nor the army shows any signs of collapse.

Elsewhere in Indochina:

—A Vientiane spokesman in Laos said more than 300 Pathet Lao troops crossed the northwest cease-fire line and moved into the provincial capital of Ban Hoi Sai. A member of the joint commission supervising the Lao cease-fire said a protest will be filed.

—In Bangkok, Thai military sources reported about 2,000 troops and police moved into bandit-plagued areas along the Malaysian border to root out outlaws who had defied the government for years.

—In Cambodia the military command reported government troops attacked rebel pockets between the Mekong and Bassac rivers, 12 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, in a continued effort to clear out rebel sites used to shell the capital.

In South Vietnam the Saigon command reported a U.S.-supplied C130 transport plane was shot down as it approached the isolated provincial capital of Phuoc Long, near Tanh Linh, one of the latest towns captured by the Communist forces.

The district towns of Don Luan, 55 miles north of Saigon, and Tanh Linh, 70 miles northeast, were the fourth and fifth to fall since Dec. 6. South Vietnam has lost 10 district towns, which are similar to county seats in the United States, since the signing of the cease-fire agreement nearly two years ago, plus scores off outposts and lesser positions.

According to accounts from the Saigon command, the two towns were hit with at least 4,000 rounds of heavy fire before North Vietnamese and Viet Cong infantrymen launched ground assaults against them.

Cancer Killing Comedian Jack Benny

Los Angeles (UPI) — Comedian Jack Benny, the all-time great in the world of show business, lay dying of cancer Thursday night, spending his last hours at home with his family.

His manager, Irving Fein, said the 80-year-old Benny had terminal cancer.

"He is very, very ill, and is not expected to last much longer," said Fein. "He has cancer of the stomach. He is sinking fast. It may be a matter of hours."

Family sources said later Benny had cancer of the pancreas, the gland behind the stomach that produces insulin.

Mary Livingston, Benny's wife of 47 years, was at his bedside and many of their old Hollywood friends came to comfort her. There was no reason to hospitalize her husband, friends indicated, because doctors gave no hope of recovery.

Word spread quickly throughout the Hollywood community and numerous friends came to offer a few words of condolence at the Benny Mansion in Holmby Hills.

Among the first to arrive was Frank

Sinatra. Then followed George Burns, Benny's closest old friend; Rosalind Russell; Gov. Ronald Reagan, Merle Oberon, Johnny Carson, Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, Danny Thomas, and Milton Berle.

His daughter, Joan, arrived from a skiing vacation and went to her father's bedside.

There was no visiting with the dying entertainer. His daughter came out to tell waiting newsmen, "He doesn't know what's going on."

Armed Inmates Free 7 Hostages Unharmful

LORTON, Va. (AP) — Armed inmates released seven hostages unharmed at Lorton Reformatory Thursday after receiving what they regarded as assurances they would not be punished for their role in an attempted mass escape.

The end came peacefully in midafternoon almost 20 hours after the prison uprising began Christmas night.

Three inmates escaped and one was killed in the attempt. About 100 were involved. Originally 10 hostages had been seized, but one was released around midnight and two more late Thursday morning.

The rebellious inmates gave up their siege upon being shown a letter approved by the Department of Justice. It assured them there would be no prosecution for offenses arising out of the disturbance without consultations with Delbert Jackson, the director of the Department of Corrections for the District of Columbia, which operates the prison in this rural Virginia area about 15 miles south of Washington, D.C.

U.S. Atty. David Hopkins. The acting federal prison director, Roy Gerard, earlier had signed an agreement that none of the inmates involved would be transferred to other federal prisons.

When the break came, the prisoners had members of their families and visitors escorted to the middle of the prison yard.

Newsman talked with Thomas Reed, an inmate leader who is serving two life terms of murder. "All this stems from the dehumanizing conditions at Lorton," he said.

He said the inmates wanted members of their families to witness their return to cellblocks because "we're concerned about getting back in the block without being whipped."

The hostages, all prison guards, were escorted through a gate in the prison wall for a reunion with their families.

Jackson told reporters he intends to live up to the assurances he gave the rebellious inmates. Asked if that meant there would be no reprisals, he replied: "Without question."

He said he would do everything possible to meet demands for what they called more humane conditions, adding that "there is always room for change at Lorton."

The prisoners had called in a lawyer, Lawrence Jamison, to help with the negotiations toward a pledge of no reprisals.

"We are moving as fast as we can to wrap things up," he said in late morning. "We want a deal with no reprisals or prosecution. People are edgy, but everybody understands everybody."

In early afternoon, the inmates said they had heard a rumor that two of the hostages had been shot, and they escorted an ABC newsman, Roger Peterson, to a food storage area where they were being held.

Peterson later told other reporters that the seven men being held appeared to be well and were being well fed.

Arafat: U.S., Israel Plan Blitzkrieg War

By United Press International
Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat said Thursday Israel is planning a surprise offensive against Syria and southern Lebanon and the United States will seize the opportunity to occupy Arab oil fields.

In an interview with an Indian correspondent, distributed by the guerrilla news agency Wafa in Beirut, Arafat said: "The situation could turn into an international catastrophe in six months."

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Israel was mentally and militarily prepared for another war with the Arabs and would emerge victorious should one be forced on it.

Israeli newspapers said the majority of Israel's cabinet privately favors giving back most of the occupied West Bank of Jordan to King Hussein as part of a Middle East peace settlement.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon told a gathering at Tel Aviv University that competition between the United States and the Soviet Union for influence in the Middle East could undermine prospects for a peace settlement.

"In theory at least, the United States and the Soviet Union may fulfill a key role in bringing peace to the Middle East," Allon said. "But their competition for influence in the area is just as likely to undermine a settlement, whether on purpose or by accident."

Arafat said: "There is an American-Israeli conspiracy. Israel will launch a blitzkrieg war against Syria and south Lebanon, while the United States seizes the opportunity to occupy Arab oil wells."

"The American-Israeli plan is being implemented now," he said. "Joint military maneuvers are being held in the American desert, with the specific aim of training American soldiers in desert warfare."

In a speech to aircraft workers outside Tel Aviv, Rabin said: "We are stronger. We are readier and more mentally prepared for a military confrontation if a war should be forced upon us."

Girl Loses Leg

Jerusalem (UPI) — Doctors Thursday amputated the right leg of 16-year-old Dejean Repligle, the Jacksonville, Fla., girl wounded in an Arab guerrilla grenade attack on a bus carrying Christmas pilgrims five days ago.

Prof. Meyer Makin, head of Hadassah Hospital's orthopedic department who performed the surgery, said only that he amputated the leg above the knee and described her condition "as expected after an operation such as this."

Dejean underwent a 15-hour operation Sunday to repair damage to the thigh and a fracture of her right hip, a hospital spokesman said.

Japanese Army Stray Lived Naked

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — An Indonesian air force team has tracked down a World War II straggler from the Japanese army who was living naked on the jungle island of Morotai, Air Force Maj. Suparno reported Thursday.

He identified the man as Teruo Nakamura 57, and said he would be flown soon to Jakarta for a medical examination and probable repatriation to Japan.

In Tokyo, officials of the Health and Welfare Ministry said old army records listed Teruo Nakamura as a Takasago tribesman from Taiwan who entered the Japanese army in 1943 and received training with a guerrilla unit before being sent to Morotai in January 1944. The Americans advanced through the island group to support the invasion of the Philippines, and Nakamura was reported missing in action on March 5, 1945, according to the ministry's records.

Suparno said an air force team found signs of the straggler and tracked him down.

CAB Accuses Airlines

Washington (Star-News) — The Civil Aeronautics Board's enforcement staff accused 20 airlines, including virtually all of the nation's largest, of illegally giving preferential treatment to government officials and others whose influence could affect the airlines' future. The CAB's Bureau of Enforcement said the airlines singled out congressmen and other government officials, as well as corporate executives — and, in at least one case, corporate secretaries who book their bosses' flights — for special treatment.

Helms Can't Recall

Washington — Richard Helms told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a secret hearing in February 1973, that he could not "recall" whether the White House had urged the Central Intelligence Agency to increase its domestic spying because of increasing antiwar activity in 1969 and 1970. His testimony was given four months before the first published accounts of the so-called Huston Plan for illegal spying proposed in 1970 by a White House staff member, Tom Charles Huston.

DC-10 Report Released

New York — In a formerly secret report on the DC-10 crash near Paris last March, in which 346 persons died, the Federal Aviation Administration has been charged by its own inquiry board with "questionable" actions in certifying the plane and with being "ineffective" in enforcing corrective steps after a near-disaster involving another DC-10 in 1972. The report, made in mid-April, was made public as pressure increased on the FAA to order new safety measures for the more than 160 DC-10's now in service.

Model Beaten To Death

New York — While at least one neighbor heard her dying screams and did nothing, Sandra Zahler, a 25-year-old model, was beaten to death early Christmas Day in her apartment, which virtually overlooks the site of the murder of Catherine Genovese 10 years ago.

Tokyo — In an effort to increase public confidence in his leadership, Premier Takeo Miki made public a list of his personal assets Thursday, the first time a Japanese head of government has done so. The disclosure showed that Miki owned land, houses and stocks worth $1,078,400, a substantial though not enormous fortune in Japan.

U.S., Israel Conflicts Anticipated

©The New York Times

Jerusalem — New and conspicuous diplomatic tension seems to be building up between the United States and Israel on the eve of the next round of negotiations with Egypt over the Sinai Peninsula.

The tension has been reflected in the public and private remarks of officials in both capitals. It is a result more of anticipated conflicts between the two countries than of any specific problem that has developed so far.

Washington and Jerusalem have expressed concern that a serious collision of interests might emerge between the United States and Israel when hard bargaining over Sinai gets under way with Egypt.

Preliminary contacts toward a new Sinai agreement have already begun through Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Detailed negotiations are expected to start in January or February.

An initial Sinai agreement was reached between Israel and Egypt early this year and resulted in a disengagement of forces on the Suez front. A second-stage agreement is under consideration now.

Reduced to its simplest terms, the possible conflict envisioned by the officials is as follows:

The United States, concerned about the possibility of renewed fighting in the Middle East, the imposition of another oil embargo and resulting economic chaos, is expected to press Israel to agree to significant territorial and political concessions in the negotiations.

In a White House meeting two weeks ago, President Ford reportedly warned the Israeli deputy premier and foreign minister, Yigal Allon, that another oil embargo would be a "disaster" for the West. He is also quoted by officials here as having told Allon flatly that Israel's opening proposal for the negotiations is "unattainable" and that it would have to settle for considerably less.

Finally, according to officials here, Ford stressed that in the American view, political movement was crucial to peace in the Middle East and Israel would have to help achieve it.

Israel, by contrast, is said to believe that major concessions to Egypt at this point would serve only to whet the Arab appetite for further Israeli withdrawals and to hasten war rather than postpone it.

In addition, Israel is eager to buy time in the forthcoming negotiations. Premier Yitzhak Rabin has conceded this publicly, explaining that Israel "needs time to recuperate."

Specifically, the Israelis want to complete rebuilding and retraining their army, which suffered major losses of equipment and manpower in the war with the Arabs last year. The first and most crucial phase of this process is expected to end by April, when emergency arms deliveries program from the United States will be completed.

In the longer term, Israel is eager to buy time until the world energy situation stabilizes and oil becomes less useful as a weapon for the Arab states. In addition, the Israelis are aware the United States will hold a presidential election in 1976, and that at such times their political strength in Washington is usually enhanced.

Newly Vibrant Economy Buys Cuban Confidence

By GEORGE GEDDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba observes the 16th anniversary of its revolution on Jan. 2, its confidence buoyed by a newly vibrant economy and an increasingly congenial outside world.

The hemispheric embargo of Cuba technically is still a reality, but the regime seems to be doing better than many of those that conspired so long to impoverish it. Cuba's $630 a year per capita income ranks in the top third among Latin American countries.

That estimate is from data prepared by U.S. experts for the congressional Joint Economic Committee; other figures about the Cuban economy come from Western diplomats and State Department officials.

In one important respect, socialist Cuba is capitalizing on a phenomenon which is a scourge to so many other countries, international inflation. The record world market price of sugar is expected to bring in some $3 billion in foreign exchange earnings in 1975. Cuba's export earnings from all sources in 1973 totaled $1 billion.

With a steady flow of low-priced oil from the Soviet Union, Cuba has not felt the effects of the energy crisis. Moscow is apparently determined to make Cuba a socialist showcase, chipping in with large-scale technical assistance and with more than $500 million a year in economic aid.

At 47, Prime Minister Fidel Castro is the vice dean of Latin American heads of government. His regime appears to be as secure as any in the region.

Most of Castro's enemies are dead, jailed, in exile or intimidated by the ubiquitous Committees for the Defense of the Revolution, to which an estimated 4 million Cubans belong.

The low point for Castro came in 1970 when the economy was near collapse. A million Cubans had been mobilized to work on the sugar harvest, with disastrous effects for other, neglected sectors of the economy. The 8.5 million-ton harvest fell short of the regime's goal but nonetheless was large enough to depress world market prices, compounding the nation's economic disarray. Cuban officials now concede that an added problem was an excessive reliance on moral incentives to get workers to produce.

The adoption of more conventional management principles, combined with the material incentives for workers, appears to have had a salutary effect on the economy. Cubans still stand in line to buy many consumer items but the wait isn't as long as it once was.

Armed Inmates Free 7 Hostages Unharmmed

LORTON, Va. (AP) — Armed inmates released seven hostages unharmed at Lorton Reformatory Thursday after receiving what they regarded as assurances they would not be punished for their role in an attempted mass escape.

The end came peacefully in midafternoon almost 20 hours after the prison uprising began Christmas night.

Three inmates escaped and one was killed in the attempt. About 100 were involved. Originally 10 hostages had been seized, but one was released around midnight and two more late Thursday morning.

The rebellious inmates gave up their siege upon being shown a letter approved by the Department of Justice. It assured them there would be no prosecution for offenses arising out of the disturbance without consultations with Delbert Jackson, the director of the Department of Corrections for the District of Columbia, which operates the prison in this rural Virginia area about 15 miles south of Washington, D.C.

U.S. Atty. David Hopkins. The acting federal prison director, Roy Gerard, earlier had signed an agreement that none of the inmates involved would be transferred to other federal prisons.

When the break came, the prisoners had members of their families and visitors escorted to the middle of the prison yard.

Newsman talked with Thomas Reed, an inmate leader who is serving two life terms of murder. "All this stems from the dehumanizing conditions at Lorton," he said.

He said the inmates wanted members of their families to witness their return to cellblocks because "we're concerned about getting back in the block without being whipped."

The hostages, all prison guards, were escorted through a gate in the prison wall for a reunion with their families.

Jackson told reporters he intends to live up to the assurances he gave the rebellious inmates. Asked if that meant there would be no reprisals, he replied: "Without question."

He said he would do everything possible to meet demands for what they called more humane conditions, adding that "there is always room for change at Lorton."

The prisoners had called in a lawyer, Lawrence Jamison, to help with the negotiations toward a pledge of no reprisals.

"We are moving as fast as we can to wrap things up," he said in late morning. "We want a deal with no reprisals or prosecution. People are edgy, but everybody understands everybody."

In early afternoon, the inmates said they had heard a rumor that two of the hostages had been shot, and they escorted an ABC newsman, Roger Peterson, to a food storage area where they were being held.

Peterson later told other reporters that the seven men being held appeared to be well and were being well fed.

A Forgettable Story

We have never understood why the Patty Hearst kidnapping was such big news.

But Associated Press member editors and news directors have picked the Patty Hearst turnabout — from victim to terrorist — No. Four on the list of the top ten news stories of 1974.

This has been a tremendous news year, full of historic political firsts, war and peace, gloomy economic trends and the awakening realization that the "haves" in this world will be forced by former "have nots" to limit their use of natural resources and change their lifestyles.

The culmination of Watergate — the disgrace and resignation of Richard Nixon; the first time a U.S. president has resigned under fire — was the No. One news story and few would doubt that choice. Recession and inflation were second on the list and the energy crisis — which may become the story of the decade — was third. Followed by the trials and tribulations of Patty Hearst. She ranked ahead of the Nixon pardon, which in our opinion was a far more horrible crime; the voters' punishment of the Republican Party, which certainly has more political significance than the demise of the Symbionese Liberation Army; Kissinger's Middle East peace efforts, which will have greater impact on mankind; the amnesty plan, which affects not just one, but thousands, of estranged young Americans; the firestorm on Cyprus, which made the Los Angeles shootout look like a picnic and the inauguration of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president. He is the wealthiest American ever to serve in that capacity. Patty is wealthy, but not that wealthy.

The Hearst story is a personal and family tragedy and due to the celebrity of the family and the odd-ball nature of her tormenters-turned-tutors, it deserved publicity. But not the day-to-day banner headlines it received. If and when she comes home we are resigned to one more front page spread and spectacular coverage by the networks on the evening news, but we hope that wraps it up.

The story was titillating and morbidly exciting in some respects, as good-girl-turned-bad stories usually are. But the whole incident was an anachronism; strangely out of place in 1974. And except to the family, of no relevance.

The Patty Hearst kidnapping is on our list of top ten stories to forget.

At The Public's Mercy

The dead Kennedy brothers, as others in the glare of the public spotlight, were philosophical about their fate.

Summed up, their attitude seemed to be that if there is a maniac out there who wants to get you, he probably will and there is really very little you can do about it.

The incident at the White House Christmas Day again highlights the security problem surrounding public figures.

The fellow crashed through the gates in an automobile and held security people at bay by claiming he was wired to explode. He was wired with nothing more dangerous than warning flares but the point is, it could have been something more dangerous.

The security people showed compassion, not wanting to kill a person attacking an empty house, and the story came to an end without blood being spilled. That story is reminiscent of the young Army private who landed a helicopter on the White House lawn, after buzzing the mansion and other memorials in the Capitol. He didn't hurt anybody, either, nor was he hurt himself. But the potential for danger was obvious.

Upon hearing of the latest episode, President Ford was reported as considering the option of increasing White House security.

Perhaps a review of security precautions is in order, but in reality, as the Kennedys understood, there is very little one in that position can do to control his destiny.

JAMES RESTON

A Time For Unity

WASHINGTON — At the end of 1974, a time of economic and political turmoil in the world, a strong case can be made for the creation of a bipartisan government of national unity in Washington.

It could not be a "national government" in Canadian or British parliamentary terms, but it might help, especially now when President Ford is reorganizing his administration and calling for a moratorium on partisan rancor.

Accordingly, in the present exceptional circumstances, it is in Ford's power to select a cabinet from the best men and women in the country, regardless of party, and at least try to negotiate a compromise program with the Democratic leaders for the last two years of his term.

These two years will carry us to the 200th anniversary of the Republic — obviously an occasion for national unity — and into the last quarter of the century, when the purpose and performance of the United States will be critical, and maybe even decisive, for the peace and order of the world.

Like the period between Munich and the outbreak of the second world war, the nation now faces what Henry L. Stimson then called "a clear and present danger." It is not a danger of war now but of economic trouble at home and monetary and political chaos abroad.

Franklin Roosevelt reacted to Stimson's call for unity by putting him and Frank Knox, both Republicans, into the cabinet. This was more symbolic than anything else, but it reassured a troubled people that their political leaders were going to work together and put the national interest ahead of personal or party interest.

The trend now in Washington is in the opposite direction. As prices and unemployment rise, partisan tension increases. The Democrats are coming into the 94th Congress next month with formidable majorities, but with no agreed remedies for the recession.

At one and the same time, they proclaim their willingness to cooperate with Ford, but try to make him look like another Herbert Hoover. Meanwhile, the presidential campaign of 1976 has already started, and personal ambitions are beginning to add to the confusion, not only on domestic economic policy, but in the nation's relations with the Soviet Union, China, Europe, and the Middle East.

In fairness, the Democratic leaders in Congress — Mike Mansfield in the Senate and Speaker Albert and Majority Leader Tip O'Neill in the House — are trying to cooperate with Ford, but there is no party program, allegiance, or discipline. They can talk and sympathize at the White House, but they cannot deliver.

The President is in a stronger position. He can act, and appoint, and offer partnership to the Democrats in the cabinet and in the formulation of policy, and if he did so, with all the means of communication at his disposal, they could scarcely refuse.

If the public opinion polls mean anything, the American people are sick of personal and party ambitions, and they're longing for unity to deal with their economic troubles, and their personal doubts, fears, and frustrations.

But, as Jerry Ford, the old Michigan football player knows, timing is critical and quick-opening plays are either quick or dead. He is merely talking about a moratorium on partisan squabbling over economic policy and a partnership with the Democrats, but is not acting on them, and once he gets rid of the old Nixon team and appoints one of his own, he will probably be stuck with it for the next two years.

The objection to a bipartisan government of unity, of course, is that the President would have to negotiate with the Democratic leaders about the program he proposes to put before the new 94th Congress, but he will have to negotiate with them anyway, either before the Congress meets or after, for they have the votes not only to defeat his party programs but even to override his vetoes.

Ford has promised to cooperate with the Democrats, to consult and conciliate, but not to share responsibility, and this may be the only way and the only time to avoid a party struggle which could only make the economic crisis even more difficult than it is.

MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — One of the direct aspects of the American political system is the duration of our presidential campaings. To the exclusion of almost everything else, they begin a year and a half or two years before the election. It is this prospect that gives such an ominous look to 1975.

With candidates, on the Democratic side at least, dropping out of every tree, we shall be treated to endless appraisals of their party standing, their chances, their rating in the polls. In most of the political reporting, what they stand for on the issues will seem almost irrelevant.

That this is the likely fare for the coming year must be deeply disturbing in light of the decisions that cannot be ducked in 1975. First and foremost, is a new SALT agreement to be signed with the Soviet Union if there is a chance for a pause in the nuclear arms race.

To make SALT a political football is to gamble with the future not alone of this nation but the human race. That is what Sen. Henry M. Jackson, the leading Democratic candidate, is doing. He is setting out to block the tentative agreement signed by President Ford and Chairman Brezhnev in Vladivostok. And beyond that he will presumably try to sink what is ultimately worked out in detail under the Vladivostok umbrella.

In this there is a supreme irony. Jackson fought the SALT I agreement because it put restraints on the number of weapons the United States could have. It was too restricting. He is opposing Vladivostok and the ceilings agreed to there because the way is opened, or so he charges, to the acquisition by both sides of too many offensive nuclear weapons.

During the alarm he sounded over SALT I, the important gain marked by that agreement signed in May, 1972 was obscured. Banning the anti-ballistic missile except for one agreed site, it prevented a race in this department — largely theoretical and probably futile — that could have cost many billions of dollars. In addition, SALT I put a temporary hold on offensive missiles for a five-year period.

The details of this agreement, growing out of difficult and complex negotiations, were owed to Gerard C. Smith, head of the SALT delegation, more than to any single individual. Against this background, his opinion of Vladivostok should carry great weight.

In Smith's view, it is important above all because for the first time the Russians are on record about their future intentions. They have agreed to a ceiling of 2,400 missiles with 1,320 MIRVed warheads. Ten years ago, or perhaps even five years ago, intelligence on Soviet intentions would have been worth any price.

They may, of course, cheat. They may go back on the agreement so cheerfully signed at Vladivostok. But there it is on the record, and cheating or reneging would be a piece of willful folly. As Secretary of State Kissinger has stressed, negotiation can eventually, and long before the term of the negotiation in 1985, bring lower levels.

If the nuclear arms race is pre-eminent in the coming year, in immediate concern here at home the economy is a close second. With a new top-heavy Democratic Congress quarreling with a stubborn President over what measures must be taken to assist the 6.5 million unemployed, the end result is likely to be zero. Proliferating Democratic candidates will set their speechwriters to work embroiling their cures for the current ills.

In the waning days of the old Congress, one long-delayed step was taken. The Senate passed the trade reform act and before the final bell the two houses reached agreement. This was with the amendment containing a Jackson compromise on Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union. The way will be open to U.S. trade with the Communist countries of Eastern Europe.

Why not a moratorium on presidential politics? For a year? For six months? That is the impossible dream.

They are already beating the bushes from coast to coast. Fred Harris, who was defeated for re-election to the Senate from Oklahoma, is musing through the snows of New Hampshire to get on the starter's mark for that bogus primary nearly a year and a half away. And so it will go for weary month after month with news manufactured by these dubious hopefuls.

WILLIAM SAFIRE

WASHINGTON — "Linkage" — that old Nixon policy toward the Soviet Union demanding tit for tat — is dead. Its interment will take place when President Ford, in accordance with the trade bill the Congress has passed, gives the Soviets what they want most: "Most favored nation" status, a lowering of tariffs, and an economic boost.

In return for this important concession, the Soviet Union will give us nothing. But wait — what of the Jackson amendment, which supposedly ties trade concessions to the relaxation of Russian restrictions on the emigration of Jews and dissidents?

The Jackson amendment has become a fraud not because Senator Jackson is a fraud, but because the letter-treaty from Secretary Kissinger, on which it is based, has already been shown to be fraudulent.

"We have been assured," the secretary testified to the Senate on Dec. 3, that unreasonable impediments to Soviet emigration would be removed if the trade bill were passed. Assured by whom? asked a senator. By Messrs. Brezhnev, Gromyko and Dobrynin, replied Dr. Kissinger.

Even as he was passing along this assurance, the secretary had in his pocket a letter from Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko explicitly and heatedly denying any such assurances. The Gromyko letter of Oct. 26, which was not made public until after the Senate voted on the trade bill, warned that "attempts are being made to ascribe to the elucidations that were furnished by us the nature of some assurances, and, nearly, obligations on our part . . . we resolutely decline such an interpretation."

For the past week, Soviet newspapers and television have been making clear that there is no trade-for-emigration deal, ominously discouraging any of its citizens from making application to emigrate. Ignore those protestations, says our State Department; just a face-saving gesture, agrees Jackson: "Don't watch what they say, watch what they do" is our Mitchelian attitude.

What the Soviets have done in the past year, of course, is to reduce emigration by one third, from 35,000 in 1973 to 22,500 in 1974, and Gromyko writes us that there is a "present tendency toward a decrease in the number of persons wishing to leave the U.S.S.R." How's that for an "assurance" of freeing more Jews?

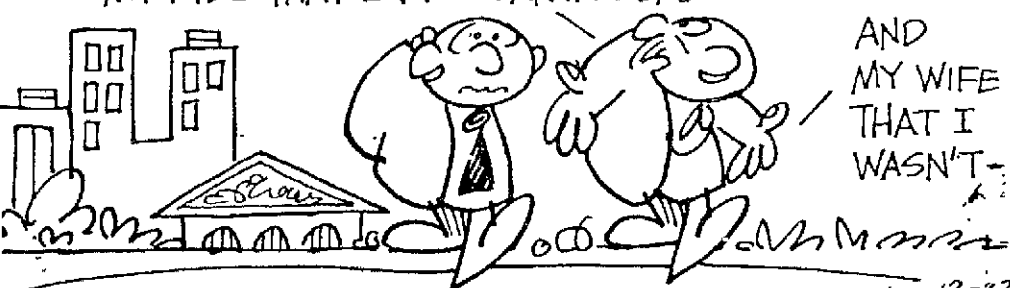

Senators Jackson, Ribicoff and Javits, good men acting in good faith, claim there is a safeguard built into the trade bill. "Our priority is with the President," says Javits; unless the President has "assurances" from the Soviets to liberalize emigration, he cannot lawfully give them most-favored-nation status.

helping to push the economy uphill, the unemployment rate had been reduced to 14.3%.

But, unduly frightened of inflation, the Federal Reserve slammed on the brakes in 1937, and the economy began to plummet. Unemployment in 1938 climbed to 19%. But since no one could bear the thought that the economy was falling back into depression, the term (or euphemism) "recession" caught on.

It was not until 1942, when the United States swung into full war production, that the jobless rate got down to 4.7% — reasonably full employment by current standards. In 1944 the unemployment rate hit an all-time low of 1.2%.

In retrospect, the entire period of the 1930's came to be called the Great Depression, since double-digit unemployment persisted through 1940. It is worth remembering, however, that in 1930, the year after the crash, the unemployment rate averaged only 8.7% — a rate that is by no means unimaginable for 1975. In November, 1974, the unemployment rate was 6.5%, but it is apparently rising.

Arthur F. Burns, then honorary chairman of the National Bureau of Economic Research and now chairman of the Federal Board, in 1968 used the terms "recession" and

"depression" in a way that implied recessions could abscess into depressions.

"As a decline in one sector reacts on another," Burns wrote, "the economy may begin spiraling downward on a scale that outruns the magnitudes that we ordinarily associate with recession."

The likelihood that a depression will then develop, he said, will depend on many factors, among them —

— The scale of speculation during the preceding phase of prosperity.

— The extent to which credit was permitted to grow.

— Whether or not the quality of credit suffered significant deterioration.

— Whether any major markets became saturated.

— How much excess capacity had been created before the recession started.

— Whether and in what degree the balance of payments had become adverse.

— The organization of the financial system and its ability to withstand shocks.

— The shape of political developments.

— And the aptness and scale of monetary actions and other governmental efforts, if any, to stem the economic decline.

When businessmen and their bankers scramble for liquidity, trade credit and bank credit will drop, and the money supply will decline. "Confidence," said Burns, "will become impaired and many investment projects will be abandoned instead of being merely postponed."

More workers will earn less and lose their jobs. More and more families will deplete their savings and cut their spending drastically.

Even if the shift from expansion to contraction is made gradually, Burns said, "disturbances originating outside the economy may still strike with great force and transform a mild contraction into a depression." Could an oil embargo and an energy crisis do this? Could a run on gold?

Using the Burnian check list, there are obvious reasons for worry about the current situation.

There was much speculation in the go-go years of the preceding prosperity. Credit expanded enormously, and the quality of credit deteriorated.

The market for autos does look temporarily saturated, at least according to the analysis of Sindlinger & Co., the marketing research organization.

On the basis of its consumer surveys and analysis of past consumer "hedge buying" of cars, Sindlinger forecasts that auto sales in 1975 will be less than 7 million units, including imports — 39% less than the 11.4 million units sold in 1973.

Consumer, business and investor confidence is low. The United States balance of payments has slid into fairly deep deficit.

But there are also grounds for reasonable hope.

American industry was not on the whole beset with excess capacity before the current recession began; several industries, such as steel and paper, were hard pressed for adequate capacity — hence the strength of capital spending.

Thus far the financial system has withstood shocks — with the help of Burns and the Federal Reserve, and of federal deposit insurance. More rescues — of non-banking corporations may yet be needed.

Political strengths in the immediate situation are more debatable. The Ford administration seems slowly to be rebuilding faith in government after the Nixon debacle, but it is moving to combat recession very hesitantly. Internationally, the politics of oil and the threat of war in the Middle East are negative factors.

Most importantly, the Federal Reserve system has shifted from an excessively tight money policy to moderate stimulation. The money supply has not fallen as in the Great Depression, and now seems unlikely to do so; on the contrary, it should grow faster in the months ahead.

We have had a "quiet" financial crisis. If a much noisier and more devastating one can be avoided, this recession, though likely to be the longest and worst of the postwar period, need not turn into a depression of the 1929-33 ("dread-all") class.

A Forgettable Story

We have never understood why the Patty Hearst kidnapping was such big news.

But Associated Press member editors and news directors have picked the Patty Hearst turnabout — from victim to terrorist — No. Four on the list of the top ten news stories of 1974.

This has been a tremendous news year, full of historic political firsts, war and peace, gloomy economic trends and the awakening realization that the "haves" in this world will be forced by former "have nots" to limit their use of natural resources and change their lifestyles.

The culmination of Watergate — the disgrace and resignation of Richard Nixon; the first time a U.S. president has resigned under fire — was the No. One news story and few would doubt that choice. Recession and inflation were second on the list and the energy crisis — which may become the story of the decade — was third. Followed by the trials and tribulations of Patty Hearst. She ranked ahead of the Nixon pardon, which in our opinion was a far more horrible crime; the voters' punishment of the Republican Party, which certainly has more political significance than the demise of the Symbionese Liberation Army; Kissinger's Middle East peace efforts, which will have greater impact on mankind; the amnesty plan, which affects not just one, but thousands, of estranged young Americans; the firestorm on Cyprus, which made the Los Angeles shootout look like a picnic and the inauguration of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president. He is the wealthiest American ever to serve in that capacity. Patty is wealthy, but not that wealthy.

The Hearst story is a personal and family tragedy and due to the celebrity of the family and the odd-ball nature of her tormenters-turned-tutors, it deserved publicity. But not the day-to-day banner headlines it received. If and when she comes home we are resigned to one more front page spread and spectacular coverage by the networks on the evening news, but we hope that wraps it up.

The story was titillating and morbidly exciting in some respects, as good-girl-turned-bad stories usually are. But the whole incident was an anachronism; strangely out of place in 1974. And except to the family, of no relevance.

The Patty Hearst kidnapping is on our list of top ten stories to forget.

At The Public's Mercy

The dead Kennedy brothers, as others in the glare of the public spotlight, were philosophical about their fate.

Summed up, their attitude seemed to be that if there is a maniac out there who wants to get you, he probably will and there is really very little you can do about it.

The incident at the White House Christmas Day again highlights the security problem surrounding public figures.

The fellow crashed through the gates in an automobile and held security people at bay by claiming he was wired to explode. He was wired with nothing more dangerous than warning flares but the point is, it could have been something more dangerous.

The security people showed compassion, not wanting to kill a person attacking an empty house, and the story came to an end without blood being spilled. That story is reminiscent of the young Army private who landed a helicopter on the White House lawn, after buzzing the mansion and other memorials in the Capitol. He didn't hurt anybody, either, nor was he hurt himself. But the potential for danger was obvious.

Upon hearing of the latest episode, President Ford was reported as considering the option of increasing White House security.

Perhaps a review of security precautions is in order, but in reality, as the Kennedys understood, there is very little one in that position can do to control his destiny.

LEONARD SILK

NEW YORK — Are we in a recession or depression? Obviously the question is not one of mere semantics. But before the question can be answered, the terms "recession" and "depression" must be defined.

Among economists, unfortunately, there are no standard definitions of the terms. Back in 1936, when Prof. Gottfried Haberler wrote his classic study, "Prosperity and Depression," for the League of Nations, he did not use the term "recession" at all.

Haberler defined the upswing of the business cycle as "prosperity"; the upper turning point as a "crisis"; the downswing as a "depression," and the lower turning point of the cycle as "revival."

Haberler noted that the term "crisis," which to the economist was technically the period when expansion turned into contraction, meant something more dramatic to the public and the financial press: "A state of acute financial stringency, panic, runs on the banks, drain of gold, bankruptcies, etc."

When such a "popular" crisis occurred, its "detonation" could cause the over-all economic situation to deteriorate. But not every financial panic led to a depression. And some slumps (all of which were "depressions" in Haberler's lexicon) happened without a preceding financial crisis.

Although one can find earlier examples of its use, the term "recession" did not burst into popular consciousness — or common economic usage — until the sharp setback of 1937-38.

The Great Depression had begun at the end of 1929 (preceded of course by financial crisis) and had ended (at least technically) in 1933; the unemployment rate, which was 3.2% of the labor force in 1929, had climbed to 24.9% in 1933. By 1937, with New Deal programs helping to push the economy uphill, the unemployment rate had been reduced to 14.3%.

But, unduly frightened of inflation, the Federal Reserve slammed on the brakes in 1937, and the economy began to plummet. Unemployment in 1938 climbed to 19%. But since no one could bear the thought that the economy was falling back into depression, the term (or euphemism) "recession" caught on.

In November, 1974, the unemployment rate was 6.5%, but it is apparently rising.

Arthur F. Burns, then honorary chairman of the National Bureau of Economic Research and now chairman of the Federal Board, in 1968 used the terms "recession" and

"depression" in a way that implied recessions could abscess into depressions.

"As a decline in one sector reacts on another," Burns wrote, "the economy may begin spiraling downward on a scale that outruns the magnitudes that we ordinarily associate with recession."

The likelihood that a depression will then develop, he said, will depend on many factors, among them —

— The scale of speculation during the preceding phase of prosperity.

Even if the shift from expansion to contraction is made gradually, Burns said, "disturbances originating outside the economy may still strike with great force and transform a mild contraction into a depression." Could an oil embargo and an energy crisis do this? Could a run on gold?

Using the Burnsian check list, there are obvious reasons for worry about the current situation.

There was much speculation in the go-go years of the preceding prosperity. Credit expanded enormously, and the quality of credit deteriorated.

The market for autos does look temporarily saturated, at least according to the analysis of Sindlinger & Co., the marketing research organization.

On the basis of its consumer surveys and analysis of past consumer "hedge buying" of cars, Sindlinger forecasts that auto sales in 1975 will be less than 7 million units, including imports — 39% less than the 11.4 million units sold in 1973.

Consumer, business and investor confidence is low. The United States balance of payments has slid into fairly deep deficit.

But there are also grounds for reasonable hope.

American industry was not on the whole beset with excess capacity before the current recession began; several industries, such as steel and paper, were hard pressed for adequate capacity — hence the strength of capital spending.

Thus far the financial system has withstood shocks — with the help of Burns and the Federal Reserve, and of federal deposit insurance. More rescues — of non-banking corporations may yet be needed.

Political strengths in the immediate situation are more debatable. The Ford administration seems slowly to be rebuilding faith in government after the Nixon debacle, but it is moving to combat recession very hesitantly. Internationally, the politics of oil and the threat of war in the Middle East are negative factors.

Most importantly, the Federal Reserve system has shifted from an excessively tight money policy to moderate stimulation. The money supply has not fallen as in the Great Depression, and now seems unlikely to do so; on the contrary, it should grow faster in the months ahead.

We have had a "quiet" financial crisis. If a much noisier and more devastating one can be avoided, this recession, though likely to be the longest and worst of the postwar period, need not turn into a depression of the 1929-33 ("dread-all") class.

TALL—Building And Aspirations

Swedeburg — Standing tall above the prairie southwest of here, the vertical lines of Grace Evangelical Lutheran's church spire recall the spiritual aspirations of the handful of Swedish settlers who formed a congregation here in 1870.

Services were held in the Swedish language as late as 1940. The membership rolls still read like a Stockholm telephone directory.

Grace Evangelical's membership has been declining since World War II. The Rev. Jim Munson, who divides his time between Grace and its Ceresco sister church, says Grace's membership stands at 100 and is likely to continue declining — despite the church's rural appeal, which draws two young Lincoln couples out for services. Most of the members, he says, are elderly.

Charter members, determined not to let a mere change of scenery disrupt their traditional worship, organized within a year after arrival in Nebraska. They bought a quarter-section of ground to provide for a cemetery, and built a prosaic 18-by-24-foot church (originally named Swedeburg Evangelical Lutheran) in 1873 at a cost of $400. Hymn books brought from the old country were used at first.

The first minister called was the Rev. S. G. Larson, the first Lutheran missionary pastor to be sent to the West. He helped organize Swedish congregations in Mead and Malmo as well as Swedeburg. The Swedeburg congregation paid him $30 a month to preach every sixth week.

The little church was replaced with a larger (32-by-40-foot) one in 1879. The present structure, a handsome, classic Midwestern country church with ornate stained-glass windows, was erected in 1915 at a cost of $20,000. The pipe organ was installed the following year for $3,200.

The early congregation suffered nearly as much from internal division as from the privations of prairie life. Factional strife broke out in 1876, and followers of the splinter Waldenstrom movement left to form their own Mission Church.

A separate church building was built in Ceresco in 1915, and four years later Ceresco parishioners split to form their own congregation.

Grace Evangelical is notable for the numerous foreign missionaries it has produced, according to longtime member Arvid Larson of Swedeburg. Several Lutheran ministers have emerged from the congregation as well.

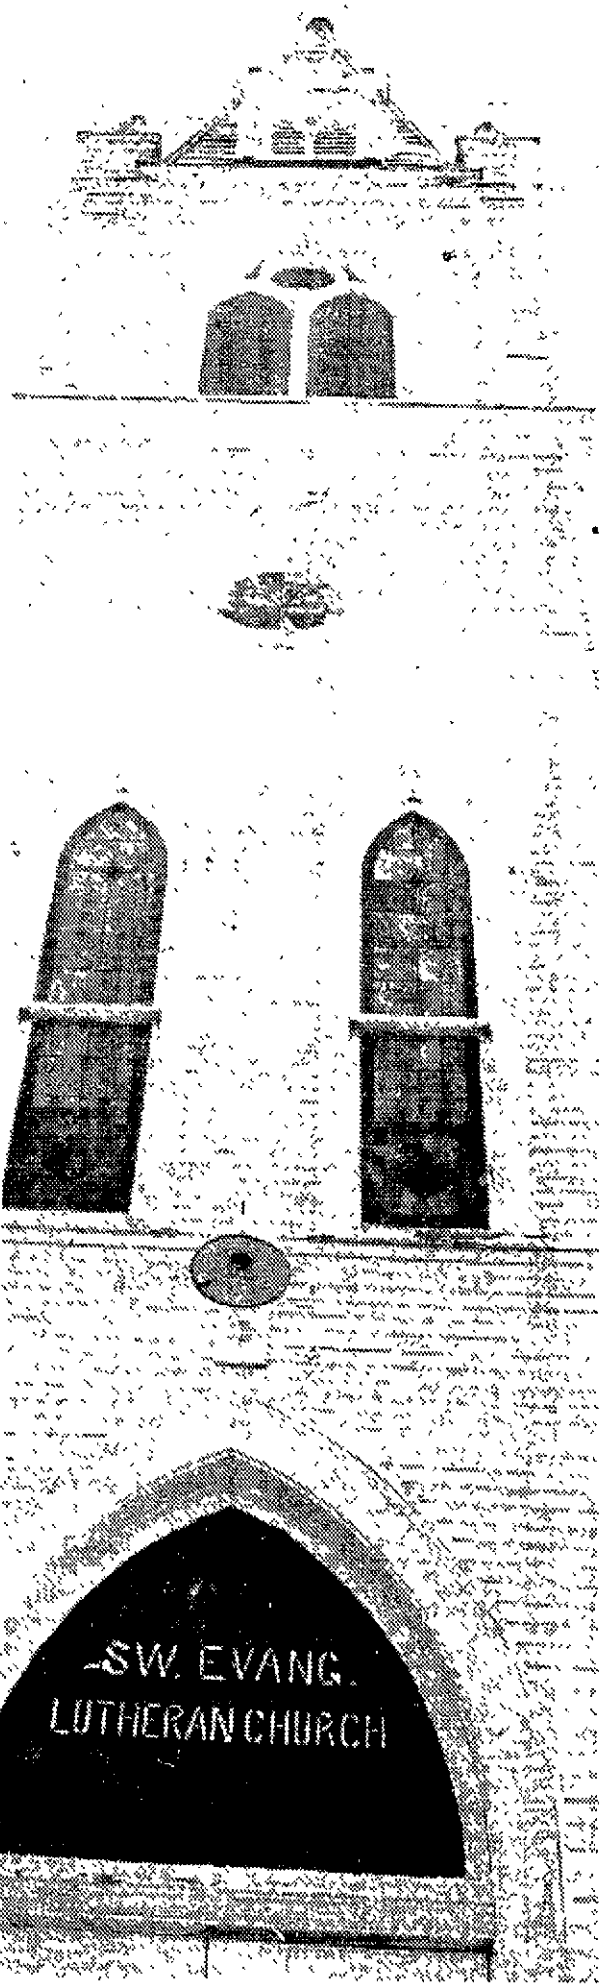

In 1940, the church's name was changed from Swedeburg Evangelical Lutheran to Grace Evangelical Lutheran.

Hong Kong — In the little stands along the waterfront, where the ferries and the wallah-wallah boats run across to Kowloon, they sell hot water by the cup.

In my room at the Hyatt Regency, I have a carafe of cold water and a thermos of hot water.

"What for Chinese drink hot water?" I asked the room boy.

"Hot water good for inside," he said. "What for American all time drink ice water?"

This question has put me in a swivet. I may have to go out and get some powdered rhinoceros horn. It cools down the blood. I suppose you take aspirin. Now there's a quaint custom!

Hong Kong is rainy these winter days. The big fishing junks with brown butterfly wing sails and painted eyes drift down to sea under grey skies. Overhead and above the clouds, you can hear the whistle of British jets.

Nobody thinks the Red China armies will cross the border a few miles away. But all wealthy Chinese in Hong Kong have an escape route planned. Mostly to Portuguese Macao, 75 minutes by hydrofoil away.

The Urban Council is having a problem. Since the American Navy has come to the Far East. The Urban Council announces it is in the market for a good street scraper.

"To remove the wads of chewing gum deposited by the world's richest Navy."

The lobby of the very stuffy Peninsula Hotel is the afternoon social spot for tea.

It is full of traders and tourists. Air line personnel and Army. Everybody sits around casing his neighbor. (For Hong Kong is supposed to be filled with Red China spies.) Eddie is typical.

Eddie looks like something out of "foreign intrigue" on TV. Eddie's business is selling old clothes. He buys old clothing in New York and sells it in the Far East. Particularly the Moslem countries.

Court: Utmost Resistance Unneeded To Prove Rape

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Supreme Court upheld three rape convictions Thursday, saying a victim does not have to resist to the utmost to prove she was forcibly raped.

A woman, who the court identified only as Carol, was abducted by four young men from an Omaha street Aug. 28, 1973. She resisted the abduction, but the men struck her.

They claimed she did not resist when the four of them had intercourse with her on a country road outside Omaha.

The court said "A woman is not required to subject herself to threatened serious bodily harm or death by resisting to the utmost of her physical ability so long as she has strength to do so. Where resistance would obviously be useless, futile, or foolhardy the utmost physical resistance is not required as proof of opposition and lack of consent."

The driver of the car, Larry Harmer, was not included in the case before the court Thursday.

The other men were identified as Patrick Smith, Alvin Dye and Gary Boyee. The case was appealed from the Douglas County District Court.

The court also upheld the convictions of Richard Pope and Evelyn Kilgore for possession of cocaine and heroin. But the court did reduce her sentence from two concurrent terms of three to 10 years to two concurrent terms of two to 10 years.

They contended that the drugs seized in an Omaha drug bust were illegally obtained, but the Supreme Court upheld the Douglas County District Court in allowing the evidence.

The court upheld the Lancas-

"There is a big market for used suits. Good quality but used," said Eddie. "In the Moslem countries some guys don't want to look rich for fear they will be kidnapped. And some places guys don't want to look like they put too much money on their backs. Because the customer thinks it probably is tacked on the bill.

Eddie buys up old clothes in New York. He bales them and ships them out here where they are sorted and pressed for the market.

"All Americans and Europeans look alike," a Chinese friend told me the other day.

"You must be mistaken," I said politely. "For it is well known in my country that all Chinese look alike."

Well, what should happen today but I was coming out of Lane, Crawford, the department store on Des Voeux Road. And I ran right into Ronnie Poon. Poon is chief of the great Far East picture company run by Run-Run Shaw. I had not seen him for two years.

"Baby am I glad to see you," I said. "How does it go?"

"You horse thief," he said. "Where have you been?"

We shook hands and agreed we were doing the same old thing. I said I would drop up to his office that afternoon. And I did.

He was on the telephone when I arrived.

"No," he said. "She Couldn't Say No" isn't censored. Only 'Tarzan' is censored."

He turned around from the telephone. It was Ronnie Poon all right. But it wasn't the man I had talked to in the street.

I wonder who he was. I bet he wonders who I was.

The whole thing upset me so much I went right out and had a cup of hot water. I put a little of Aw Boon Haw's Tiger Balm in it. Tiger Balm is very soothing to the nerves.

I suppose you take sleeping pills.

The court also upheld the Platte County District Court's judgment of $36,797 against Irvin Langan and Steve Greisen for the death of Thomas Vanderberg. He died after he fell from a hayrack owned by Langan and operated by Greisen.

The court also upheld the one to three year sentence imposed on John Teten by the Otoe County District Court for possession of LSD.

Rockefellers On Caribbean Trip

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Vice President and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller arrived Thursday for a Caribbean vacation.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, a long-time Rockefeller friend, was expected to join them later.

Rockefeller was greeted at the Air National Guard base by an official contingent headed by Commonwealth Secretary of State Victor Pons, representing Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon, who is ill.

BOXING FOOD . . . Mrs. Schupbach at Lutheran Metro Parish Pantry.

Citywide Pantry Project Supplies Emergency Food

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

Thanks to the Lincoln Fellowship of Churches Citywide Pantry Project, more and more people in emergency situations are receiving a week's supply of food for their families.

In fact, Mrs. Freida Schupbach, chairman of the project, indicated that one of the affiliate pantries, Lutheran Metro Parish Pantry, has served 100 families more this year than last.

According to Mrs. Edith Svoboda, administrative assistant of the Inter-church Ministries of Nebraska, the project has provided approximately 3,000 Lincoln people with a week's supply of food since Jan. 1.

The two women attribute the increasing demand for the service to three main reasons — inflation, recent lay-offs and the cooperative effort of the project, which was initiated in July, 1973.

'Better Known Now'

"The need has gone up, but we're known now," said Mrs. Schupbach.

"And, it (the pantry program) is being more efficiently used," added Mrs. Svoboda. "Generally, all of the individual pantries have shown an increase, because our list of referral agencies wasn't as long as when they were operating separately."

Comprised of nine Lincoln pantries, the project is supported mostly by 50 area churches. Food is distributed primarily through several referral agencies, such as Lincoln Action Program, the Indian Center, the Lincoln Police Department, Good Neighbor Community Service, Catholic and Lutheran Social Services and many others.

"Our sources of food supplies are broadening," she continued. "We received four boxes of food from the Veterans Administration Hospital Personnel, who said they wanted to donate food to the project rather than buying each other Christmas gifts."

In addition, the project has received food from fraternities, sororities, Girl and Boy Scouts, civic groups and individuals.

'Want To Contribute'

"As people hear about it they do want to contribute," she explained.

Although collecting food for the pantries is an "ongoing" process at the various churches, the two women pointed out that "at various times of the year the local churches have food campaigns . . . most of the time these campaigns center around the holidays, but some churches have had their campaigns in the middle of the year. Vacation church school kids contribute, too."

And because the churches work with the cooperative project, they often can assist each other if a shortage or surplus occurs.

Help One Another

"If one pantry gets real low, it can call another for some of the goods," Mrs. Svoboda said. "And if one has an excess of some items, through the co-op they can give these to another pantry."

Most of the churches provide primarily non-perishable food to the pantries; however, "other churches do have pantry budgets, so they buy some perishable foods," she said.

"This project has been called one of the best things to come to Lincoln," she added. "And, some of the people operating the pantries are the most fantastic people — they are so committed."

But as Mrs. Schupbach sees it, it is easy for the 17 coordinators of the pantries to be dedicated to the project when they see the plight of the people they are serving.

"For example, say a family comes to town and the husband gets a job on Monday," she pointed out. He probably won't get paid for a week and often a mother will wait as long as possible to call for food for her children.

Immediate Help

"So these coordinators will fix a box, and deliver it at all times."

"Sometimes we don't understand," she added. "If we had a leaky roof, we might not like but we could draw money out of our savings to take care of it, or, since we all have jobs, we could go to the bank and take out a small loan."

"But for some people, even if it is a comparatively small amount — $10 or $20 — it has to come from somewhere."

Decide Yourself

DEAR ABBY: I have a big decision to make and I need your help. My wife died 14 months ago. She was 41, and I am 39. We never had any children as she was never strong enough.

Two women came into my life and both are pressing for marriage. One is a fine lady who could give me an easy life. By that I mean a place in society, a beautiful home and very, very secure income. I would never have to worry about money with this lady. She is a widow who says she is 51, and she looks it — and more. She can't give me a very exciting love life, however, as she is quite dried up and not a beauty by any means.

The other woman has nothing to offer except herself. An exciting love life would be assured with this one. She is very good to look at, and is only 28.

If I knew I would live to a ripe old age, I'd marry the widow, but if I could be sure I would die in 10 to 15 years from now I would marry the younger one.

Please don't leave this decision up to me. One day I think one way and the next day I change my mind. Thank you.

CAN'T DECIDE

DEAR CAN'T: If you think I am going to choose your wife for you, you're mistaken. That's a choice you'll have to make yourself. Nobody knows how long he'll live, but it's wise to live as though there will be a tomorrow — because there usually is.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I am out of my mind, but I have always had the feeling that they gave me the wrong baby when I left the hospital.

The "baby" is now 15 years old and I can't get this notion out of my head.

I have the baby's little footprint on the certificate of birth, and I know footprints don't change, so I wonder if you would think I was crazy if I asked my daughter to step in some ink and make another footprint to compare to the one of her certificate?

Thank you for not laughing.

WRONG BABY MAYBE

DEAR WRONG: If it will make you feel better, go ahead. But be warned: How will you feel and what will you do if the footprints do NOT match?

DEAR ABBY: My husband had a very bad heart attack a month ago. We live in the country and there wasn't an ambulance available, so I drove him 52 miles to the hospital. Need I tell you what an ordeal that was?

I stayed with my husband for three hours, then the doctor told me he was out of danger so I should go home and get some rest, so I went home.

In the meantime I had phoned my daughter and son to tell them about their father. When my daughter got to the hospital and found that I had gone home, she called and raised the roof, saying I should have stayed at the hospital with her father. Abby, she has brought this up several times since, and it bothers me.

I love my husband dearly and prayed for his recovery night and day, but my daughter keeps trying to make me feel guilty.

Do you think I neglected my husband?

HURT

DEAR HURT: You took the doctor's advice, which I think was very wise. Your daughter can't make you feel guilty without your cooperation. You KNOW you didn't neglect your husband, so tune your daughter out, and don't feel hurt.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to Mrs. M. H., you write, "What you are saying is that the secret of getting your children to listen to you is to listen to THEM."

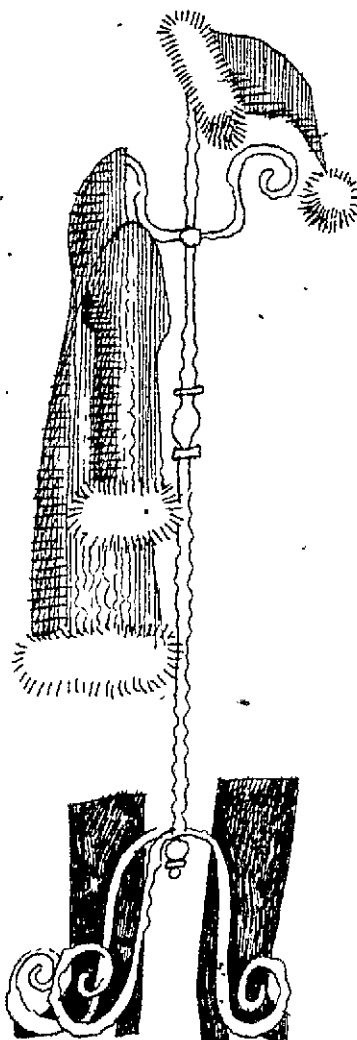

Abby, I wonder how many people realize that there is a right NOT to listen. The late William Ernest Hocking wrote, "The speaker has no right to compel a hearing; there could be no right of free speech if there were not a corresponding right not to listen. It would hardly do to make free speech free, and listening compulsory, though that might be a speaker's dream!"

Small Rock Hyrax
Elephant's Relative

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer
Morrill Hall may have the world's largest elephant skeleton and every other related elephant relic, but it's Lincoln's Antelope Zoo that houses the African elephant's strangest and closest living relative, the Rock Hyrax.

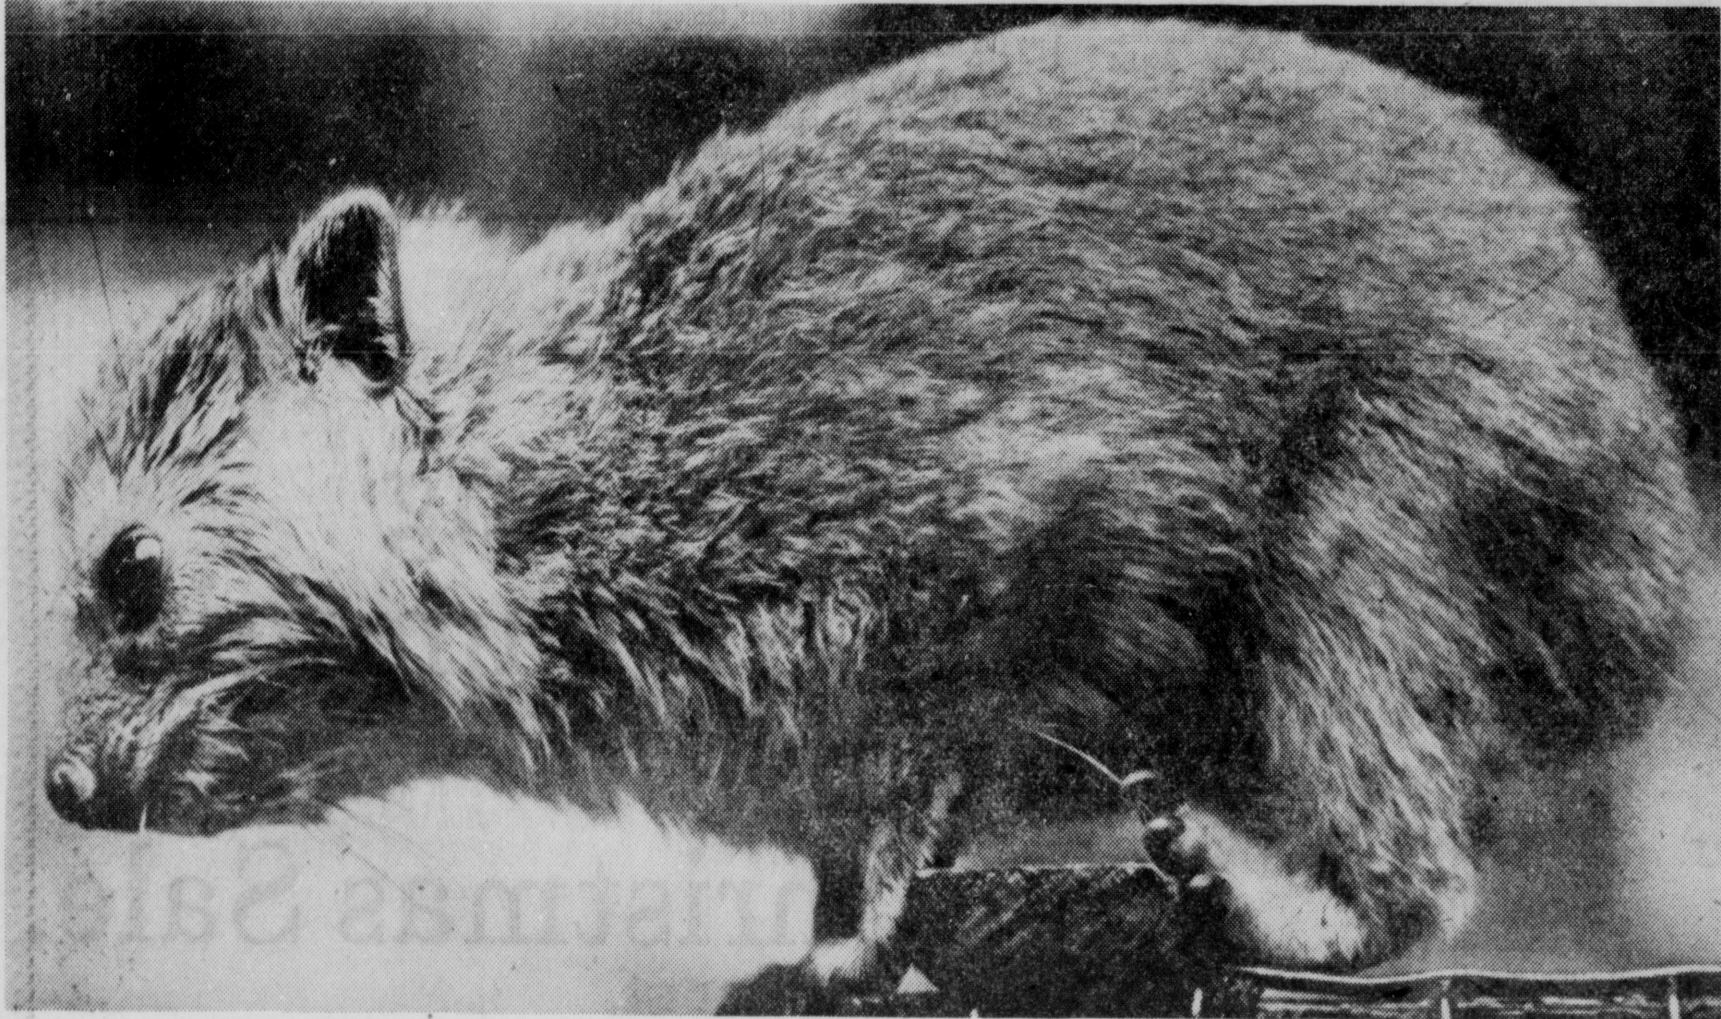

Believe it or not, the elephant's kin looks more like an earless rabbit and weighs about seven pounds when full-grown!
Two Offspring
The mated pair at the zoo recently produced two offspring, one of which is on display. The other, rejected by its mother, is being hand-raised by zoo personnel.

Jumpers, the hyrax most favored by his parents, has "certainly earned his name," said Dick Vaughn, zoo supervisor. The little animal darts here and there in the exhibit.
The Lincoln Star 10

The babies were born fully furred and with their eyes open, Vaughn said. Within 30 minutes, they were climbing and jumping around.
The Rock Hyrax is not a rodent, although it has that appearance, but is a true ungulate (odd-toed, hoofed animal), he said. Its relationship with elephants, also ungulates, has been traced through fossils — but the animal's characteristics have changed through evolution. Each foot has four toes joined together by skin and ending in claws that look like small hooves.
Honorable Mentions
The Hyrax has been mentioned in writings and folklore since very long ago, Vaughn said.
It is mentioned time and again in the Old Testament of the Bible, in which it is described as "an animal without hooves yet having cloven feet, a peaceful, sociable animal that lives among the rocks."
In their native Africa, the Rock Hyrax are part of tribal lore.
"The Zulu believe that their alarm cry means 'I am dying,' while the Natal natives claim that they can stare directly into the sun," Vaughn said.

What About Families Who Don't Have A TV?

The New York Times
By GEORGIA DULLEA
New York — Patricia Malarcher was doing her very best not to giggle the other day when a big research outfit telephoned to inquire about the family's television viewing habits.
"Do you have more than one television set in your home?" the interviewer asked.
"No, we have less than one," Mrs. Malarcher said.
"Color or black and white?"
"Both!" cried Mrs. Malarcher, giving way to giggles. "We have less than one color and..."
Cultural Curiosity
Somehow, the big research outfit had chanced upon a curiosity in our culture, a representative of that less than 5% of the population with less than one television set, with no Saturday morning cartoons to amuse the children, no Monday night football to amuse the fathers, with no idea in the world that National Airlines means to "fly" them like they've "never been flown before."

And so it has been for four years now in the home in Englewood, N. J., of Patricia and Will Malarcher (she's a professional "craftperson," he an architectural consultant). It's been that way ever since the screen of their portable television set went black ("We never committed ourselves to a console") and their children, Maura, then aged 10, and Paul, 9, were offered a choice.
Either the repairman would fix the set (eventually) or the children could dismember it in the name of educational research immediately.
"Wanting instant gratification, they chose the latter," Mrs. Malarcher recalled, "and the set ended up with the trash on the curb."
Not every American family is as democratic as the Malarchers, though. A random check across the nation by the New York Times found that few children played a part in — or even approved of — parental decisions to junk the tube.
Some children did put up an awful fuss, but never mind. Their parents went on disposing of television sets by various means: lack of repair, removal of vital parts, public burnings and shotgun blasts.

Why Buy Enemy?
An easier way, of course, is not to buy a television set in the first place. "Why buy the enemy and bring him into your house?" asked Philip Thacher, a physicist, who lives with his wife, Aija, and children Nara, 8, and Jeffrey 6, in Albuquerque, N. M.
As he spoke, the sun was going down behind the Sandia Mountains, turning them the color of watermelon, which is what "Sandia" means in Spanish. In the language of television, prime time was coming up.
Now everyone knows what happens during prime time in 95.5% of the country's 68 million occupied housing units where television sets are present and presumably glowing, more than 40% of them in color.
Perhaps some big research outfit should look into what happens in that less than 5% where no TVs are playing. Are pianos playing? (Pianos were indeed playing in four of the 10 homes surveyed.) Are children reading again?
Reading was certainly right up there with the five children, aged 4 to 16, of Rosemary and George Lardner in Chevy Chase, Md.
All Read Well
They all read — and they read well. Our 16-year-old Helen has read everything including Henry James," said Mrs. Lardner, the wife of a Washington newspaper reporter who won't have the television fixed even for the Redskins' games.
Mrs. Lardner also noticed that shortly after the death of their television set a year ago her children began "talking to each other and working out their problems."

"With the TV on, it was always an instant remark or reaction," said said.
Other families found that lowered antennas raised their horizons.
But only when something special is on. The Watergate hearings were a frequent example. And a frequent claim was that certain individuals, glimpsed on neighbor's sets, became so fixed in the mind that they could be recalled while listening to the Watergate hearings on radio or reading the transcripts in the newspapers.
Aija Thacher of Albuquerque, who has never even seen Archie Bunker, was sure she would recognize him on the street. "People talk about him, Archie Bunker is a very popular, red-neck kind of person," Mrs. Thacher said. "I know him."
"You see," her husband noted, "we don't need television to be opinionated."

Soon Breaks Down
"I've seen too many people who think they're censoring material for their kids," she said with a sigh. "It just becomes less and less. Pretty soon the kids are watching all the time."
For all their anti-TV bias, most parents conceded that they were probably missing some "good" programs and some admitted that, like their children, they sometimes sneak a peak.

Backpacking For Credit
Cincinnati (UPI) — Backpacking is going to college — or maybe it's the other way around.
Three University of Cincinnati seniors plan to earn from 12 to 15 hours academic credit each by hiking 2,000 miles from Georgia to Maine.
Out on the trail, Bob Elsener, Jack Deyzel and Kim Welch will be getting credit for courses in anthropology, geography, sociology, psychology and environmental studies.
"We support these students in their efforts to extend learning beyond the walls of the university," said Gene D. Lewis, university provost for academic affairs.
Sometime in late March, the trio will slip 35-pound packs on their backs in Springer Mountain, Ga., and hike an average of 13 miles a day along the Appalachian Trail.
Some 14 states and six months later, they hope to trudge into Mt. Katahdin, Maine, with enough credit hours to graduate. They will be required to keep a diary describing the trail, the clubs would indicate a better suit and a better hand than you have.

5. Three hearts. Game prospects are good, but not quite good enough to insure ten tricks. All you can properly do at this point is invite partner to undertake game by giving him a jump raise. If he passes, which he might do with a bad hand, he will probably have a struggle making even nine tricks. The raise to three hearts shows 17 to 19 points, part of which may consist of distributional values.
6. Three notrump. It would be wrong to bid only two notrump or three clubs at this stage, either of which North could pass with minimum strength for his heart bid. You should feel confident of making nine tricks in notrump and disregard those comparatively few hands North might have that would jeopardize the chance for game. Strong action is the order of the day.

New Rule Issued For Buffalo Jail

Kearney (AP) — Buffalo County District Court Judge S. S. Sidner issued a new rule for the Buffalo County Jail Thursday, and asked Sheriff Vern Newbold to submit to the court a working arrangement on smoking regulations in the jail.

The new rule, that major punishment measures against prisoners will not be undertaken without the approval of the sheriff or the chief deputy in the sheriff's absence, stems from a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed by an inmate last week.

The inmate, Robert Macku, 22, of Pine Bluffs, Ark., filed the writ against the sheriff while being held for arraignment on two charges of burglary in connection with break-ins at two area farm homes.

Macku claimed his rights had been violated in a number of ways, but mainly because he was not allowed to smoke in the jail.

Macku also claimed that his blankets had been taken away by deputies, that he went unfed for three days, that he was not allowed out of his cell for a exercise for two weeks, that he was allowed only one shower per week, and that he was not allowed any telephone calls.

Judge Sidner held a hearing on Macku's hand-written petition Thursday, and took the matter under advisement, saying he planned a further investigation.

During the hearing, Newbold told Sidner that the no smoking rule went into effect last month because prisoners had been setting fires in their cells. He said prisoners are allowed to smoke while outside the jail, but not in their cells.

Macku's other charges were largely denied by other jail personnel, who told the court that Macku's blanket and that of his cellmate were confiscated after deputies found that one blanket had been torn into strips, and was being used in an attempt to procure an iron bar that could have been used as a weapon against jailers.

Also denied were the charges that Macku went unfed, and records were produced showing that he got one "tv dinner" each day during his punishment period. Normally, prisoners are given two such meals per day.

However, under questioning, Sidner brought out the fact that Newbold was not notified of the punishment, and therefore issued the order that the sheriff or chief deputy give approval in the future.

After the hearing, Macku appeared for arraignment on the burglary charges, and entered guilty pleas.

Sidner ordered a pre-sentence investigation. The judge also ordered Macku held in custody in lieu of bond, which was continued at $20,000.

Donation Is $6,000

Kearney (UPI) — Kearney businessman Bob Wilson Thursday donated $6,000 to Kearney's Salvation Army building fund.

Wilson, the owner of Bob's Kwik Shops, brought the drive's $100,000 goal to near the halfway point.

Chairman Carl Speltz said some $46,000 had been raised.

Sharing Of Hospital Computer Discussed

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

A program whereby the data processing system in operation at Lincoln General Hospital could be utilized by other hospitals in the 17-county southeastern Nebraska area was discussed Thursday evening at the meeting of the Lincoln Hospital Association and the Lincoln General Hospital board of trustees.

Noting that representatives of seven hospitals attended a meeting to discuss the proposed program, Lincoln General Hospital Administrator Robert Brungard said that "we had a good response" from those participating in the session.

A primary motivation for such a program would be "cost containment," Brungard said. It would allow other hospitals to benefit from computerized services without the expense and duplication inherent in each hospital "going its own way."

Explaining that the data processing system operative at Lincoln General was begun eight years ago, Brungard said that the sophistication and innovations that have evolved have resulted in considerable national publicity.

The system encompasses the collection and disbursement of patient financial and health data, Brungard continued.

And he added that, as far as other hospitals are concerned, "The program offers tremendous flexibility in the sense that a hospital may pick and choose any or all parts of the system we have available."

"Complete accounting systems, broad data base information, providing all information about a patient during his exposure to a health care facility ... provides hospitals using this system with the capabilities of having a sophisticated computer system available to them without the expense and responsibility of individual ownership and operation."

Brungard said that follow-up meetings will be held to discuss the program, and "we hope to have arrangements made with several interested parties by April, 1975."

Armed Man Robs $200 At Station

A masked bandit made off with over $200 in cash from the Fisca Oil Co. at 21st and J Thursday night, according to Police Capt. Lowell Sellmeyer.

Sellmeyer said a man walked into the station shortly after 8:30 carrying a handgun and demanded all the money.

A man was brought into police headquarters but was released after being questioned.

The robber was described as a white male, about 20 years old, 5 feet 8 to 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a blue ski mask.

Carmel Slated To Take Over OMR On Jan. 8

Arnold Carmel will take over as director of the Office of Mental Retardation Jan. 8, replacing David Blume, the Department of Public Institutions has announced.

Dr. Carmel currently works with the Lincoln Public Schools. He holds a doctor's degree in educational psychology from the University of Nebraska.

The department said it hoped that, by employing someone from outside the department but familiar with mental retardation problems, a better relationship could be developed among local regional programs, the Beatrice State Home, the Office of Mental Retardation and DPI.

Lincoln Woman Struck By Car

A Lincoln woman who was thrown 23 feet after being struck by a car at 13th and N was treated for bruises and released from Lincoln General Hospital Thursday afternoon.

Police said Jimmie Clendenon, 27, of 2200 N. 50th, was struck by a car driven by Randy Melichar, 29, of rural Lincoln.

City Jail Inmate Apparently Sets Mattress Afire

An 18-year-old prisoner in the Lincoln City Jail was rendered unconscious by the smoke from a foam rubber mattress he allegedly set afire, according to police.

Police said the prisoner, Charles Schuler, of Glendale, Va., was found unconscious under the bunk in his cell.

Police said smoke from the blaze filled a cell block in the jail. Police used a fire extinguisher to put out the fire.

Schuler regained consciousness after he was taken from the cell, police said. He was taken to Lincoln General Hospital, but refused treatment, police said.

After he was returned to the cell, police said, Schuler "became violent" and was placed in leg irons and handcuffs.

Schuler was in jail on a drug charge, police said.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

Cancer who surprises with his interest in astrology and skill as a magician: Milton Berle. Scorpio who should know better: Dick Cavett. Scorpio with talent to spare: Jonathan Winters. Scorpio who can throw, catch, run and act: G. J. Simpson. The signs and celebrities — they are fun to list and evaluate. Let's hear from you!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The travel, the ideas and the relatives — there could be a coming apart at the seams. Start seeing as is, not as you wish. You should face reality now and get rid of concepts which are not workable. Pisces, Virgo could be involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Costs, production, budgets — these are featured. Priorities should be considered, possibly revised. Capricorn, Cancer individuals could play key roles. Check sales slips, receipts. Reality and fantasy could meet halfway — a rare opportunity presents itself. Pounce on it!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you attempt to hang on to past, you make a mistake. Key now is to finish, to prepare for "cold plunge" into future. Cycle is such that you land on your feet. Take a chance on your abilities. Steer clear of legal tangles. One who opposes you is aggressive. Ride it out!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Highlight independence. Realize that employment changes ultimately will be resolved in your favor. Your potential is greater than you might imagine. A "good" contract could be upcoming. Leo, Aquarius persons may figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your hunch pays dividends. Be confident. You learn by teaching. Friends, in hot dispute, may want to involve you. Have more of it! Money questions will not be resolved by hurling blame in all directions. Intelligent compromise probably is key to solution of differences.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Diversify. Find ways of getting around opposition instead of running headlong into it. Sagittarius, Gemini individuals are likely to be in picture. Overall view is best now — leave fine points details for another time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Travel and plans which involve sweeping changes need additional view. Know it and act like you are aware of it. Check tendency to sign papers without thoroughly digesting contents. One step at a time now will assure progress and achievement of goal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be prepared for questions, scrutiny of records. Money situation is spotlighted. Gemini, Virgo figure prominently. Element of timing — or luck — ultimately rides by your side. One who has been behind the scenes will make an appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lie low, do more listening than talking. Deal with person who can show you a diplomatic way of adjusting property offer, payment. A contract or lease is on shaky ground. Know it and protect yourself in clinches.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Study Sagittarius message for valid hint. Don't force issues. You can win if you tread with care — lively Pisces could aid. Get peek behind the scenes. You should know what happened at recent closed-door meeting.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Someone is being free-and-easy, perhaps at your expense. Know it and do something about it. Key is to organize, to get priorities in order. Capricorn, Cancer persons could play significant roles. Questions involve spending and saving — and how to achieve intelligent balance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Conclusions, completions, the finishing touches — these are emphasized. Now is time to "close the deal." If you wait longer, your prospect will get away. Emphasize settlement. Older individual will agree.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are loyal, dedicated, can be forceful but always willing to aid the underdog. You made family home adjustments this year. In 1975, January and October will be your significant months. Aries, Libra persons play important roles in your life. You are drawn to theater, law and political activity. There also is a fascination for medicine.
Send birthday and money mates! Discover birthdate and 75 cents to Omarr Astrology Secrets, The Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif., 90033. You'll find answers in Sydney Omarr's booklet "Secret Hints for Men and Women."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

Forecast For Friday

Cancer who surprises with his interest in astrology and skill as a magician: Milton Berle. Scorpio who should know better: Dick Cavett. Scorpio with talent to spare: Jonathan Winters. Scorpio for the Ages: Katharine Hepburn. Cancer who can throw, catch, run and act: G. J. Simpson. The signs and celebrities — they are fun to list and evaluate. Let's hear from you!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The travel, the ideas and the relatives — there could be a coming apart at the seams. Start seeing as is, not as you wish. You should face reality now — and get rid of concepts which are not workable. Pisces, Virgo could be involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Costs, production, budget — these are featured. Priorities should be considered, possibly revised. Capricorn, Cancer individuals could play key roles. Check sales slips, receipts. Reality and fantasy could meet halfway — a rare opportunity presents itself. Pounce on it!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you attempt to hang on to past, you make a mistake. Key now is to finish, to prepare for "cold plunge" into future. Cycle is such that you land on your feet. Take a chance on your abilities. Steer clear of legal tangles. One who opposes you is aggressive. Ride it out!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Highlight independence. Realize that employment changes ultimately will be resolved in your favor. Your potential is greater than you might imagine. A "good" contract could be upcoming. Leo, Aquarius persons may figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your hunch pays dividends. Be confident. You learn by teaching. Friends, in hot dispute, may want to involve you. Have none of it! Money questions will not be resolved by hurrying blame in all directions. Intelligent compromise probably is key to solution of differences.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Diversify. Find ways of getting around opposition instead of running headlong into it. Sagittarius, Gemini individuals are likely to be in picture. Overall view is best now — leave fine points, details for another time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Travel and plans which involve sweeping changes need additional review. Know it and act like you are aware of it. Check tendency to sign papers without thoroughly digesting contents. One step at a time now will assure progress and achievement of goal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be prepared for questions, scrutiny of records. Money situation is spotlighted. Gemini, Virgo figure prominently. Element of timing — or luck — ultimately rides by your side. One who has been behind the scenes will make an appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lie low, do more listening than talking. Deal with person who can show you a diplomatic way of adjusting property offer, payment. A contract or lease is on shaky ground. Know it and protect yourself in clinches.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Study Sagittarius message for valid hint. Don't force issues. You can win if you tread with care — lively Piscean could aid. Get peek behind the scenes. You should know what happened at recent closed-door meeting.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Someone is being free-and-easy, perhaps at your expense. Know it and do something about it. Key is to organize, to get priorities in order. Capricorn, Cancer persons could play significant roles. Questions involve spending and saving — and how to achieve intelligent balance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Conclusions, completions, the finishing touches — these are emphasized. Now is time to "close the deal." If you wait, linger, your prospect will get away. Emphasize settlement. Older individual will agree.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are loyal, dedicated, can be forceful but always willing to aid the underdog. You may find family, home adjustments this year. In 1975, January and October will be your significant months. Aries, Libra persons play important roles in your life. You are drawn to theater, law and political activity. There also is a fascination for medicine.

Fort, Willis Boost Huskers Past Sooners

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Kansas City, Mo. — Anytime Alvan Adams scores 28 points and grabs 16 rebounds he was fantastic, right?

Well, not always, especially when Fairbury's Bob Siegel is pressed into primary duty of covering the Oklahoma all-American.

"Bob Siegel just did a superb job of covering Alvan Adams," said Nebraska assistant basketball coach Moe Iba after Nebraska upset Oklahoma, 75-64, in the opening game here Thursday night of the 29th annual Big Eight Pre-season tournament at Kemper Arena.

"He (Siegel) had to cover

Adams because of his strength after Larry (Cox) got those four fouls," Iba continued. "He was just super."

Holding the 6-9 junior center off the offensive rebounds provided Nebraska the spark it needed during the crucial second-half stretch when the Huskers were on the verge of losing an 11-point lead.

The Sooners had closed to 59-57 with 5:03 to play. Then NU, aided by two Siegel free throws and a three-point play by senior forward Steve Erwin, zoomed to a 66-57 cushion and that settled matters.

"Anytime someone has those two words (all-American) in front of their name they have to have something," said Siegel, who scored 10 points and snared seven rebounds. "But you tell me who has shut him out. I really don't think I did my job in holding him down. He still scored 28 points."

But even Siegel admitted he was effective in halting Adams' usual domination of the offensive backboards.

"I did all right on the offensive boards," he said. "That's the first time I've covered a post man since high school. And that's really not defense in high school... I just sort of stood behind them in high school."

Entering the contest after Cox accumulated three fouls within the first four minutes of the game was really no surprise. In fact, the NU coaching staff had told him he would be the primary choice to replace Cox if the 6-6 junior were to experience foul trouble.

"They (coaches) had confidence in me and that really helped me," Siegel said. "He's (Adams) going to get his points, but you've got to keep him off the boards."

The victory which boosted NU to 7-3, lowered the nationally-rated Sooners (17th in one major wire service poll and 18th in another) to 5-2.

It also was Nebraska's first opening-round Big Eight tournament victory since 1970. The triumph put the Huskers in the 7 p.m. semifinal tilt here Saturday against Kansas, which defeated Oklahoma State in Thursday night's other game.

Once again, it was Nebraska's guard combination of juniors Steve Willis and Jerry Fort that supplied the offensive initiative. Fort hit 21 points and Willis, utilizing his superior quickness for six steals, hit 20 points to tie his season's top effort (against North Texas State).

Cipriano, grinning after emerging from the NU dressing room, eyed the pack of reporters waiting to talk to him and said "that's the most reporters I've ever had to talk to me in 12 years."

"That's the first complete

Aurora Blasts Lincoln Pius X

Central City — Aurora, led by the 25 point scoring output of Doug Sweeney clobbered Lincoln Pius X 68-59 here in the opening game of the Central City Holiday basketball tournament Thursday night.

Bill Cornwell added 15 points for Aurora while Maury Higgins popped in 13 to lead the Thunderbolts. Mitch Ohnouth tallied 11 for the "Bolts, who are now 1-3.

In the second game of the tourney Central City nipped Centennial 57-55 behind the 23 point scoring of Dan Scholl. Central City will meet Aurora Friday night at 8 p.m. in the championship game while Pius X will face Centennial at 6:30.

Osborne—No Fond Memories

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

New Orleans, La. — Coach Tom Osborne doesn't have any fond memories of Nebraska's first visit here to play Alabama in the 1967 Sugar Bowl football game, but he's pleased to be here now.

"I guess the way a game goes colors your feelings," the Cornhusker coach said Thursday. In that one, Alabama thoroughly whipped the Huskers 34-7, but there were extenuating circumstances.

"Rain dripped down our necks steadily for all ten days we were here," he said. "And they didn't have an artificial field in the stadium. It was so muddy we couldn't get much done."

"On top of that, Alabama had great people, like Kenny Stabler (quarterback) and receivers Ray Perkins and Dennis Homan. They had a fine football team and after the game they were named national champions."

Osborne said the Crimson Tide "just threw the dickens out of the football" against the Huskers. Statistics show Alabama passed for 279 yards, scoring once on a 45-yard pass from Stabler to Perkins.

"We're as big as we were in 1966," Osborne mentioned in comparing the participants in the New Year's eve game against Florida's Gators.

"At that time we were a rather ponderous team and Alabama was small and quick," he said. "Florida is a much bigger team than Southeastern Conference teams were at that time. I think man-for-man we're probably bigger and quicker than in 1966."

How does the 1974 Nebraska team compare with the Huskers' national champions of 1970 and 1971?

Offensively, in Osborne's opinion, the quarterbacking was very close to being equal, the running backs came close to those on the champion teams and the offensive lines were very close in ability.

The champions averaged scoring 36 points a game compared with 32 for the current club. The reason in Osborne's opinion is that there was more scoring by the defense because of Johnny Rodgers' punt returns. Yet, he doesn't feel Big Eight teams played as good defense then as it has in the last couple of years.

"I'm not sure this year's defense was as dominate," he said. "I think we had good defense, but not as dominating as in 1970 and 1971. "This team played very good defense at times, but we probably didn't have quite the quality people we had at that time."

"We had really tremendous people up front — Monte Johnson for example didn't start, but he's not playing with the Oakland Raiders. We had eight or nine top pro draft choices on those teams. Not many college teams have had as many quality people—Willie Harper, Rich Glover, Larry Jacobson, Bill Olds, Jerry Tagge, Jeff Kinney, Keith Wortman, just to name a few."

He said Dave Humm is the "best pure passer" at Nebraska since he has been there, a period of 13 seasons. "Tagge probably was more durable and a little stronger," he added. "You can't argue about a guy who quarterbacked two national championship teams. Of course, he had a guy like Rodgers to throw to. If Dave could keep himself in one piece he can do a pretty good job running the football."

Wingback Don Westbrook of the 1974 squad gave the Huskers some threat to help minimize the lack of a Rodgers.

Juco Trio Signed By NU

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

New Orleans, La. — Nebraska has signed three junior college football players to Big Eight Conference letters of intent and they will enroll on the Lincoln campus for the second semester in January.

Coach Tom Osborne revealed that fact at a press briefing Thursday morning at team headquarters in the Fontainebleau Motor Hotel.

The signees are Randy Ricks, a linebacker from Waldorf Junior College, Forest City, Ia.; Lorenzo Turner, a defensive end from Indian Hills Community College, Centerville, Ia.; and Scott Avery, a defensive lineman from Long Beach City College in California.

"They've signed the Big Eight tender, but they still could go somewhere else," Osborne pointed out. "They've given us a pretty strong commitment, but you can't be certain until they enroll."

"Avery is like Vince Farrangano (who transferred from California to Nebraska last fall)," Osborne said. "We recruited him out of high school, but he went to Southern California and didn't like it. Then he went to junior college and now is coming to Nebraska."

Osborne called Avery "a good prospect" who might be better suited as a defensive tackle, but who could play middle guard. He's 6-5 and 240.

"We've had pretty good luck with JC players," Osborne said. "We've signed 20 of them in the last five years and at least 16 have been starters for us."

"We feel you can't build a program with junior college players so we use them to fill in areas where we come up short of players."

Recruiting of high school talent is well underway and the Husker boss expects to have the 30 limit by the signing date in mid-February.

Tale Of The Bowls

Tony Davis is ecstatic after making a NU touchdown in the third quarter.

1974 COTTON BOWL NEBRASKA 19, TEXAS 3

Nebraska's Cornhuskers broke open a tight scoring contest in the third quarter with a pair of game-breaker plays to chalk up a 19-3 win over the mighty Texas Longhorns in the 1974 Cotton Bowl game at Dallas. The chilled New Year's Day crowd of 67,500 saw the Big 8 runnersup and the Southwest Conference champions battle to a 3-3 tie at halftime, thanks to a brilliant Longhorn one-yard-line stand just before the gun. But the Huskers weren't to be denied and midway through the third quarter, safety Bob Thornton returned a Texas field goal try 41 yards to set up the clinching touchdown. Ritch Bahe got the final 12 yards on a reverse and Rich Sanger kicked the point to make it 10-3. Four plays later, John Bell recovered a Texas fumble at the Longhorn 19 and three plays later Tony Davis ripped in from the three to make it 16-3. Sanger kicked a 43-yard field goal with 8:09 left to complete the scoring. Texas had scored first on a 22-yard field goal by Billy Schott in the wake of a Husker fumble, but early in the second quarter defensive end Steve Manstedt picked up a Roosevelt Leaks' fumble in mid-air and raced 65 yards to the eight. But a stiff Longhorn defense forced a 24-yard field goal by Sanger.

Huskers Having Influenza Bout

New Orleans, La. — Nebraska trainer Paul Schneider expressed concern Thursday that more Cornhusker football players might become infected with the influenza that has struck four players and two coaches since the team arrived here Christmas eve to begin preparations for next Tuesday night's Sugar Bowl game.

Most severely affected have been John O'Leary, junior I-back, and linebacker coach Rick Duval. Both had temperatures of 103 degrees and were kept in their hotel room for Thursday's practice.

Dave Redding, No. 2 tight end and O'Leary's roommate, was also a victim, but suffered a more serious problem in Thursday's practice when he sprained a knee.

Coach Tom Osborne said his status for the game is "very questionable" at the moment.

Other influenza victims have been reserve quarterback Terry Luck, red-shirted tight end Ken Spaeth, and graduate assistant coach Mike Church.

Schneider said all players are being given a lot of liquid in the hope of preventing spread of the virus, which he said usually lasts for about 48 hours.

Linebacker John Starkebaum slipped and strained a knee Thursday in the practice in Tulane Stadium, which is the site of the Sugar Bowl game against Florida. Osborne said it looks right now that he'll be ready to play by game time.

The Huskers didn't hit as much as they did in their Christmas Day workout, but Osborne remained pleased with the progress of the team. The drill lasted an hour and a half and another one of similar length is planned for Friday. The tapering-off process will begin on Saturday.

Burden Unloaded?

New Orleans, La. — Nebraska ticket manager Jim Pittenger received an unsigned letter from a Husker football fan Christmas eve just before departing for the Sugar Bowl game.

Enclosed was $7 and a note saying the fan had slipped into Memorial Stadium to watch the Oklahoma game last month.

Pittenger, noting that ticket prices are $7.25, might be getting that amount in the next mail if the guilty-conscious fan reads this story.

Huskers Travel

The Nebraska football team isn't the only group of Huskers basking in the sun these days.

The NU wrestling team is headed for Miami, Fla., where they will compete in the Sunshine National Open wrestling tournament Saturday through Monday.

Team co-captain Bob Johnson, at 190-pounds, heavyweight Bruce Conger and freshman 118-pounder Tim Rimpley will lead the team of 15 in the tourney to be held at the Miami-Dade Junior College North Campus in Miami.

Conger, undefeated in dual meets, leads the Huskers so far this season with 54 team points. The 330-pound sophomore is the Iowa State Invitational champion, runnerup in the Bison

Open and currently holds a 13-1 season record.

Johnson currently 9-2, defeated Iowa State's Al Nacin, who has placed in the top six in his weight the past three years. Johnson also holds an Iowa State Invitational crown.

Rimpley, three time state champion from Lexington also holds a respectable record for the young season.

"We're going down there to win, but you never know," said coach Orval Borgiali. "I think we've got as good a chance to win as anyone in this tourney."

The two-day tournament will also host such powerful teams as Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Army and Tennessee among others.

New Homes Pleasing To Johnson, Blahak

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

Oakland's Monte Johnson and Minnesota's Joe Blahak have both found new homes.

Blahak's, ironically comes in the form of the National Football League's "black and blue" Central Division champions.

The irony comes with the two teams who felt Blahak wasn't good enough to make their rosters. Houston, the team Blahak jumped into professional football with, finished 1-13 in 1973 and a surprising 7-7 this season in the AFC Central Division.

The Oilers cut Blahak after a preseason encounter with the Chicago Bears, the second team to acquire the talents of the three-year University of Nebraska starting defensive back.

In fact, the Bears picked up Blahak the day after the Houston clash.

"I knew Abe Gibrion from college," Blahak said during a break between meetings and practice for Sunday's NFC title game with the Los Angeles Rams. "He told me if I ever needed some place to play to look him up."

Gibrion looked up Blahak from the waiver wires, a system used to let various coaches know who is available. But the 1972 NU graduate didn't make it with the Bears either. They finally finished in the cellar of the NFC Central at 4-10.

After a trip to Houston to pick up his car, and a long drive back to Lincoln, Blahak was in contact with San Diego and "probably would have signed with them" if he hadn't been contacted by midwest scout Don Fleming.

"They (the Vikings) asked me if I wanted a one-day tryout with them," Blahak offered. "So I thought — why not?" They did play in the Super Bowl last year."

The one-day workout with one-on-one patterns netted him a position on the Vikings roster, after dealing with three teams with a combined 15-27 mark for the 1974 season.

"I have to be overjoyed to say the least," Blahak said from a Tulsa, Okla., motel where the team is escaping from the Minnesota weather, "to come from a place like Houston to here, from a loser to a winner."

Seeing most of his action on specialty teams and limited corner back duty, Blahak is still happy with his situation.

"To be a professional athlete, you have to want to play," Blahak admitted. "But I'm satisfied for now."

He still feels compassion for his former teammates at Houston despite their 7-7 record, because of a damaging loss dealt them by the Vikings in the early season.

"We beat them something like 51-10. I know what they were going through from last year," Blahak said. "I really felt sad for them."

The former Oiler was even accused in a Houston paper by one of his ex-teammates of telling the Vikings all of Houston's defenses.

"That was really ridiculous," he said denying the charge. "Because Francis (Tarkenton) would just take one look at their defense and know what was coming. Their defense so simple and Fran is the most remarkable football mind I've ever been associated with."

Blahak admits he would rather see Pittsburgh win the AFC battle over Oakland because of the explosive Raider offense.

Oakland's Johnson would rather see Minnesota win the NFC title for one good reason, the second-year Oakland Raider hails from Bloomington, Minn., home of the Vikings. He used to sell programs at the Vikes' home games.

Unlike Blahak, Johnson's new home is still with Oakland, but his position is solidified, something that hasn't happened since high school in Bloomington.

It's the first time he's stayed with the same position for more than a year.

In his career with the University of Nebraska, Johnson "played everything" trying to find a home. That is everything but his present position of linebacker.

"I played offensive tackle, defensive tackle, center, middle guard and defensive end, but never linebacker," Johnson noted. "And when Oakland called me two years ago after the second round and told me they had drafted me as a linebacker, I asked them if they were sure they had the right person."

Now that he's had a taste of the linebacking position, there's nothing else he would rather play. "I've said it before," Johnson offered, "I enjoy linebacker so much, if I ever had to change positions again, I'd probably quit the game."

Johnson, as a linebacker, is the 12th man in Oakland's controversial defense that sends in an extra man before each play in hopes of confusing the offense.

"Basically," Johnson said, "I go in with the defensive play and if the situation dictates it, I'll stay, if not, I'll come back out. It panics the other team a little, not because I'm coming in, but because they don't know what's coming."

As a Raider, Johnson experienced his greatest football thrill last Sunday with the 28-26 win over the defending Super Bowl champions Miami Dolphins.

"I've played in some great ball games, and I thought I'd never play in another one like that Oklahoma game (Nebraska's 35-31 win in the "game of the century)," Johnson said. "But the Miami win was twice what the Oklahoma game was. It was a super emotional game. We were winning, then losing and winning again."

"A lot of people are saying we'll have a mental letdown after the Miami game," he added. "But we've had two real good practices the last two days and we're ready to go."

"We're sick and tired of hearing people say Oakland can't win the big one and I'll do my damndest to change that," he said. "We all will."

If Oakland and Minnesota both pass their tests, as they're favored to do, Blahak and Johnson can renew acquaintances from four years at Nebraska as teammates, and Johnson will have a chance to "show the people in Bloomington that Monte Johnson can play with the big boys."

Swann Not Expecting Big Cheers

Oakland (AP) — Lynn Swann, a native of the San Francisco Bay area, returns home this weekend — but he can expect few cheers.

Swann, who grew up in nearby Foster City and later became a Southern California football great, has blossomed as a wide receiver for the Pittsburgh Steelers in the past five games.

He likely will start for the Steelers when they clash with the Oakland Raiders here Sunday in the National Football League's playoff game for a spot in the Super Bowl.

Swann is particularly pleased with his performance last Sunday in the Steelers' victory over the Buffalo Bills, in which he caught three passes for a 60 yard total.

"It had to be my best performance in my short pro career," said the rookie. "Even though I didn't score, it was great to realize I had contributed important plays in one of the most important games."

Recalling the Raiders' regular season 17-0 victory over the Steelers, Swann said he hoped his folks "won't be disappointed this time. I played most of the game but we never did get going. Now I'm sure it will be different."

Swann has 11 receptions to his credit this season for 208 yards, his longest a 41-yarder for a touchdown. He also has returned 41 punts for 577 yards and a 14.1 yard average, the longest return being a 69-yard scoring spree.

The only Raider on the doubtful list for the American Conference championship tilt is cornerback Willie Brown, still bothered by leg problems.

Fort, Willis Boost Huskers Past Sooners

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer
Kansas City, Mo. — Anytime Alvan Adams scores 28 points and grabs 16 rebounds he was fantastic, right?

Well, not always, especially when Fairbury's Bob Siegel is pressed into primary duty of covering the Oklahoma all-American.

"Bob Siegel just did a superb job of covering Alvan Adams," said Nebraska assistant basketball coach Moe Iba after Nebraska upset Oklahoma, 75-64, in the opening game here Thursday night of the 29th annual Big Eight Pre-season tournament at Kemper Arena.

"He (Siegel) had to cover

Adams because of his strength after Larry (Cox) got those four fouls," Iba continued. "He was just super."

Holding the 6-9 junior center off the offensive rebounds provided Nebraska the spark it needed during the crucial second-half stretch when the Huskers were on the verge of losing an 11-point lead.

The Sooners had closed to 59-57 with 5:03 to play. Then NU, aided by two Siegel free throws and a three-point play by senior forward Steve Erwin, zoomed to a 66-57 cushion and that settled matters.

"Anytime someone has those two words (all-American) in front of their name they have to have something," said Siegel, who scored 10 points and snared seven rebounds. "But you tell me who has shut him out. I really don't think I did my job in holding him down. He still scored 28 points."

But even Siegel admitted he was effective in halting Adams' usual domination of the offensive backboards.

"I did all right on the offensive boards," he said. "That's the first time I've covered a post man since high school. And that's really not defense in high school... I just sort of stood behind them in high school."

Entering the contest after Cox accumulated three fouls within the first four minutes of the game was really no surprise. In fact, the NU coaching staff had told him he would be the primary choice to replace Cox if the 6-6 junior were to experience foul trouble.

"They (coaches) had confidence in me and that really helped me," Siegel said. "He's (Adams) going to get his points, but you've got to keep him off the boards."

The victory which boosted NU to 7-3, lowered the nationally-rated Sooners (17th in one major wire service poll and 18th in another) to 5-2.

It also was Nebraska's first opening-round Big Eight tournament victory since 1970. The triumph put the Huskers in the 7 p.m. semifinal tilt here Saturday against Kansas, which defeated Oklahoma State in Thursday night's other game.

Once again, it was Nebraska's guard combination of juniors Steve Willis and Jerry Fort that supplied the offensive initiative.

Fort hit 21 points and Willis, utilizing his superior quickness for six steals, hit 20 points to tie his season's top effort (against North Texas State).

Cipriano, grinning after emerging from the NU dressing room, eyed the pack of reporters waiting to talk to him and said "that's the most reporters I've ever had to talk to me in 12 years."

"That's the first complete

Nebraska's Steve Willis (12) steals the ball from Oklahoma's Eddie Fields in the Huskers' upset win over the Sooners in the opening game of the Big Eight tournament.

Aurora Blasts Lincoln Pius X

Central City — Aurora, led by the 25 point scoring output of Doug Sweeney clobbered Lincoln Pius X 68-59 here in the opening game of the Central City Holiday basketball tournament Thursday night.

Bill Cornwell added 15 points for Aurora while Maury Higgins popped in 13 to lead the Thunderbolts. Mitch Ohnoutka tallied 11 for the Bolts, who are now 1-3.

In the second game of the tourney Central City nipped Centennial 57-55 behind the 23 point scoring of Dan Scholl. Central City will meet Aurora Friday night at 8 p.m. in the championship game while Pius X will face Centennial at 6:30.

Osborne—No Fond Memories

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

New Orleans, La. — Coach Tom Osborne doesn't have any fond memories of Nebraska's first visit here to play Alabama in the 1967 Sugar Bowl football game, but he's pleased to be here now.

"I guess the way a game goes colors your feelings," the Cornhusker coach said Thursday. In that one, Alabama thoroughly whipped the Huskers 34-7, but there were extenuating circumstances.

"Rain dripped down our necks steadily for all ten days we were here," he said. "And they didn't have an artificial field in the stadium. It was so muddy we couldn't get much done."

"On top of that, Alabama had great people, like Kenny Stabler (quarterback) and receivers Ray Perkins and Dennis Homan. They had a fine football team and after the game they were named national champions."

Osborne said the Crimson Tide "just threw the dickens out of the football" against the Huskers. Statistics show Alabama passed for 279 yards, scoring once on a 45-yard pass from Stabler to Perkins.

"We're as big as we were in 1966," Osborne mentioned in comparing the participants in the New Year's eve game against Florida's Gators.

"At that time we were a rather ponderous team and Alabama was small and quick," he said. "Florida is a much bigger team than Southeastern Conference teams were at that time. I think man-for-man we're probably bigger and quicker than in 1966."

How does the 1974 Nebraska team compare with the Huskers' national champions of 1970 and 1971?

Offensively, in Osborne's opinion, the quarterbacking was very close to being equal, the running backs came close to those on the champion teams and the offensive lines were very close in ability.

The champions averaged scoring 36 points a game compared with 32 for the current club. The reason in Osborne's opinion is that there was more scoring by the defense because of Johnny Rodgers' punt returns. Yet, he doesn't feel Big Eight teams played as good defense then as it has in the last couple of years.

"I'm not sure this year's defense was as dominate," he said. "I think we had good defense, but not as dominating as in 1970 and 1971. This team played very good defense at times, but we probably didn't have quite the quality people we had at that time."

"We had really tremendous people up front — Monte Johnson for example didn't start, but he's not playing with the Oakland Raiders. We had eight or nine top pro draft choices on those teams. Not many college teams have had as many quality people—Willie Harper, Rich Glover, Larry Jacobson, Bill Olds, Jerry Tagge, Jeff Kinney, Keith Wortman, just to name a few."

He said Dave Humm is the "best pure passer" at Nebraska since he has been there, a period of 13 seasons. "Tagge probably was more durable and a little stronger," he added. "You can't argue about a guy who quarterbacked two national championship teams. Of course, he had a guy like Rodgers to throw to. If Dave could keep himself in one piece he can do a pretty good job running the football."

Wingback Don Westbrook of the 1974 squad gave the Huskers some threat to help minimize the lack of a Rodgers.

Juco Trio Signed By NU

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

New Orleans, La. — Nebraska has signed three junior college football players to Big Eight Conference letters of intent and they will enroll on the Lincoln campus for the second semester in January.

Coach Tom Osborne revealed that fact at a press briefing Thursday morning at team headquarters in the Fontainebleau Motor Hotel.

The signees are Randy Ricks, a linebacker from Waldorf Junior College, Forest City, Ia.; Lorenzo Turner, a defensive end from Indian Hills Community College, Centerville, Ia.; and Scott Avery, a defensive lineman from Long Beach City College in California.

"They've signed the Big Eight tender, but they still could go somewhere else," Osborne pointed out. "They've given us a pretty strong commitment, but you can't be certain until they enroll."

"Avery is like Vince Farrangano (who transferred from California to Nebraska last fall)," Osborne said. "We recruited him out of high school, but he went to Southern California and didn't like it. Then he went to junior college and now is coming to Nebraska."

Osborne called Avery "a good prospect" who might be better suited as a defensive tackle, but who could play middle guard. He's 6-5 and 240.

"We've had pretty good luck with JC players," Osborne said. "We've signed 20 of them in the last five years and at least 16 have been starters for us."

"We feel you can't build a program with junior college players so we use them to fill in areas where we come up short of players."

Recruiting of high school talent is well underway and the Husker boss expects to have the 30 limit by the signing date in mid-February.

1974 COTTON BOWL NEBRASKA 19, TEXAS 3

Nebraska's Cornhuskers broke open a tight scoring contest in the third quarter with a pair of game-breaker plays to chalk up a 19-3 win over the mighty Texas Longhorns in the 1974 Cotton Bowl game at Dallas. The chilled New Year's Day crowd of 67,500 saw the Big 8 runnersup and the Southwest Conference champions battle to a 3-3 tie at halftime, thanks to a brilliant Longhorn one-yard-line stand just before the gun. But the Huskers weren't to be denied and midway through the third quarter, safety Bob Thornton returned a Texas field goal try 41 yards to set up the clinching touchdown. Ritch Bahe got the final 12 yards on a reverse and Rich Sanger kicked the point to make it 10-3. Four plays later, John Bell recovered a Texas fumble at the Longhorn 19 and three plays later Tony Davis ripped in from the three to make it 16-3. Sanger kicked a 43-yard field goal with 8:09 left to complete the scoring. Texas had scored first on a 22-yard field goal by Billy Schott in the wake of a Husker fumble, but early in the second quarter defensive end Steve Manstedt picked up a Roosevelt Leaks' fumble in mid-air and raced 65 yards to the eight. But a stiff Longhorn defense forced a 24-yard field goal by Sanger.

Humm, Anthony Get 'Ink'

New Orleans, La. — The "glamour" boys of Nebraska's football team, which plays Florida in the Sugar Bowl game next Tuesday night, have been quarterback Dave Humm and I-back Monte Anthony.

They've garnered most of the space in this city's two daily newspapers since the Huskers arrived to begin workouts Christmas eve.

Humm's passing feats as a Husker have been recounted. They're familiar to all NU fans who'll get to see him in the red and white of Nebraska for the last time in the bowl game. And so have his brushes with injuries which undoubtedly cost the Huskers in losses to Wisconsin and Missouri.

The Anthony story, even to Nebraskaans, is the "Cinderella" feat of Coach Tom Osborne's second NU team and it took a little luck, coupled with Anthony's hard work, to make it happen.

The "luck" was the injury to starter John O'Leary in the Wisconsin game when he suffered a fractured jawbone. "If John had stayed healthy Monte would have played, but he might not have had the chance to start," Osborne recalled.

"Anthony made a lot of progress," the NU coach said. "Even his own high school coach didn't think he would necessarily be a running back in college because he didn't carry the ball much in high school."

"He was just a very good athlete who played defense very well. Iowa State was recruiting him as a linebacker, but we were serious when we went after him as a back. He had good inside speed and really started to come on in the Shrine all-star game."

"It was then we began to see he had a chance and he has made tremendous strides as a football player."

Led NU Rushers

Monte, a 6-3, 200 pound freshman from Bellevue, ended up the Huskers leading ball carrier with 587 yards on 109 attempts and was named the Big Eight's freshman player of the year.

Anthony, a studious engineering major who picked up 27 hours of A and B-plus in his first semester, has 4.5 speed in the 40-yard dash and is big and strong. Even though only a rookie, he learned both fullback and I-back assignments and played well at both spots.

Monte said a Husker freshman told him when he was being recruited the coaches wouldn't tell him what they are looking for. "You just have to show the coaches what you can do and that you have to do what you can do when it's your turn," he said.

Monte must have done the right thing on his first chance with the varsity because he's been high on the I-back derby all season.

He got the chance to start after O'Leary's injury and held down the job until he hurt his ribs in the Kansas State game, which was then last on the regular season schedule.

Anthony is the first freshman to make it big at Nebraska since first-year players became eligible three seasons ago.

Among the highlights of his season was a 157-yard rushing day in the 31-15 victory over Colorado. In that one, he carried the ball 23 times. His first moment of prominence came when he carried 14 times for 111 yards against Northwestern in the second game of the season.

How Many Does It Take?

By The Associated Press

Don't be surprised if there are a lot of players running on and off the field between each play at the National Football League conference championship games Sunday.

It's only the newest wrinkle in pro football deceptions—the 13 and 14-man huddles. The NFL rule book says only 11 men can be used at a time, but it doesn't say how many can be sent into a huddle.

So Minnesota, which hosts Los Angeles in the National Conference title game, and Oakland, at home to Pittsburgh with the American Conference championship at stake, both have been sending more than the standard number of 11 players into some of their huddles recently.

The device prevents opposing teams from getting set until the last moment.

For example, on defense, Minnesota might send five linemen, six backs and three linebackers into a 14-man huddle. Will they yank the extra line man to defend against a pass, or will they pull the extra backs and clog up the front against the run? That's what the opposing quarterback must decide in his huddle.

Or on offense, Oakland might send three running backs and three wide receivers to join quarterback Ken Stabler in the huddle. Somebody obviously is going to leave before the play goes off. But will it be the runners, giving Stabler extra receivers to aim for, or will it be the pass catchers, giving the Raiders more blockers and runners in the backfield? The defense has to guess.

The only stipulation that teams must observe is that a player going onto the field must participate in at least one scrimmage play but that rule still gives teams using the device wide latitude on the attack or defense.

The tactic must be carefully employed because it can lead to an illegal procedure penalty but so far, the Vikings and Raiders have worked it well.

It forces a bit of uncertainty for the other team and perhaps provides an edge, no matter how small. At this stage, any little advantage is important.

"At this stage of the game, it doesn't matter who you play," said Minnesota Coach Bud Grant, looking ahead to the Rams. "The bad teams don't get this far."

Minnesota and Los Angeles both had 10-4 records during the regular season and won their NFC divisions. They met once, with LA beating the Vikings 20-17. Their only previous playoff meeting came in 1969 when Minnesota beat the Rams 23-20. Of the 20 games the two teams have played before, the Rams have won seven, but only once in Minnesota where Sunday's game will be played.

The AFC showdown between Oakland and Pittsburgh, also division champions, will be the seventh game in their series. The Raiders, 12-2 during the regular season, and Steelers, 10-3-1, have split their six meetings including playoff games in the last two seasons.

Steve Williams sparked the sputtering Dana offense with 17 points, with Bill Davies adding 14 to the cause.

Dana will play Luther College of Decorah, Iowa, in second-round action Friday.

Stabler Seeking Release

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Bill Putnam, the owner of the financially troubled Birmingham Americans of the World Football League, said in court Thursday his team has complied with the contract it has with Oakland Raiders' quarterback Kenny Stabler.

Putnam was testifying in Jefferson County Circuit Court at a hearing in a suit Stabler filed seeking his release from the contract with the Americans.

Stabler's attorney, Henry Pitts of Selma, Ala., said the team has been in arrears in payment of a $100,000 bonus. Stabler is to join the Americans in the 1976 season after playing out his option with the National Football League club.

The owner of the club said the team paid Stabler half of the bonus when the contract was signed, April 1. The remaining $50,000 was to be paid in a series of installments.

Pitts said, and Putnam confirmed in testimony Thursday, the team has defaulted in its September and October installments. Stabler's accountant, William Borando, said the agreement stipulated that the full bonus would be paid by Jan. 1, 1975.

Putnam said deferred payments were agreed to at Stabler's request, for tax purposes. He added there was no schedule as to how long the payments would be deferred.

Thursday, Putnam said the Americans owe some $1.6 million in back wages and bonuses in addition to a $786,137 bank loan.

Louisville Tips Kentucky Club

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Allen Murphy scored 24 points to pace fourth-ranked Louisville past Western Kentucky 106-81 in the opening round of the Holiday Classic Tournament here Thursday.

The win puts Louisville in the finals against Florida State Friday night.

Louisville, undefeated in six starts, led 49-43 at the half despite Western Kentucky's fast-break which netted the Hill-toppers 10 layups in the first 20 minutes.

Louisville scored the first three points of the second half and Western Kentucky could never get closer than eight as the Cardinals broke the game open.

game we've had (since a 67-55 victory over Long Beach State in the Sun Devil Classic)," he said. "We played well defensively, but that Adams is really a fine player."

At the start it appeared as if Oklahoma's senior 6-7 forward Bob Pritchard was the entire Sooner team. He tallied the team's first 10 points.

Although he only finished with 16 points, Pritchard was the big equalizer in the game's early going that kept OU in the contest.

The win, which evened Cipriano's Big Eight tournament record at 17-17, was Nebraska's fifth straight over the Sooners in the annual pre-season tournament.

A Roundup of Sports News

FOOTBALL

Bernard "Beanie" Cooper, head football coach and athletic director at Sioux City, Iowa, Heelan High School since 1969, was named head coach at South Dakota.

Greg Blanche, 24, the youngest member of Ara Parseghian's Notre Dame coaching staff, will be retained by new coach Dan Devine, it was announced.

A Minnesota food corporation has purchased the remaining ticket to the National Conference title game in Bloomington between the Minnesota Vikings and Los Angeles Rams.

Central Michigan, the NCAA Division II champion and Texas A&I, NAIA Division I champion, are the winners of the National Football Foundation and the Hall of Fame's John F. Kennedy and Dwight D. Eisenhower trophies, respectively.

Knee surgery on Buffalo Bills' wide receiver Bob Chandler was postponed because he contacted the flu, a Bills spokesman said.

BASKETBALL

The financially troubled Indiana Pacers called a news conference, apparently to announce the sale of the ABA team.

John J. "Taps" Gallagher, retired coach at Niagara, was inducted into the All-College Hall of Fame at a luncheon officially kicking off the 39th All-College tournament in Oklahoma City.

A 19-year-old Southwest College student, Ellis Files, died of an apparent heart attack while playing with friends at Pepperdine's Los Angeles campus.

HORSE RACING

The opening program of the winter season at Lincoln Downs, R.I., was cancelled after two races when jockeys refused to ride because of an unsafe track.

A $2 daily double ticket on Lucky Gummo and Wine Nipper paid $1,207.60, on opening day of the Santa Anita winter race meeting.

Chris McCarron, 19-year-old riding sensation, returned to Laurel Race Course and lost no time boosting his record wins for one year to 540 with three winners, which also tied his own all-time Maryland record of 118 wins at a single meeting.

OTHER SPORTS

The New England Whalers sent all-star defenseman Jim Dorey to the Toronto Toros, completing a WHA deal for center Wayne Carleton.

The Egyptian police team captured the second race of the annual Nile Regatta, beating runner-up Harvard by two lengths. Jean-Pierre Coopman of Belgium scored a 10-round decision over Vasco Faustino of Brazil in a heavyweight fight.

The North American indoor track season opened with the annual Saskatoon Knights of Columbus Meet in Canada.

Jenny Turali, Australia's latest swimming star, will participate in the Japan National Indoor Championships, in Tokyo in April.

Tar Heels Fall In Tournament

Madrid (AP) — Americans Walter Szczerbiak and Wayne Brabender combined for 65 points and led Real Madrid to a 112-101 basketball victory over the University of North Carolina Thursday for the championship of the 11th annual International Christmas Tournament.

The North Carolina Tar Heels, eight-ranked in the United States, won the tournament in their only other appearance in 1971. Their record officially is 4-1 since their tournament record here does not count.

Real Madrid, a舜unpro team which won the European cup championship, now has wound up the tournament with a 3-0 record.

North Carolina was next in the round robin competition with a 2-1 mark, followed by Cuba at 1-2 and Estudiantes of Monte Verde, a team of Madrid college students, 0-3.

Humm, Anthony Get 'Ink'

New Orleans, La. — The "glamour" boys of Nebraska's football team, which plays Florida in the Sugar Bowl game next Tuesday night, have been quarterback Dave Humm and I-back Monte Anthony.

They've garnered most of the space in this city's two daily newspapers since the Huskers arrived to begin workouts Christmas eve.

Humm's passing feats as a Husker have been recounted. They're familiar to all NU fans who'll get to see him in the red and white of Nebraska for the last time in the bowl game.

And so have his brushes with injuries which undoubtedly cost the Huskers in losses to Wisconsin and Missouri.

The Anthony story, even to Nebraskans, is the "Cinderella" feat of Coach Tom Osborne's second NU team and it took a little luck, coupled with Anthony's hard work, to make it happen.

The "luck" was the injury to starter John O'Leary in the Wisconsin game when he suffered a fractured jawbone. "If John had stayed healthy Monte would have played, but he might not have had the chance to start," Osborne recalled.

South Carolina Wins, 113-81

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — No. 11 ranked South Carolina, led by Tommy Boswell's 32 points, crushed Assumption College of Worcester, Mass., 113-81 Thursday night in the second game of the ECAC Ocean State Basketball Tournament.

In the opener, Providence College edged Holy Cross 76-75 on Bruce Campbell's layup with 13 seconds left.

Friday's games pit Brown against Drake and Rhode Island against St. John's.

Assumption gave the Gamecocks a battle in the first half before 13,333 fans, trailing by only 44-40 at halftime. But Assumption was no match once South Carolina got its fast-breaking game going in the second half. South Carolina put the game out of reach when it grabbed a 20-point lead, 69-49, with 13 minutes left.

Boswell, a 6-9 center, paced South Carolina points as the Gamecocks, now 5-1, rolled to their highest point total of the season. John Grochowalki collected 19 points for Assumption in the first half but was limited to six after the intermission.

Louisville Tips Kentucky Club

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Allen Murphy scored 24 points to pace fourth-ranked Louisville past Western Kentucky 106-81 in the opening round of the Holiday Classic Tournament here Thursday.

The win puts Louisville in the finals against Florida State Friday night.

Louisville, undefeated in six starts, led 49-43 at the half despite Western Kentucky's fast-break which netted the Hill-toppers 10 layups in the first 20 minutes.

Louisville scored the first three points of the second half and Western Kentucky could never get closer than eight as the Cardinals broke the game open.

game we've had (since a 67-55 victory over Long Beach State in the Sun Devil Classic)," he said. "We played well defensively, but that Adams is really a fine player."

At the start it appeared as if Oklahoma's senior 6-7 forward Bob Pritchard was the entire Sooners team. He tallied the team's first 10 points.

Although he only finished with 16 points, Pritchard was the big equalizer in the game's early going that kept OU in the contest.

The win, which evened Cipriano's Big Eight tourney record at 17-17, was Nebraska's fifth straight over the Sooners in the annual pre-season tournament.

Stabler Seeking Release

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Bill Putnam, the owner of the financially troubled Birmingham Americans of the World Football League, said in court Thursday his team has complied with the contract it has with Oakland Raiders' quarterback Kenny Stabler.

Putnam was testifying in Jefferson County Circuit Court at a hearing in a suit Stabler filed seeking his release from the contract with the Americans.

Stabler's attorney, Henry Pitts of Selma, Ala., said the team has been in arrears in payment of a $100,000 bonus. Stabler is to join the Americans in the 1976 season after playing out his option with the National Football League club.

The owner of the club said the team paid Stabler half of the bonus when the contract was signed, April 1. The remaining $50,000 was to be paid in a series of installments.

Pitts said, and Putnam confirmed in testimony Thursday, the team has defaulted in its September and October installments. Stabler's accountant, William Borando, said the agreement stipulated that the full bonus would be paid by Jan. 1, 1975.

Putnam said deferred payments were agreed to at Stabler's request, for tax purposes. He added there was no schedule as to how long the payments would be deferred.

Thursday, Putnam said the Americans owe some $1.6 million in back wages and bonuses in addition to a $786,137 bank loan.

It also marked the return of Nebraska to semifinal tourney action for the first time since the Huskers finished second to Kansas in the 1970 meet.

Perhaps this is Nebraska's year to be the league's surprise team.

Morning Briefing

FOOTBALL

Bernard "Beanie" Cooper, head football coach and athletic director at Sioux City, Iowa, Heelan High School since 1969, was named head coach at South Dakota.

Greg Blanche, 24, the youngest member of Ara Parseghian's Notre Dame coaching staff, will be retained by new coach Dan Devine, it was announced.

A Minnesota food corporation has purchased the remaining ticket to the National Conference title game in Bloomington between the Minnesota Vikings and Low Angeles Rams.

Central Michigan, the NCAA Division II champion and Texas A&I, NAIA Division I champion, are the winners of the National Football Foundation and the Hall of Fame's John F. Kennedy and Dwight D. Eisenhower trophies, respectively.

Knee surgery on Buffalo Bills' wide receiver Bob Chandler was postponed because he contacted the flu, a Bills spokesman said.

BASKETBALL

The financially troubled Indiana Pacers called a news conference, apparently to announce the sale of the ABA team.

John J. "Taps" Gallagher, retired coach at Niagara, was inducted into the All-College Hall of Fame at a luncheon officially kicking off the 39th All-College tournament in Oklahoma City.

A 19-year-old Southwest College student, Ellis Files, died of an apparent heart attack while playing with friends at Pepperdine's Los Angeles campus.

HORSE RACING

The opening program of the winter season at Lincoln Downs, R.I., was cancelled after two races when jockeys refused to ride because of an unsafe track.

A $2 daily double ticket on Lucky Gummo and Wine Nipper paid $1,207.60, on opening day of the Santa Anita winter race meeting.

Chris McCarron, 19-year-old riding sensation, returned to Laurel Race course and lost no time boosting his record wins for one year to 540 with three winners, which also tied his own all-time Maryland record of 118 wins at a single meeting.

OTHER SPORTS

The New England Whalers sent all-star defenseman Jim Dorey to the Toronto Toros, completing a WHA deal for center Wayne Carleton.

The Egyptian police team captured the second race of the annual Nile Regatta, beating runner-up Harvard by two lengths. Jean-Pierre Coopman of Belgium scored a 10-round decision over Vasco Faustino of Brazil in a heavyweight fight.

The North American indoor track season opened with the annual Saskatoon Knights of Columbus Meet in Canada.

Jenny Turali, Australia's latest swimming star, will participate in the Japan National Indoor Championships, in Tokyo in April.

Tar Heels Fall In Tournament

Mack Eyes Pro Football

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Little brother Dick Mack contends he can make the grade in professional sports, just like his father and older brother.

The 5-foot-11, 212-pound Ohio State offensive guard is the son of the late Ray Mack, a Cleveland Indians' second baseman who teamed with Lou Boudreau in forming one of baseball's best double play combinations.

His older brother is Tom Mack, a 6-foot-4, 255-pound All-Pro guard with the Los Angeles Rams.

Tom, however, isn't offering any advice to his younger brother over pro football aspirations.

"He knows he's small," the Rams' captain said. "I'm not going to advise him either way."

Dick says: "If I don't make it in the National Football League, I'd like to try Canadian ball. Their money's good, too."

For the second time this season, Dick is working at center, preparing to face Southern California in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

His normal position is guard. However, a second broken right wrist for center Steve Myers has forced the two linemen to switch positions.

"You just can't have left-handers at center," he explained. "I had to learn to snap the ball with my right hand when I was a sophomore. Now I'm doing it again."

"It just doesn't come naturally," he said.

But there is a bigger problem for him at center—his technique.

"I've got to learn to snap the ball and move up to block in all the same motion. That's the toughest part."

Although Dick is 24 pounds lighter than any of the other interior Ohio State linemen, he earned All-Big Ten Conference first team honors this season.

His line coach, Joe Bugel, said, "Mack is the most underrated player we have. All those big guys get the ink. But Mack was voted to the coaches' all-conference team at guard. That tells you something since he played five games at center."

Bugel added, "If I had it to do again, Dick would have been at center against Michigan. He's slick and quick. It would have been great with him against Tim Davis (Michigan's fast nose guard). Then Myers could have taken Steve Strinko, their great linebacker."

Bugel, in fact, believes Mack should have been at center all season.

The Buckeyes, working toward a third straight meeting against Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl, are off Friday, their second idle day in the last three.

The Big Ten co-champions will practice four straight days, beginning Saturday at Citrus College.

East-West Lineups Announced

The practice field is one place where I have control of the players and I want to make the most of it. Bowl games are supposed to be fun, but when we are on the practice field we need to work."

"I want closed workouts because it sets the tone for practice," Paterno said. "We will be doing some things differently against Baylor, and I don't want a bunch of people hanging around."

"The practice field is one place where I have control of the players and I want to make the most of it. Bowl games are supposed to be fun, but when we are on the practice field we need to work."

"As for doing some things differently against Baylor, Paterno said "It's not going to be anything dramatic. We'll just put in something they haven't seen—or at least haven't seen us do. I always like to try to change up the offense and defense a little for bowl games."

"I might put in a little wing," Paterno moved the Nittany Lions into wing-T and double wing formations this year, putting the I formation on the back burner. Seventh-ranked Penn State finished the season 9-2.

The 12th-ranked Bears won their first SWC title in 50 years and their first invitation to the Cotton Bowl, arrive Friday to begin workouts.

"Both teams have a lot to gain, and I can tell you from the films Baylor is an awfully good football team," Paterno said. "I know they've captured the imagination of the fans up our way."

"There's no national championship at stake, but it will be a fun game."

Win Streak May Not Aid BYU

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Brigham Young Coach LaVell Edwards said Thursday that his Cougars' seven-game winning streak won't help win the Fiesta Bowl unless "we can pick up where we left off."

Brigham Young, winner of the Western Athletic Conference title, will take a 7-3-1 record into the Fiesta Bowl on Saturday against Oklahoma State, 6-5 after losing two of their last three games of the regular season.

Cowboys Coach Jim Stanley, however, was undaunted by the dim windup of his Big Eight Conference team, a 44-13 loss to top-ranked Oklahoma, which finished the season 11-0.

"We did not beat Oklahoma, but eight or 10 other teams didn't either," said Stanley.

Still, he said the high point of the Cowboys' season was entering the fourth quarter trailing the Sooners only 16-13.

"We had the ball and a 25-mile-per-hour wind at our back," he said. "We thought we were going to win."

But then came a sensational punt return by Joe Washington and Oklahoma went on to a romp.

"I don't think they had a dismal ending," Edwards said. "Certainly not anytime you can be in the ball game with Oklahoma after three quarters."

The Cougars, ranked No. 17 in the country, are playing in their first bowl game ever.

"How much the layoff will hurt us, I don't know," Edwards said. "Whether we pick up where we left off remains to be seen."

Nor does he know the formula that switched around his team after an 0-3-1 beginning.

"Gentlemen," he said, "if I knew, I'd bottle it and sell it."

Against Oklahoma State, Edwards said, the Cougars go against "an excellent running attack, by far the best we've faced this year."

The Cowboys also use the triple-option wishbone-T, which Brigham Young hasn't faced this year.

Oklahoma State will be seeing a straight four-three defense — four down linemen and three linebackers — for the first time in 1974.

"We certainly anticipate problems," said Stanley, adding that Brigham Young's personnel, not the alignment, is the main concern.

Edwards said the Cowboy attack "does create problems for us" since "the bulk of our players haven't seen the wishbone."

The BYU coach said his team is on a crusade for the conference.

"We have a problem with the rest of the country not realizing how well we play football in the WAC," he said. "It's extremely important that we play well."

Sun Bowl Foes Greeted By Snow

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Sun Bowl foes North Carolina and Mississippi State arrived in this Texas border city on the heels of an unlikely snowstorm Thursday and launched chilly tune-up sessions for Saturday's nationally-televised contest.

"Is this the Sun Bowl or the Snow Bowl?" quipped North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley as the Tarheels tumbled out into the airport snowdrifts.

"Beautiful. Just beautiful," chortled Coach Bob Tyler as his Bulldogs, arriving minutes later, trudged through the slush to the sounds of a welcoming mariachi band.

The overnight five-inch snowfall blanketed El Paso and its sister city, Juarez, Mexico, and evoked a mild prediction from Tyler that "the weather will be a factor Saturday."

That was about the only forecast by either coach as they began preparations for the 11 a.m. MST, clash to be televised over CBS from the mountain-ringed Sun Bowl stadium.

Officials of the 40th annual Southwestern Sun Carnival recruited youthful volunteers to clear the snow from the artificial turf. Both squads mapped workout plans as the temperature slowly drifted above freezing.

The opposing coaches shrugged off the early forecast of a high scoring duel, choosing instead to laud the efforts of their respective defensive units.

The fact was not overlooked, however, that Carolina led the Atlantic Coast Conference in total offense with an average of 426.5 yards per game while cruising to a 7-4 record and its second Sun Bowl trip in three years.

The Tar Heels whipped Texas Tech 32-28 here in 1972.

Mississippi State, 8-3, is on its first bowl outing since 1963 when the Bulldogs clipped North Carolina State 16-12 in the Liberty Bowl.

The coaches confined most of their opening remarks to the talents of the opposing quarterbacks, Chris Kupek of the Tarheels and Rocky Felker of the Bulldogs.

Felker was honored as the Southeastern Conference's Most Valuable player while Kupek was breaking a series of school records and a national standard by completing 104 of 150 passes for a sparkling 69.3 percentage.

Tyler observed that if North Carolina's two flashing tailbacks, James Betterson and Mike Voight, "don't run the ball over you, Kupek will throw it over you."

Dooley called Felker an "amazing young man...who does a tremendous job of directing the veer attack that Mississippi State deploys."

For the first time in several years the Sun Bowl has a bonafide All-American in offensive guard Ken Huff. The 6-4, 254-pounder spearheads an offensive line that enabled the Tar Heels to roll up an average of 31 points per game.

Omahan Accepts Taped Testimony

Omaha (AP) — During the Watergate trials in the nation's capital there was talk of obtaining videotaped-testimony from former President Richard Nixon.

Nixon is unable to travel from his San Clemente, Calif., home to Washington because of his recent, near-fatal bout with plebitis.

The video tape technique in the courtroom is not completely new to Omaha, but it is nearly so.

Douglas County District Court Judge Rudolph Tassar recently presided over a case stemming from a traffic accident in which one of the principles gave testimony via video tape.

Tassar believes the results were satisfactory, but the woman giving her testimony by video tape may not feel the same way — she lost the case.

The case involved Mrs. Susan Burrows, the plaintiff, who has since moved to Australia, and Mrs. Elisabeth Liakos of Omaha, the defendant.

At issue was a traffic accident which occurred in Omaha, Oct. 22, 1971.

Mrs. Burrows claimed that

Mrs. Liakos' car struck her auto from behind. However, Mrs. Liakos claimed that Mrs. Burrows caused the accident by changing lanes in front of her, then stopping abruptly.

Mrs. Burrows asked for damages of $32,500 for alleged back and head injuries sustained in the mishap. Mrs. Liakos filed a counterclaim for $1,569.

Before leaving for Australia, Mrs. Burrows was cross-examined before the cameras and the videotape recorder. She told her side of the accident, and of the injuries she received.

The tape was played for the jury, whose members watched on two television sets.

However, the tape was played for Tassar before the jury got a chance to see it. If one of the attorneys in the case objected to some of the testimony, and Tassar sustained the objection, the tape was edited before its showing to the jury.

After all was said and done, the jury rejected the claims by both women.

District Court Administrator Paul White said the case was the first that he knew of utilizing videotaped testimony during an actual trial.

Speed Ideas Vary

Omaha (UPI) — A Cornhusker Motor Club survey released Thursday showed a somewhat conflicting attitude toward the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit.

Of the 195 persons questioned at an Omaha shopping center, 80% believed the federally-imposed speed limit saved lives, but only 49% wanted it retained.

In addition, 73% of those questioned said they were "completely opposed" to adding gasoline taxes, while 21% said they were "unhappy with the proposal but willing to go along with it."

The motor club said 6% believed the gas tax hike was "necessary to conserve energy and would accept it completely."

The feelings of those surveyed were generally opposed to airbags as a motor vehicle safety device, while 46% said they wore seatbelts sometimes, 41% always and 3% never.

Services Slated Friday For Would-Be Rescuer

Newport (AP) — Funeral services are scheduled here Friday afternoon for Mrs. Donald Gordon, 34, of rural Newport.

Mrs. Gordon died last Monday when she was smothered in a silo-type grain storage bin, while trying to rescue her husband, who became trapped in the bin before her.

Rock County authorities said Gordon and his wife were augering corn into the bin, when the auger jammed.

Gordon used a rope to lower himself into the bin to clear obstructions, but lost the rope, and fell into the grain.

Buried chest-deep in the grain, Gordon was overcome by the fumes and passed out.

Mrs. Gordon, in an effort to help her husband, also lowered herself into the bin, but she also lost hold of the rope, and apparently fell head first into the grain, and smothered.

One of the Gordon children reportedly summoned a nearby store owner, and Gordon, who apparently got some oxygen through the auger, was rescued from the bin.

Cause Of Death Of Otto's Wife To Be Probed

Omaha (AP) — An autopsy has been ordered to determine the cause of death of the wife of an Omaha man who died Thursday of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Police said that when they were called to the home of Andrew Otto, 57, they found him lying in a pool of blood with a gunshot wound to the head.

His wife was found dead, but police said the cause had not been determined. Police said she had been dead for some time. Officers said the woman had cuts and bruises about her face.

IRS Has Good News And Some Bad News

WASHINGTON (AP) — First, the good news: The Internal Revenue Service says some individual taxpayers will be entitled to some $28 billion in tax refunds this year.

The bad news: The rest will have to cough up an estimated $10 billion to square their accounts with the IRS.

The IRS mailed out your income tax form Thursday, the day after Christmas. Barring any foul-up, you should find it soon in your mailbox, along with bills from stores for Christmas purchases.

The IRS estimates about $28 billion in refunds to individual taxpayers this year but others will have to come up with an estimated $10 billion by next April 15.

Most taxpayers won't be able to file their forms until next year, when employers send out statements of earnings and withholdings. The IRS won't beef up its tax preparation assistance service until Jan. 2. But the service explained that

550 To Be Laid Off

Greenwood, S.C. (AP) — About 550 employees, or roughly one-fourth of the work force at the Monsanto Co. textile plant here, will be laid off beginning Jan. 6, the company said.

Trade Volume Told

Taipei (AP) — Taiwan's trade volume this year will total $12.5 billion, according to the initial estimate of the Ministry of Economic Affairs.

IRS Has Good News And Some Bad News

WASHINGTON (AP) — First, the good news: The Internal Revenue Service says some individual taxpayers will be entitled to some $28 billion in tax refunds this year.

The bad news: The rest will have to cough up an estimated $10 billion to square their accounts with the IRS.

The IRS mailed out your income tax form Thursday, the day after Christmas. Barring any foul-up, you should find it soon in your mailbox, along with bills from stores for Christmas purchases.

The IRS estimates about $28 billion in refunds to individual taxpayers this year but others will have to come up with an estimated $10 billion by next April 15.

Most taxpayers won't be able to file their forms until next year, when employers send out statements of earnings and withholdings. The IRS won't beef up its tax preparation assistance service until Jan. 2.

But the service explained that

550 To Be Laid Off
Greenwood, S.C. (AP) — About 550 employees, or roughly one-fourth of the work force at the Monsanto Co. textile plant here, will be laid off beginning Jan. 6, the company said.

Trade Volume Told
Taipei (AP) — Taiwan's trade volume this year will total $12.5 billion, according to the initial estimate of the Ministry of Economic Affairs.

Lawyer: Ehrlichman 'Thrown To The Wolves'

The New York Times
Washington — John D. Ehrlichman's chief defense lawyer told the jury Thursday as the Watergate cover-up trial neared an end that Ehrlichman was a "loyal servant" whom Richard M. Nixon had "thrown to the wolves" to protect himself.

The lawyer, William S. Frates, asked the jury in his closing argument not to be swayed in its deliberations by any dislike it might feel toward former President Nixon.

He also asked the jurors not to be swayed either by the "golden tongue" of the chief prosecutor, James F. Neal, whose impassioned summation a few days earlier had often appeared to hold jurors as well as spectators spellbound.

Don't "Follow Crowd" And he asked the jurors not to "follow the crowd" but to "stick with" whatever conviction each juror arrived at. To a number of observers, this request appeared to be an attempt to suggest to the jurors the possibility of not returning a verdict at all, because of failure to agree with one another.

The jury also heard Thursday the summation on behalf of Robert C. Mardian, former assistant attorney general who was an official of the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign committee, and the beginning of the summation on behalf of Kenneth Wells Parkinson, a Washington attorney hired by the campaign committee to handle the litigation resulting from the break-in at the Democratic National Headquarters at the Watergate Complex.

At the close of Thursday's session, the 60th day of the trial, Judge John J. Sirica announced that he planned to send the case to the jury on Monday, recessing for the weekend after the defense summations and the prosecution's rebuttal summation.

Case Of 'Sand' Mardian's attorney, Thomas C. Green, argued that the government had made an "error" when it included Mardian in the case. He said that the government had built a case of "sand," not "concrete," against his client.

Mardian, unlike the other four defendants is charged only with the basic conspiracy count in the case — to obstruct justice. Of the 45 "overt acts" listed in the conspiracy count as steps taken by the conspirators, only five concern Mardian. Green pointed this out, saying, "he stands apart from his other defendants, co-defendants in this case."

Jacob A. Stein, Parkinson's attorney, followed Green. He said, basically, that the government had failed to demonstrate any motive Parkinson might have had for joining the conspiracy.

Frates has based much of Ehrlichman's defense on the contention that Nixon "deceived," "lied" to and "misled" Ehrlichman. In his summation Thursday he referred repeatedly to various things which he said Nixon had or had not done to Ehrlichman.

He said, for instance, that Ehrlichman had never been told by Nixon or others of Nixon's own involvement in the Watergate cover-up. So, Frates said, Ehrlichman believed in Nixon and in the spring of 1973 was trying to get the truth out about Watergate in order to clear Nixon.

"Here's this dedicated loyal servant trying to clear his commander in chief, regardless of who got hurt," Frates said. "And here's the commander in chief, sitting in his office knowing all the time who was calling the shots."

Several times in his summation Frates referred the jury to the day Nixon had told Ehrlichman he had to resign, April 29, 1973.

He said that Ehrlichman had received "no greater compliment" than the one he received that day from Nixon — "when he was throwing him out on the street to protect himself, when he said, 'you've been my conscience,' even while knowing what he'd kept from Ehrlichman."

"He was thrown out," Frates said. "Let's be brutally frank — thrown to the wolves."

Green, following Frates, gave a markedly different type of summation in Mardian's defense.

He spoke in an almost somber tone, sometimes growing angry but never — unlike any of the lawyers, prosecution or defense, before him — making jokes.

He reminded the jury that Mardian was charged only with the conspiracy count, and that only five of the overt acts concerned him and "these overt acts are not building blocks in the government's case. They're not concrete. They're really just sand," he said.

He reminded the jury that the evidence against Mardian concerned only "30 days in the summer of 1972," those following the break-in, during which Mardian worked on the Watergate-related litigation facing the committee. After that Mardian had devoted himself full time to political activities around the country for Nixon's campaign.

FBI Likely To Watch Socialist Convention

St. Louis, Mo. (UPI) — Socialists from across the country will converge on St. Louis Friday for a convention likely to be under the gaze of the FBI.

The Young Socialist Alliance temporarily won a court order barring FBI surveillance, but a Federal Appeals Court this week in New York reversed the order and gave the agency the go-ahead for watching the meeting.

The convention runs from Saturday afternoon through New Year's Day at a downtown hotel. Organizers expect 1,000 persons to attend.

The Young Socialist Alliance, many of whose members also belong to the Socialist Workers Party, bills itself as a radical youth organization. It holds yearly conventions to map strategy for the coming year.

The 14th national convention will debate plans for a mobilization to "get the buses moving" in the Boston School System and issues arising from the women's liberation movement.

"The recession, inflation and unemployment will undoubtedly be central topics," a statement by the group said.

Rebozo Was Right!

Key Biscayne, Fla. (UPI) — Bebe Rebozo predicted it and it happened Christmas Day when hundreds of curiosity seekers snarled traffic, ignored barricades and trampled laws to get a glimpse of former President Richard Nixon's Key Biscayne vacation compound.

Sightseers, many from out of town, parked cars on the lawns of Rebozo's neighbors, walked on the grass, and openly ignored security guards by strolling around their barricade in front of Bay Lane.

"It'll be like a Chinese fire drill, only worse, if they (officially) open it up," said James Cosnahan, a Government Services Agency security guard. He said he finally got his fill about 5 p.m. and began chasing people away.

Cosnahan said he counted about 700 people who peeked into the compound during the day from behind the thick iron gates that surround it. Most of the curiosity seekers left, saying they were "unimpressed."

El Al Airlines Stops Operation Due To Dispute

Tel Aviv (UPI) — El Al Airlines' worldwide operations were shut down indefinitely Thursday by the government in a labor dispute with maintenance workers over a slowdown.

The suspension of international operations by the government airline was announced by its president, Mordechai Ben Ari, who said the shutdown would remain in effect until the 500 line maintenance workers agreed not to continue the work slowdown.

Lawyer: Ehrlichman 'Thrown To The Wolves'

The New York Times
Washington — John D. Ehrlichman's chief defense lawyer told the jury Thursday as the Watergate cover-up trial neared an end that Ehrlichman was a "loyal servant" whom Richard M. Nixon had "thrown to the wolves" to protect himself.

The lawyer, William S. Frates, asked the jury in his closing argument not to be swayed in its deliberations by any dislike it might feel toward former President Nixon.

He also asked the jurors not to be swayed either by the "golden tongue" of the chief prosecutor, James F. Neal, whose impassioned summation a few days earlier had often appeared to hold jurors as well as spectators spellbound.

Don't 'Follow Crowd'
And he asked the jurors not to "follow the crowd" but to "stick with" whatever conviction each juror arrived at. To a number of observers, this request appeared to be an attempt to suggest to the jurors the possibility of not returning a verdict at all, because of failure to agree with one another.

The jury also heard Thursday the summation on behalf of Robert C. Mardian, former assistant attorney general who was an official of the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign committee, and the beginning of the summation on behalf of Kenneth Wells Parkinson, a Washington attorney hired by the campaign committee to handle the litigation resulting from the break-in at the Democratic National Headquarters at the Watergate Complex.

At the close of Thursday's session, the 60th day of the trial, Judge John J. Sirica announced that he planned to send the case to the jury on Monday, recessing for the weekend after the conclusion Saturday of the defense summations and the prosecution's rebuttal summation.

Case Of 'Sand'
Mardian's attorney, Thomas C. Green, argued that the government had made an "error" when it included Mardian in the case. He said that the government had built a case of "sand," not "concrete," against his client.

Mardian, unlike the other four defendants is charged only with the basic conspiracy count in the case — to obstruct justice. Of the 45 "overt acts" listed in the conspiracy count as steps taken by the conspirators, only five concern Mardian. Green pointed this out, saying, "he stands apart from his other defendants, co-defendants in this case."

Jacob A. Stein, Parkinson's attorney, followed Green. He said, basically, that the government had failed to demonstrate any motive Parkinson might have had for joining the conspiracy.

Frates has based much of Ehrlichman's defense on the contention that Nixon "deceived," "lied" to and "misled" Ehrlichman. In his summation Thursday he referred repeatedly to various things which he said Nixon had or had not done to Ehrlichman.

He said, for instance, that Ehrlichman had never been told by Nixon or others of Nixon's own involvement in the Watergate cover-up. So, Frates said, Ehrlichman believed in Nixon and in the spring of 1973 was trying to get the truth out about Watergate in order to clear Nixon.

"Here's this dedicated loyal servant trying to clear his commander in chief, regardless of who got hurt," Frates said. "And here's the commander in chief, sitting in his office knowing all the time who was calling the shots."

Several times in his summation Frates referred the jury to the day Nixon had told Ehrlichman he had to resign, April 29, 1973.

He said that Ehrlichman had received "no greater compliment" than the one he received that day from Nixon — "when he was throwing him out on the street to protect himself, when he said, 'you've been my conscience,' even while knowing what he'd kept from Ehrlichman."

"He was thrown out," Frates said. "Let's be brutally frank — thrown to the wolves."

Green, following Frates, gave a markedly different type of summation in Mardian's defense.

He spoke in an almost somber tone, sometimes growing angry but never — unlike any of the lawyers, prosecution or defense, before him — making jokes.

He reminded the jury that Mardian was charged only with the conspiracy count, and that only five of the overt acts concerned him and "these overt acts are not building blocks in the government's case. They're not concrete. They're really just sand," he said.

He reminded the jury that the evidence against Mardian concerned only "30 days in the summer of 1972," those following the break-in, during which Mardian worked on the Watergate-related litigation facing the committee. After that Mardian had devoted himself full time to political activities around the country for Nixon's campaign.

FBI Likely To Watch Socialist Convention

St. Louis, Mo. (UPI) — Socialists from across the country will converge on St. Louis Friday for a convention likely to be under the gaze of the FBI.

The Young Socialist Alliance temporarily won a court order barring FBI surveillance, but a Federal Appeals Court this week in New York reversed the order and gave the agency the go-ahead for watching the meeting.

The convention runs from Saturday afternoon through New Year's Day at a downtown hotel. Organizers expect 1,000 persons to attend.

The Young Socialist Alliance, many of whose members also belong to the Socialist Workers Party, bills itself as a radical youth organization. It holds yearly conventions to map strategy for the coming year.

The 14th national convention will debate plans for a mobilization to "get the buses moving" in the Boston School System and issues arising from the women's liberation movement.

"The recession, inflation and unemployment will undoubtedly be central topics," a statement by the group said.

Rebozo Was Right!

Key Biscayne, Fla. (UPI) — Bebe Rebozo predicted it and it happened Christmas Day when hundreds of curiosity seekers snarled traffic, ignored barricades and trampled laws to get a glimpse of former President Richard Nixon's Key Biscayne vacation compound.

Sightseers, many from out of town, parked cars on the lawns of Rebozo's neighbors, walked on the grass, and openly ignored security guards by strolling around their barricade in front of Bay Lane.

"It'll be like a Chinese fire drill, only worse, if they (officially) open it up," said James Cosnahan, a Government Services Agency security guard. He said he finally got his fill about 5 p.m. and began chasing people away.

Cosnahan said he counted about 700 people who peeked into the compound during the day from behind the thick iron gates that surround it. Most of the curiosity seekers left, saying they were "unimpressed."

El Al Airlines Stops Operation Due To Dispute

Tel Aviv (UPI) — El Al Airlines' worldwide operations were shut down indefinitely Thursday by the government in a labor dispute with maintenance workers over a slowdown.

The suspension of international operations by the government airline was announced by its president, Mordechai Ben Ari, who said the shutdown would remain in effect until the 500 line maintenance workers agreed not to continue the work slowdown.

Auditors Of IRS Know Where Bodies Are Buried

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

New York — There's one thing you have to say for the auditors of the Internal Revenue Service: They know where the bodies are buried, even if they don't always find them. Long experience has taught them where people are most likely to err (or cheat) on their tax returns — so much so that they can program a computer to spot suspicious cases. And to keep new agents on the scent, the IRS publishes a manual, specifying what kinds of proof should be demanded during a tax audit.

Sections of this manual are newly available to the public in photocopy form. Its pages reveal no dark secrets — in fact, much of it is information you already have. But for those who are interested, it sets down in orderly fashion the approach an auditor is likely to take.

The chapter dealing with individual returns is available for $1 from the Freedom of Information Reading Room, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20540. For $10, you can also get the sections on partnerships, estates, trusts, and corporations. Here are some of the places agents look for errors:

More Susceptible

Some occupations and trades, the manual notes knowingly, are "more susceptible than others to omitted income." For example, whenever fees or commissions are involved — as with doctors, plumbers, electricians and salesmen — work can be done for cash and never reported. Also, in hard times like these, many workers on straight wages or salaries will be moonlighting for cash.

Auditors find hidden income by showing that you've made more purchases, or added more to your net worth, than your reported income would permit. But if unreported cash transactions are quite small in relation to total income, and never cycled through a bank account, auditors concede that they can be difficult to find.

Jane Bryant Quinn

If you have income of any reasonable size and report no dividends or interest, it makes an agent curious. He expects you to have a savings account somewhere, or a little stock. Any interest or dividends you get that amount to more than $10, or fees and commissions of more than $600, are reported to the government by the company that paid them. Not all these reports can yet be computer-matched against your return. But an agent can generally find the income during your audit.

Gifts To Charity

When you contribute to charity, the agency wants to know if it was a true gift, or merely a payment for benefits received. For example, if you check to the American Civil Liberties Union was really for books and pamphlets, rather than for the ACLU Foundation, it's not deductible. Neither is the full price of a theater ticket bought to benefit a charity. You can take off only the amount you paid above the normal ticket price.

Undocumented cash contributions are a little thornier, and how much the agent allows will depend on how he feels about your tax return in general. Strictly speaking, he would disallow everything for which you have no receipt. But in practice, he'll accept a reasonable amount for such things as the church collection plate (if you attend church) and street-corner donations to the Salvation Army. To get by, however, these contributions must be small.

Other errors: On interest deductions, people sometimes try to lump in principal payments as well. They may incorrectly deduct medical expenses or theft losses that have been covered by insurance. Working women may chalk up a maid's salary to child care. There may be deductions for a nonexistent (or ineligible) office at home. And education expenses may be taken for studies that have nothing to do with improving competence on the job. Some courses of study just mask vacations near a foreign university.

Travel and entertainment are favorite places for taxpayers to pad, if their business situation allows. Personal trips may be given a business cast. Entertainment diaries may show lots of business lunches for under $25 (which don't have to be substantiated with a receipt).

Cheaters Often Caught

The IRS has put a lot of time into writing tight rules for "T-and-E" deductions — with the result that greedy cheaters are often caught. Travel expenses for business conventions come under especially close scrutiny. So do deductions taken for expenses the IRS thinks your employer might have reimbursed you for. Small-scale padding can be tough to nail down — but that doesn't mean the IRS won't look for it.

Transactions between family members, or among various controlled corporations (especially foreign ones), are looked at pretty closely. The IRS might conclude that a bad debt to a brother-in-law was really a taxable gift. Stock transactions giving favorable tax results will very likely be questioned. Even interest-free loans can get you into trouble. If the loan is large enough, you may owe a gift tax on the interest you should have charged but didn't.

There are many other places an experienced revenue agent looks for errors. The more complicated the return the harder his job — but as the manual shows, he's up to the challenge.

Stock Mart Grinds Out Mild Gain

New York (AP) — The stock market ground out its second mild gain in a row Thursday with the encouragement of some hopes for new government steps soon against the nation's economic and energy problems.

Trading was light, however, and analysts cautioned that the market picture was clouded by technical end-of-the-year influences.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials added 6.34 to 604.74 on top of Tuesday's 8.76-point advance before the Christmas holiday.

Gainers outnumbered losers 841 to 496 among the 1,812 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks showed a .31 rise to 35.51.

Big Board volume came to only 11.81 million shares.

The gain came primarily in the early going, with the Dow reaching its peak gain of about 8 points at mid-day. Prices then settled back slightly toward the close.

Analysts noted some buying in the wake of President Ford's summoning of top advisers to Vail, Colo., where he is spending the holidays, for discussion of economic and energy issues.

Mid-way through the session, Ron Nessen, the President's press secretary, confirmed Wall Street expectations that Ford's State of the Union message to Congress next month would focus almost entirely on economic and energy matters.

Whatever expectations of new economic strategies at the White House that might have been raised by that news, however, most analysts were quick to point out that the market was still behaving uncertainly.

"The market is so artificial at this time of the year, with year-end portfolio adjustments, tax selling and reinvestment, and so on," said Myron S. Helman at Shields Model Roland Inc.

"The market looks as though it really has no story to tell at the moment."

Texasco, the most-active issue on the Big Board, slipped 1/4 to 20 1/2 on turnover of 145,300 shares.

Getty Oil climbed 5 to 150 1/4. The issue traded as high as 155 before trading in it was halted briefly for dissemination of the company's announcement that tests had confirmed a potentially "significant" hydrocarbon discovery near Mobile, Ala.

General Electric, recommended by an investment advisory service, rose 1/2 to 32 1/2 in active trading.

On the American Stock Exchange, Breeze Corp., dropped 1/2 to 2 on the heels of a 3/4-point loss Tuesday, when the company said it expected to come in with a fourth quarter loss that would leave it in the red for the year.

U.S. Filter, the Amex volume leader, rose 3/4 to 3 1/2.

The Amex market-value index managed a .17 gain to 59.51.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 58.88, up .57.

School Created In Controversy

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Oxford — It's a new building in a new location with a most appropriate new name — New View School.

Spacious, modern and attractive, it is also something of a model facility for the trainable mentally retarded. And its smoothly functioning program belies a stormy background which went so far as the filing of an injunction.

A controversy over whether the school should be located here or at Holdrege, 23 miles northeast, resulted in a close split vote for Oxford by the directors of Educational Service Unit No. 11. For five years that entity had operated a predecessor school in the old high school gymnasium at Ragan.

Building Offered
While some parents contended Holdrege would be a preferable location from the standpoint of transportation, the Oxford Development Corporation strategically countered with the offer of a $105,000 building under a 12-year lease-purchase agreement. The steel structure was erected near the north edge of town.

"We never doubted that a good school could be operated at Oxford; it was just a question of location," said Clifford Lowell, ESU media director and curriculum consultant. "This is certainly far superior to the facilities which were condemned at Ragan."

A certain amount of friction does persist, however, since another program for the handicapped has begun at Holdrege. Operated by the public school, it currently serves about 10 pupils as the Holdrege Opportunity Center. It operates in the Presbyterian Church basement.

Resident Pupils
Of the 10 handicapped enrollees at Oxford's New View, seven are resident pupils from other communities who are housed during the week in the former First Baptist Church. They come from Alma, Holbrook, Hildreth, Republican City and Axtell.

Mrs. Eleanor Erickson, formerly on the staff of Bethpage Mission at Axtell, and Mrs. Linda Imel are New View's teachers. Mrs. LaVerna Taylor serves as house mother. "The residential program has the advantage of permitting the continued teaching of self-care skills at the home as well as in the classroom," said Mrs. Erickson.

One room of the new school is devoted to such living skills as use of a sewing machine, ironing board and laundry facilities. The school also has a large multipurpose room, library, two classrooms and a kitchen.

Construction on the school was delayed when opponents filed a temporary injunction to halt the work. However, the injunction was dismissed and work was completed during the summer.

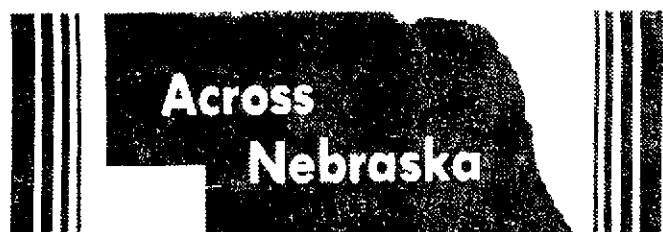

A summer program preceded the current semester of operation.

Courthouse Petition Drive Set

Norfolk — Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Adams of Norfolk are heading a new petition drive to put on the ballot the issue of relocation of the Madison County Courthouse. To be successful, the drive must net 5,205 names, or 60% of the voters at the November election. Norfolk Mayor James Miller has praised the Adamsons, citing the "large sums" of money being talked about to bring up to date the present courthouse at Madison.

Century-Old Office To Close

York — Mrs. Johanna Marshall will end 50 years as teacher and county superintendent, and the 104-year-old office of York County Superintendent will cease to exist on Jan. 9. The county board has contracted with York Public Schools to assume the "caretaker" duties of the office for six months, hoping that new legislation will by then have relieved the county of the responsibility.

Seward Seeks Park Money

Seward — The City Council has approved an application for federal and state matching funds to develop a proposed park. The application will cover the first of three phases of work on the park, in which two softball diamonds, two double tennis courts, restrooms, sidewalks and parking will be developed on 15 acres of the 30-acre site.

'Catholic Schools Open' Group Forms

Grand Island — A group has been formed of "concerned parents who feel there are financial means available" to keep open two Catholic elementary schools whose closing has been announced by Bishop John Sullivan. The bishop said he would be willing to listen to the group's ideas, but that reaction "has been very good so far" to the school-closing announcement.

Burton Post Office To Close

Burton — The Burton Post Office, in operation since the first decade of the century, will be closed Jan. 3. Patrons who have had Burton addresses will now get their mail addressed to Springview, Rural Route 4.

Judge Won't Rule On Motion Asking Interim Tribal Council

Omaha (AP) — U.S. District Judge Albert G. Schatz has declined to rule on a motion filed by a group of citizens asking that members of the Omaha Indian Tribal Council be removed and that a provisional government be named until new elections can be held.

Instead of making a ruling on the petition, Judge Schatz opted to order a trial on the allegations made by the group in a suit.

The trial, set for Feb. 3, will decide whether the tribe's constitution legally provides for the election of council members every three years.

Last Monday, Schatz held a hearing on the motion filed by the citizens' group.

During the hearing, some members of the tribe asked that the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) assume operation and management of the tribe until elections can be held.

After the hearing, Judge Schatz agreed to reconsider his earlier order that the current council members remain in office until the conclusion of the trial on the election issue.

The dispute stems from a suit filed in November in an attempt to force elections. The suit alleges that the current council members refused to hold a general election Nov. 4 when it became apparent that they would be voted out of office.

During Monday's hearing, several witnesses, including Acting BIA Superintendent Willis

Kroger, testified that the tribe had suffered irreparable harm due to what was termed "irregularities" in the handling of the tribe's general funds.

However, other witnesses, including Lawrence Cook, chairman of the tribal council, denied the allegations that funds have been mishandled, and claimed a temporary takeover by the BIA would undermine the tribe's "self-determination" policy.

Iowa Car Sought In Hit-And-Run

Omaha (UPI) — Authorities were searching Thursday for a car with Iowa license plates which allegedly struck a Ralston man during an alleged harassment attempt.

Police said Norman Anderson, 35, was treated at an Omaha hospital and released after being struck by the car in southwest Omaha.

Police said Anderson's wife,

Roberta, told officers she and her husband were returning from a Christmas dinner when a car containing two young males attempted to prevent the Anderson car from passing through the 84th Street Tunnel.

When Anderson got out of his car when the harassment continued, Mrs. Anderson said the car containing the youths struck her husband and drove off at a high rate of speed.

Nebraskan: 'We Were Running For Our Lives'

Boise, Idaho (UPI) — A Gothenburg, Nebr., man arrested early Tuesday in Snowville, Utah, following a high speed chase admitted here Thursday he made a mistake. The sheriff of Box Elder County, Utah, where the arrest took place, also admitted his deputies "did not handle the situation very good."

The incident occurred early Tuesday morning as Kenneth Rieker, 50, and his son, Jim, 16, of Gothenburg were en route here to visit Rieker's 18-year-old daughter who was hospitalized with a broken leg suffered during a Thanksgiving holiday outing.

Rieker said he stopped at Perry, Utah, to purchase gasoline. While he and his son were in the station, Jim noticed what he thought was a dollar bill rolled up on the floor between the rug and the counter. Rieker said his son put the money into his pocket, and it wasn't until later they discovered it was a $100 bill.

Mistake: Not Telling
Rieker said his mistake was not telling the station attendant about the money immediately after his son had found it.

The Riekers had left the station en route to Boise when they said a car pulled in behind them on the interstate. After it had followed them for a distance, Rieker said he saw a red light on the car.

"It was not a blinking light," Rieker said, "just like a red spotlight."

Rieker said he told Jim, who was driving, to pull off the road.

"No sooner had we stopped than there was a guy at the back fender of our car with a shotgun. He did not have on a police uniform, only blue pants and a leather jacket, Rieker said. "I told Jim the man was not a police officer and we had better get out of here."

No Markings

He said the same car again caught up to their vehicle and pulled alongside. Rieker said the car had no markings, no headlights, and no license plates.

"The guy on the right hand side stuck a gun out the window at us and tried to get us to stop," Rieker said. "We were scared and just kept going, looking for help. They started shooting at us and we finally saw an exit and a pickup truck there and we pulled off the highway and stopped."

The pickup turned out to be a State Fish and Game vehicle which had been called to assist in the chase. By that time, several law enforcement vehicles had arrived on the scene.

"We thought sure we were done for — that we would be robbed or killed," Rieker said. "We were running for our lives — that's what we were actually doing."

Rieker, Fined $50

A charge was filed against Rieker for having possession of a $100 bill "Which he knew to have been lost or mislaid without taking reasonable measures to return it to the owner." Rieker was fined $50 by Judge Roger Daines at Brigham City, Utah.

Authorities said there were about 33 bullet holes in Rieker's car and the rear tires had been shot out.

Rieker said he questioned the handling of the entire incident by Box Elder County authorities. The sheriff tended to agree with him.

"I can see where we didn't handle this very good," the sheriff said.

County Looking Into Details Of Alternative Office Space

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The Lancaster County motor vehicle driver's license testing station may move into a double-wide trailer or modular structure by spring.

Lancaster County Board Chairman Robert Colin said that the county is looking into the cost of such a structure, to be located at the site of the old Muny Pool at 22nd and M.

The county has been seeking for some time space for locating some offices outside the County-City Building due to overly crowded conditions in the nearly six-year-old structure.

Colin said that the proposed location allows for ample parking and the structure would house two offices and two restrooms.

Bids Sought

Wayne Hart, administrative assistant to the commissioners, said that several firms are being contacted about such a trailer or modular structure and it is estimated it will cost in the vicinity of $30,000.

Colin said that plans now call for also moving the superintendent of schools and Veteran's Service Center out of the County-City Building but no site has been determined.

Several possible locations have been looked at by the county board but rejected because of parking problems, cost and other inadequacies.

Colin said that about 200 square feet of space between M and L on South 10th are being considered for the Veteran's Service Office, while about 2,800 square feet of vacant space in the Indian Village Shopping Center is under consideration for the county superintendent's office.

Hart said that a meeting is being scheduled about the first of the year to negotiate the remodeling and possible lease agreement.

Colin, who has advocated adding on to the existing County-

City Building, said he still thinks that this would be the wisest move rather than continuing to locate offices outside the building.

He said he would also like to look into possible use of the former Post Office building.

The courts could be moved there, he said, noting that some of the judges favored such a proposal since there are already adequate courtrooms there now being used by the federal court.

Colin said he was still opposed to allowing the city to move any of its offices to the county side of the County-City Building until after the county examines its total needs.

Her said he had talked to Chief

Deputy County Atty. Ron Lahners, who will head the county attorney's office after Jan. 9, and he contends that the space now occupied by the county superintendent of schools will not be adequate for his office and expansion of the county court.

The county superintendent's office is located between the county court and the county attorney's office.

Public Defender Clem Gaughan is also out of space, Colin said, noting that it was possible that his office could be moved into the place now occupied by the licensing bureau rather than allowing the city personnel to move there.

David City Care Center Proposal Gets Support

A proposal for the construction of a 90-bed care facility in David City has received the endorsement of the State Health Department Division of Hospitals and Medical Facilities, according to J. R. Nordstrom, division assistant director.

Nordstrom said the favorable finding was issued Tuesday, following the endorsement of the project by the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SENHPC) executive committee.

The proposed facility would include 80 skilled nursing home beds and 10 mental health beds.

It would serve patients of all ages residing in Butler County.

The estimated cost of the project is $1,003,480, the bulk of which would be covered by an FHA loan.

According to Robert High, former assistant administrator at Tabitha Home and spokesman for the group responsible for the project proposal, application for funding has been made to the FHA.

If funding is received, High said, construction could begin April 1. He estimated the facility would be ready for use five to six months later.

Costly Antiques Stolen

Omaha (UPI) — Police said antiques estimated to be worth more than $10,000 were taken in a Christmas Day burglary at the home of the late W. Otto Swanson.

Kevin Williams, 20, who has been living in the home as a custodian, told authorities he discovered the break-in

Wednesday evening. Police said a window was broken to gain entrance to the house.

Included in the loss were gold-plated lamps, statues and figurines, clocks and other items, police said.

Swanson, who died last August, was chairman of the board of the Nebraska Clothing Co. here.

Greenhouse Not That Easy

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

If you are looking over a new garden catalog and wondering if you ought to go into the business of growing tomatoes in a greenhouse in winter, stop, look and read.

"Growing tomatoes in a green house is not for amateurs. Do a lot of learning before you invest in a greenhouse operation," advises Dr. Bob O'Keefe of the NU Department of Horticulture.

O'Keefe notes that it can be profitable with income ranging up to $15,000 per acre of greenhouse but the fact that the state once had more than 48 tomato operations and now has about 28 offers eloquent testimony that it isn't profitable for everyone.

To be profitable enough to justify the huge expense of a greenhouse you need to develop a year round operation. Your venture might bloom if you grow tomatoes from December to May, bedding plants from March to June, cucumbers from May to July and football mums from July through October.

"You can barely make it pay on tomatoes alone but that is about all because your investment is so high. Some grow poinsettias for Christmas. There are quite a number of things you can grow in unused space while growing tomatoes," he said.

Smokers are a problem because tobacco carries a virus that is hard on tomatoes. A disease in a greenhouse is spread like wildfire.

"Scheduling your production, packaging it, getting it delivered and sold to the stores can be a real headache. Pollinating the plants must be done by hand in a greenhouse and you need special varieties that are suited to greenhouse culture," he pointed out.

Chemicals are another problem in greenhouse operations because of the ventilation systems required. "If you have someone spraying for dandelions anywhere near you the system can suck in a chemical and wipe out your crop in a few seconds," he said.

One grower had problems when a city water supply was contaminated with a minute amount of weed killer used near the city water reservoir.

O'Keefe claims the greenhouse tomato is superior in flavor and nutritional value to the shipped-in product which is usually picked green and allowed to ripen in shipment.

To grow an acre of tomatoes under glass or plastic you need about 14 houses which cost between $5 and $6,000 each to build and equip with heating, cooling and ventilating systems.

Annual operating costs will run about $1,500 per house and is getting higher each year making good management essential. You will also need to hire some labor to pick the tomatoes and harvest other crops.

Two basic methods of producing tomatoes are used. One is a liquid plant food pumped through gravel beds to feed the plants. A cheaper method is to grow them in sterilized earth under strict sanitation control.

"We recommend that you start the cheaper way with one house growing your plants in ordinary clean dirt. It involves more labor but if you are successful you soon will be able to afford the liquid system. If you are not successful you limit your losses," O'Keefe said.

Oxford — It's a new building in a new location with a most appropriate new name — New View School.

Spacious, modern and attractive, it is also something of a model facility for the trainable mentally retarded. And its smoothly functioning program belies a stormy background which went so far as the filing of an injunction.

A controversy over whether the school should be located here or at Holdrege, 23 miles northeast, resulted in a close split vote for Oxford by the directors of Educational Service Unit No. 11. For five years that entity had operated a predecessor school in the old high school gymnasium at Ragan.

Building Offered
While some parents contended Holdrege would be a preferable location from the standpoint of transportation, the Oxford Development Corporation strategically countered with the offer of a $105,000 building under a 12-year lease-purchase agreement. The steel structure was erected near the north edge of town.

"We never doubted that a good school could be operated at Oxford; it was just a question of location," said Clifford Lowell, ESU media director and curriculum consultant. "This is certainly far superior to the facilities which were condemned at Ragan."

A certain amount of friction does persist, however, since another program for the handicapped has begun at Holdrege. Operated by the public school, it currently serves about 10 pupils as the Holdrege Opportunity Center. It operates in the Presbyterian Church basement.

Resident Pupils
Of the 10 handicapped enrollees at Oxford's New View, seven are resident pupils from other communities who are housed during the week in the former First Baptist Church. They come from Alma, Holbrook, Hildreth, Republican City and Axtell.

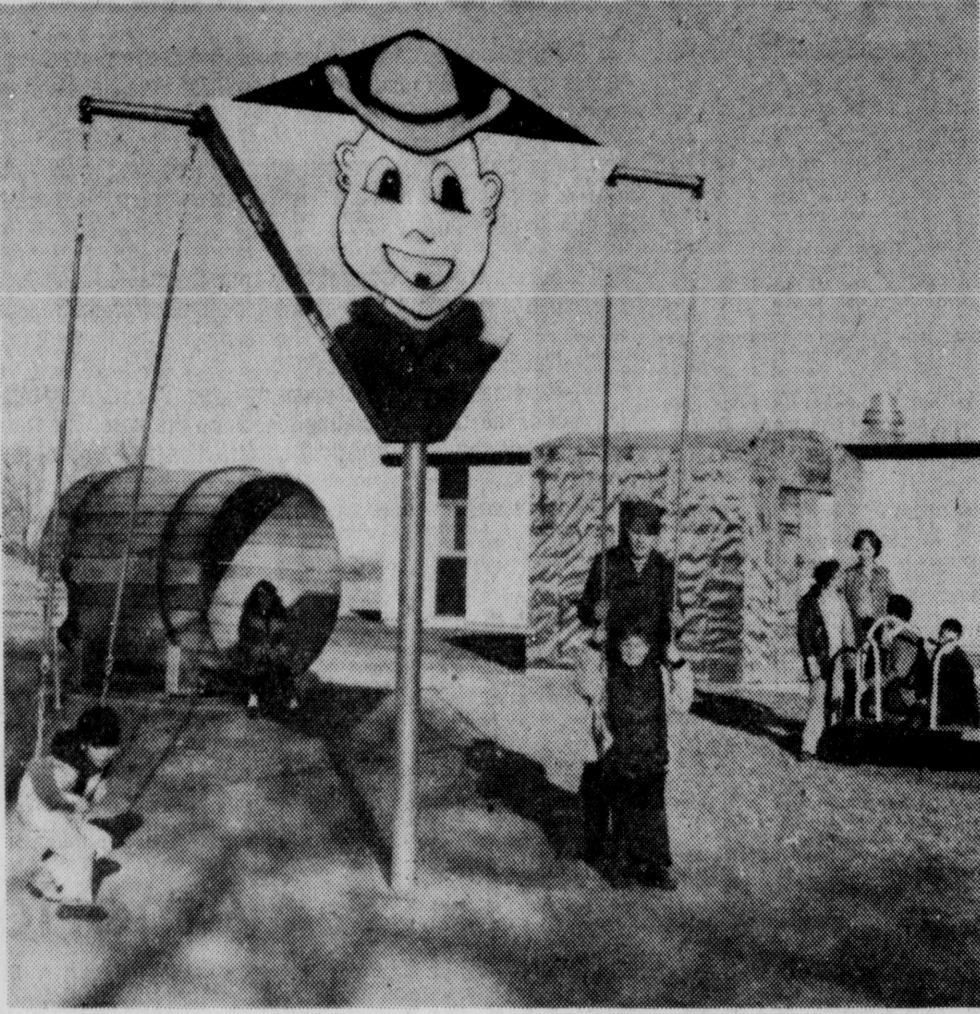

Mrs. Eleanor Erickson, formerly on the staff of Bethphage Mission at Axtell, and Mrs. Linda Imel are New View's teachers. Mrs. LaVerna Taylor serves as house mother.

"The residential program has the advantage of permitting the continued teaching of self-care skills at the home as well as in the classroom," said Mrs. Erickson.

One room of the new school is devoted to such living skills as use of a sewing machine, ironing board and laundry facilities. The school also has a large multi-purpose room, library, two classrooms and a kitchen.

Construction on the school was delayed when opponents filed a temporary injunction to halt the work. However, the injunction was dismissed and work was completed during the summer.

A summer program preceded the current semester of operation.

Courthouse Petition Drive Set
Norfolk — Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Adams of Norfolk are heading a new petition drive to put on the ballot the issue of relocation of the Madison County Courthouse. To be successful, the drive must net 5,205 names, or 60% of the voters at the November election. Norfolk Mayor James Miller has praised the Adamses, citing the "large sums" of money being talked about to bring up to date the present courthouse at Madison.

Century-Old Office To Close
York — Mrs. Johanna Marshall will end 50 years as teacher and county superintendent, and the 104-year-old office of York County Superintendent will cease to exist on Jan. 9. The county board has contracted with York Public Schools to assume the "caretaker" duties of the office for six months, hoping that new legislation will by then have relieved the county of the responsibility.

Seward Seeks Park Money
Seward — The City Council has approved an application for federal and state matching funds to develop a proposed park. The application will cover the first of three phases of work on the park, in which two softball diamonds, two double tennis courts, restrooms, sidewalks and parking will be developed on 15 acres of the 30-acre site.

Judge Won't Rule On Motion Asking Interim Tribal Council

Omaha (AP) — U.S. District Judge Albert G. Schatz has declined to rule on a motion filed by a group of citizens asking that members of the Omaha Indian Tribal Council be removed and that a provisional government be named until new elections can be held.

Instead of making a ruling on the petition, Judge Schatz opted to order a trial on the allegations made by the group in a suit.

The trial, set for Feb. 3, will decide whether the tribe's constitution legally provides for the election of council members every three years.

Last Monday, Schatz held a hearing on the motion filed by the citizens' group.

During the hearing, some members of the tribe asked that the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) assume operation and management of the tribe until elections can be held.

After the hearing, Judge Schatz agreed to reconsider his earlier order that the current council members remain in office until the conclusion of the trial on the election issue.

The dispute stems from a suit filed in November in an attempt to force elections. The suit alleges that the current council members refused to hold a general election Nov. 4 when it became apparent that they would be voted out of office.

During Monday's hearing, several witnesses, including acting BIA Superintendent Willis Kroger, testified that the tribe had suffered irreparable harm due to what was termed "irregularities" in the handling of the tribe's general funds.

However, other witnesses, including Lawrence Cook, chairman of the tribal council, denied the allegations that funds have been mishandled, and claimed a temporary takeover by the BIA would undermine the tribe's "self-determination" policy.

Iowa Car Sought In Hit-And-Run

Omaha (UPI) — Authorities were searching Thursday for a car with Iowa license plates which allegedly struck a Ralston man during an alleged harassment attempt.

Police said Norman Anderson, 35, was treated at an Omaha hospital and released after being struck by the car in southwest Omaha.

Police said Anderson's wife, Roberta, told officers she and her husband were returning from a Christmas dinner when a car containing two young males attempted to prevent the Anderson car from passing through the 84th Street Tunnel.

When Anderson got out of his car when the harassment continued, Mrs. Anderson said the car containing the youths struck her husband and drove off at a high rate of speed.

Nebraskan: 'We Were Running For Our Lives'

Boise, Idaho (UPI) — A Gothenburg, Nebr., man arrested early Tuesday in Snowville, Utah, following a high speed chase admitted here Thursday he made a mistake. The sheriff of Box Elder County, Utah, where the arrest took place, also admitted his deputies "did not handle the situation very good."

The incident occurred early Tuesday morning as Kenneth Rieker, 50, and his son, Jim, 16, of Gothenburg were en route here to visit Rieker's 18-year-old daughter who was hospitalized with a broken leg suffered during a Thanksgiving holiday outing.

Rieker said he stopped at Perry, Utah, to purchase gasoline. While he and his son were in the station, Jim noticed what he thought was a dollar bill rolled up on the floor between the rug and the counter. Rieker said his son put the money into his pocket, and it wasn't until later they discovered it was a $100 bill.

Mistake: Not Telling
Rieker said his mistake was not telling the station attendant about the money immediately after his son had found it.

The Riekers had left the station en route to Boise when they said a car pulled in behind them on the interstate. After it had followed them for a distance, Rieker said he saw a red light on the car.

"It was not a blinking light," Rieker said, "just like a red spotlight."

Rieker said he told Jim, who was driving, to pull off the road.

"No sooner had we stopped than there was a guy at the back fender of our car with a shotgun. He did not have on a police uniform, only blue pants and a leather jacket, Rieker said. "I told Jim the man was not a police officer and we had better get out of here."

No Markings
He said the same car again caught up to their vehicle and pulled alongside. Rieker said the car had no markings, no headlights, and no license plates.

"The guy on the right hand side stuck a gun out the window at us and tried to get us to stop," Rieker said. "We were scared and just kept going, looking for help. They started shooting at us and we finally saw an exit and a pickup truck there and we pulled off the highway and stopped."

The pickup turned out to be a State Fish and Game vehicle which had been called to assist in the chase. By that time, several law enforcement vehicles had arrived on the scene.

"We thought sure we were done for — that we would be robbed or killed," Rieker said. "We were running for our lives — that's what we were actually doing."

Rieker Fined $50
A charge was filed against Rieker for having possession of a $100 bill "which he knew to have been lost or mislaid without taking reasonable measures to return it to the owner." Rieker was fined $50 by Judge Roger Daines at Brigham City, Utah.

Authorities said there were about 33 bullet holes in Rieker's car and the rear tires had been shot out.

Rieker said he questioned the handling of the entire incident by Box Elder County authorities. The sheriff tended to agree with him.

"I can see where we didn't handle this very good," the sheriff said.

County Looking Into Details Of Alternative Office Space

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer
The Lancaster County motor vehicle driver's license testing station may move into a double-wide trailer or modular structure by spring.

Lancaster County Board Chairman Robert Colin said that the county is looking into the cost of such a structure, to be located at the site of the old Muny Pool at 22nd and M.

The county has been seeking for some time space for locating some offices outside the County-City Building due to overly crowded conditions in the nearly six-year-old structure.

Colin said that the proposed location allows for ample parking and the structure would house two offices and two restrooms.

Bids Sought
Wayne Hart, administrative assistant to the commissioners, said that several firms are being contacted about such a trailer or modular structure and it is estimated it will cost in the vicinity of $30,000.

Colin said that plans now call for also moving the superintendent of schools and Veteran's Service Center out of the County-City Building but no site has been determined.

Several possible locations have been looked at by the county board but rejected because of parking problems, cost and other inadequacies.

Colin said that about 200 square feet of space between M and L on South 10th are being considered for the Veteran's Service Office, while about 2,800 square feet of vacant space in the Indian Village Shopping Center is under consideration for the county superintendent's office.

Hart said that a meeting is being scheduled about the first of the year to negotiate the remodeling and possible lease agreement.

Colin, who has advocated adding on to the existing County-City Building, said he still thinks that this would be the wisest move rather than continuing to locate offices outside the building.

He said he would also like to look into possible use of the former Post Office building.

The courts could be moved there, he said, noting that some of the judges favored such a proposal since there are already adequate courtrooms there now being used by the federal court.

Colin said he was still opposed to allowing the city to move any of its offices to the county side of the County-City Building until after the county examines its total needs.

Her said he had talked to Chief Deputy County Atty. Ron Lahners, who will head the county attorney's office after Jan. 9, and he contends that the space now occupied by the county superintendent of schools will not be adequate for his office and expansion of the county court.

The county superintendent's office is located between the county court and the county attorney's office.

Public Defender Clem Gaughan is also out of space, Colin said, noting that it was possible that his office could be moved into the place now occupied by the licensing bureau rather than allowing the city personnel to move there.

David City Care Center Proposal Gets Support

A proposal for the construction of a 90-bed care facility in David City has received the endorsement of the State Health Department Division of Hospitals and Medical Facilities, according to J. R. Nordstrom, division assistant director.

Nordstrom said the favorable finding was issued Tuesday, following the endorsement of the project by the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SeNHPC) executive committee.

The proposed facility would include 80 skilled nursing home beds and 10 mental health beds.

It would serve patients of all ages residing in Butler County.

The estimated cost of the project is $1,003,480, the bulk of which would be covered by an FHA loan.

According to Robert High, former assistant administrator at Tabitha Home and spokesman for the group responsible for the project proposal, application for funding has been made to the FHA.

If funding is received, High said, construction could begin April 1. He estimated the facility would be ready for use five to six months later.

Costly Antiques Stolen

Omaha (UPI) — Police said antiques estimated to be worth more than $10,000 were taken in a Christmas Day burglary at the home of the late W. Otto Swanson.

Kevin Williams, 20, who has been living in the home as a custodian, told authorities he discovered the break-in Wednesday evening. Police said a window was broken to gain entrance to the house.

Included in the loss were gold-plated lamps, statues and figurines, clocks and other items, police said.

'Catholic Schools Open' Group Forms

Grand Island — A group has been formed of "concerned parents who feel there are financial means available" to keep open two Catholic elementary schools whose closing has been announced by Bishop John Sullivan. The bishop said he would be willing to listen to the group's ideas, but that reaction "has been very good so far" to the school-closing announcement.

Burton Post Office To Close

Burton — The Burton Post Office, in operation since the first decade of the century, will be closed Jan. 3. Patrons who have had Burton addresses will now get their mail addressed to Springview, Rural Route 4.

Greenhouse Not That Easy

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

If you are looking over a new garden catalog and wondering if you ought to go into the business of growing tomatoes in a greenhouse in winter, stop, look and read.

"Growing tomatoes in a green house is not for amateurs. Do a lot of learning before you invest in a greenhouse operation," advises Dr. Bob O'Keefe of the NU Department of Horticulture.

O'Keefe notes that it can be profitable with income ranging up to $15,000 per acre of greenhouse but the fact that the state once had more than 48 tomato operations and now has about 28 offers eloquent testimony that it isn't profitable for everyone.

To be profitable enough to justify the huge expense of a greenhouse you need to develop a year round operation. Your venture might bloom if you grow tomatoes from December to May, bedding plants from March to June, cucumbers from May to July and football mums from July through October.

"You can barely make it pay on tomatoes alone but that is about all because your investment is so high. Some grow poinsettias for Christmas. There are quite a number of things you can grow in unused space while growing tomatoes," he said.

Smokers are a problem because tobacco carries a virus that is hard on tomatoes. A disease in a greenhouse is spread like wildfire.

"Scheduling your production, packaging it, getting it delivered and sold to the stores can be a real headache. Pollinating the plants must be done by hand in a greenhouse and you need special varieties that are suited to greenhouse culture," he pointed out.

Chemicals are another problem in greenhouse operations because of the ventilation systems required. "If you have someone spraying for dandelions anywhere near you the system can suck in a chemical and wipe out your crop in a few seconds," he said.

One grower had problems when a city water supply was contaminated with a minute amount of weed killer used near the city water reservoir.

O'Keefe claims the greenhouse tomato is superior in flavor and nutritional value to the shipped-in product which is usually picked green and allowed to ripen in shipment.

To grow an acre of tomatoes under glass or plastic you need about 14 houses which cost between $5 and $6,000 each to build and equip with heating, cooling and ventilating systems.

Annual operating costs will run about $1,500 per house and is getting higher each year making good management essential. You will also need to hire some labor to pick the tomatoes and harvest other crops.

Two basic methods of producing tomatoes are used. One is a liquid plant food pumped through gravel beds to feed the plants. A cheaper method is to grow them in sterilized earth under strict sanitation control.

"We recommend that you start the cheaper way with one house growing your plants in ordinary clean dirt. It involves more labor but if you are successful you soon will be able to afford the liquid system. If you are not successful you limit your losses," O'Keefe said.

Burrows Pledges Tax Bill; Barnett Bows Out

By ERIC KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

State Sen. elect George Burrows of Adams said Thursday he would introduce legislation to create a no-loopholes income tax to eliminate school property taxes.

In a related development, Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln said he would not introduce a no-loopholes income tax to replace the state's current income tax this session.

Barnett's tax would have replaced Nebraska's current income tax which allows all federal deductions. Burrows' tax is designed to replace the local school property tax across the state. It would be in addition to the current state income tax.

Selling Point

Burrows said completely eliminating local school property taxes would be an important selling point of the plan because it would eliminate the possibility of the property taxes creeping back to their former levels.

He said the tax would close off the oil depletion, investment credit and capital gains loopholes. He gave no estimate of the amount of money which now escapes taxation through the loopholes. But he said an income tax levied at the rate of less than 5% of federal income taxes could support his schools without property or sales taxes.

His formula would tax corporations at the same rate as individuals. He said this was necessary for taxpayer acceptance because large amounts of corporate holdings would no longer be subject to school property taxes.

He said closing loopholes would be important to acceptance of the plan by wage earners.

Burrows estimated that a homeowner would not pay more under his tax plan unless his income was well above $10,000.

Paid To Districts

The individual income taxes would be paid directly to the local school districts. The corporate income taxes would be paid into a state pool. A portion of the pool would be distributed to school districts which collected relatively small amounts through the individual income tax. The remainder of the corporate tax pool would be distributed throughout the state to ease the local income tax burden.

Burrows also said he would limit the number of deductions allowed for children to two per family. He said, "We feel the parents of the children should have the price of at least paying something."

Barnett said he decided to delay his plan because there were too many problems in deciding what income to tax and what income to exempt to get the bill ready this session.

Burrows developed his plan with the help of University of Nebraska Professor Bert Evans.

Burrows said he had talked to only a few senators about his plan and found them receptive, but he said he was not ready to predict the bill's chances of passage.

He said he was impressed with the openness of the Unicameral and was sure his status as a freshman would not hurt his bill.

The Adams senator said his bill would definitely take away pressures which prevent the consolidation of school districts. He said his bill would help school districts to reorganize into more efficient units.

BURNED PLANT ... forces city to use low-grade street patching this winter.

Fire Damages Asphalt Plant

Fire at the city's asphalt plant early Thursday morning caused about $25,000 worth of damage and will force the city to use a lower grade of asphalt patching during street repairs this winter.

The fire, caused by faulty wiring, according to Lincoln Fire Inspector Michael Durst, destroyed a corrugated metal shed and a gas-fired heater used to heat oil for the asphalt patching mix.

Durst said it took firemen about 30 minutes to bring the fire under control. Durst said a night employee had left the building for about 45 minutes. When he returned shortly before 6 a.m. the building was in flames, Durst said.

The fire was fed by natural gas from a line leading to the oil heater, contributing to its rapid spread, Durst said. Firemen closed a valve in another building to shut off the gas.

According to Lee Boehmer, superintendent of paving repair, the fire will force the city to switch to a "cold" patching mix purchased from a local outlet.

The mix, he said, is temporary. A "hot" mix, he said, is a permanent street repair. Boehmer said he did not know how long it would be before the equipment can be replaced.

Ford Skis Too Fast For Buff

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — President Ford skis so fast that he can't keep up, a 14-year-old snow buff says.

"He's really fun to ski with," Mike Parma said in a telephone interview from Vail, Colo.

"He has good form — keeps his feet together, bends his knees and goes really fast. He skis so fast and so well the rest of us always are behind."

Mike's family was invited by the President to join the Fords in Colorado. His father, banker Leon Parma, is a close friend of Ford.

Mike said he, his parents and three sisters plan to stay at Vail through this weekend "if our legs hold out."

Homestead Exemption Applications Available

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Homestead exemption applications are now available and may be filed after Jan. 1 and before April 1 with the Lancaster County Assessor's office.

For persons 65 and older, the exemption may mean no real estate taxes while for other owner-occupied property owners, a partial exemption.

Although a change in the law is being considered which would require annual filing, homeowners need file only once unless use of the home has been changed.

Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer said he is sure many persons 65 and older who can meet the income requirements are not making application for the exemption to which they are entitled.

Under provisions of the law, individuals 65 years of age or older, who occupy their own home, may qualify providing they meet the following income requirements:

- $3,200 if single, widowed, separated or divorced.
- $3,800 if married, with one spouse 65 or over.
- $4,800 if married, with both husband and wife 65 or over.

Meyer said the law provides that regardless of when in 1975 a homeowner becomes 65, that person may qualify and should make application before the April 1 deadline even though the birthday may fall later in the year.

He also notes that some people may not meet the income requirements the first year they are 65 inasmuch as the previous year's income is what is considered.

This confuses many, Meyer said, noting that some applications are rejected on this grounds; people filing in 1975 should consider their 1974 earnings (excluding social security) to determine their eligibility for the exemption, he said.

Qualified applicants will receive a 100% exemption on the first $15,000 of actual value of their homestead as recorded in the assessor's office for tax purposes.

Homeowners who are under 65 receive an exemption of the first 25% of the actual value of any homestead having an actual value of $1,500 or less and the first 20% of the first $4,000 actual value of any homestead having an actual value in excess of $1,500.

There are no income requirements for this exemption.

Meyer notes that anyone who purchased a home within the last year should file an application for the exemption if the home is owner-occupied.

He said an application previously filed on another property is voided once that property is transferred.

Meyer said the forms will be mailed upon request or may be picked up in the assessor's office on the first floor of the County-City Building.

In 1974, 3,688 Lancaster County properties owned and occupied by persons 65 or older received exemptions for a total tax exemption of $1,025,214.

A total of 22,695 other properties received the 20% exemption for a total tax exemption of $526,094.

Meyer said that the loss in tax dollars to the county is picked up by the state through the broadened tax base.

Foreign Relations Chairman Sen. Fulbright Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for the last 15 years, has submitted his resignation from the Senate effective Dec. 31.

However, Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers, elected to succeed Fulbright in last November's elections, is ineligible under the state's constitution for appointment for the remainder of the senator's term.

Fulbright, first elected to the Senate 30 years ago, is the fifth senator to submit his resignation this month in advance of the expiration of their present terms.

Fulbright is away, but a spokesman said the senator decided to resign since the Senate's work was over and he was going on vacation.

The spokesman said he assumed a cost of living increase in retirement benefits also was a factor.

The five senators could have stayed in office until Jan. 3 when the new 94th Congress comes into being officially even though the Senate and House will not convene until Jan. 14.

By resigning before the end of the year, Fulbright and three of the others became eligible for a 6.4 per cent cost of living increase in their retirement benefits they would not otherwise receive. Sen. Howard H. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, was the exception to this. He wasn't in the Senate long enough to be eligible for a pension.

But the resignations earlier this month of Metzenbaum and Alan Bible, D-Nev., enabled their successors to gain an advantage in seniority over other newly elected senators.

Former Astronaut John Glenn, who defeated Metzenbaum in Ohio's Democratic primary and then won a landslide general election victory, became the new senator from the state last week.

And Republican Paul Laxalt, Bible's successor, was sworn in before Congress adjourned on Dec. 20 and will outrank all other newcomers to the Senate in seniority.

Sens. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., and Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., also submitted their resignations effective as of Dec. 31, but the Senate Secretary's office said it had received no notice of appointments to complete their terms.

All of those resigning either had been defeated for re-election or did not run for new terms.

Fulbright, the most prominent of them because of his long tenure as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was defeated for renomination to a sixth Senate term by Bumpers in the Arkansas Democratic primary.

Then Bumpers went on to win an easy victory over his Republican opponent in the November general elections.

However, because of his ineligibility for appointment, Bumpers cannot gain an edge in seniority over other incoming freshmen senators by filling out the last two days of Fulbright's term.

Bumpers and Lt. Gov. Bob Riley met for 45 minutes Thursday to discuss succession to the governorship, but neither would say what developed.

Bumpers said he would reveal at a news conference Friday what had taken place.

He said that if he does decide to resign the governorship, it will be at noon on Jan. 3, when he officially becomes a senator.

Protectors Unruffled By Breakin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's protectors displayed unruffled confidence in their security procedures Thursday, even though a man about whom they had been warned crashed through a traffic gate with his auto and drove to the doorstep of the White House.

Earl L. Drescher, head of the Executive Protective Service which mans the White House gates, said he was certain a study group would be formed to give the incident quick attention.

But neither Drescher, the Secret Service, nor Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, the cabinet head responsible for the Secret Service, were involved in any formal meetings Thursday to analyze the situation, aides said.

"We're constantly re-evaluating and making changes where we see need," Drescher said. He indicated no changes can be expected this week.

Kimball Man Killed In Fall From Tower

Kimball (AP) — A Kimball man died late Thursday morning in a fall from a 40-foot, television antenna tower.

Authorities identified the victim as Gene Blake, 59, the manager of the I-80 Inn, a motel just south of here.

The antenna is owned by the motel, and Blake was apparently climbing the structure to make some repairs, officials said.

Apparently no one observed the accident, so it is not known how high Blake was on the tower when he fell. The death was ruled accidental.

Soviets Launch Orbital Space Lab

The New York Times

Moscow — The Soviet Union launched a new orbital research station Thursday, indicating that it might attempt another linkup in space possibly early next year.

The official press agency Tass, which announced the launch, said that the Salyut-4 station was orbited for further tests of the design, onboard systems and equipment of such stations and for further study of space flight conditions.

All systems were functioning

normally, Tass said. The flight of the Salyut-4 station is being monitored by tracking facilities in the Soviet Union and in the Atlantic Ocean aboard the ship "Academician Serget Korolev," named after the late Soviet space designer.

The new station apparently replaces the Salyut-3 station lofted by the Soviets last June, which is ending its mission after six months in orbit, the newspaper Pravda said.

That flight lasted twice as long as Soviet space scientists had originally planned. By 6 p.m. Moscow time Wednesday, the Salyut-3 had completed 2,950 orbits around the earth, reports here said.

It was assumed here that the Salyut-3 was being brought down to avoid possible interference with the new space station, fired into almost the same orbit as its predecessor.

According to Tass, the Salyut-4 was put into an earth orbit lasting 91.1 minutes at an altitude ranging from 137 to 169 miles high and at an inclination of 51.6 degrees.

No forthcoming Soyuz spaceship missions have been announced in connection with the new space station. But this is not unusual since the Soviet Union, unlike the United States, reveals its space flights only after a successful launch. It was considered quite likely that the Salyut-4 would be visited by Soviet astronauts as they happened last summer with its predecessor in one successful linkup and a subsequent unsuccessful one.

Burrows Pledges Tax Bill; Barnett Bows Out

By ERIC KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

State Sen.-elect George Burrows of Adams said Thursday he would introduce legislation to create a no-loopholes income tax to eliminate school property taxes.

In a related development, Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln said he would not introduce a no-loopholes income tax to replace the state's current income tax this session.

Barnett's tax would have replaced Nebraska's current income tax which allows all federal deductions. Burrows' tax is designed to replace the local school property tax across the state. It would be in addition to the current state income tax.

Selling Point

Burrows said completely eliminating local school property taxes would be an important selling point of the plan because it would eliminate the majority of the property taxes creeping back to their former levels.

He said the tax would close off the oil depletion, investment credit and capital gains loopholes. He gave no estimate of the amount of money which now escapes taxation through the loopholes. But he said an income tax levied at the rate of less than 5% of federal income taxes could support the schools without property or sales taxes.

His formula would tax corporations at the same rate as individuals. He said this was necessary for taxpayer acceptance because large amounts of corporate holdings would no longer be subject to school property taxes.

He said closing loopholes would be important to acceptance of the plan by wage earners.

Burrows estimated that a homeowner would not pay more under his tax plan unless his income was well above $10,000.

Paid To Districts

The individual income taxes would be paid directly to the local school districts. The corporate income taxes would be paid into a state pool. A portion of the pool would be distributed to school districts which collected relatively small amounts through the individual income tax. The remainder of the corporate tax pool would be distributed throughout the state to ease the local income tax burden.

Burrows also said he would limit the number of deductions allowed for children to two per family. He said, "We feel the parents of the children should have the price of at least paying something."

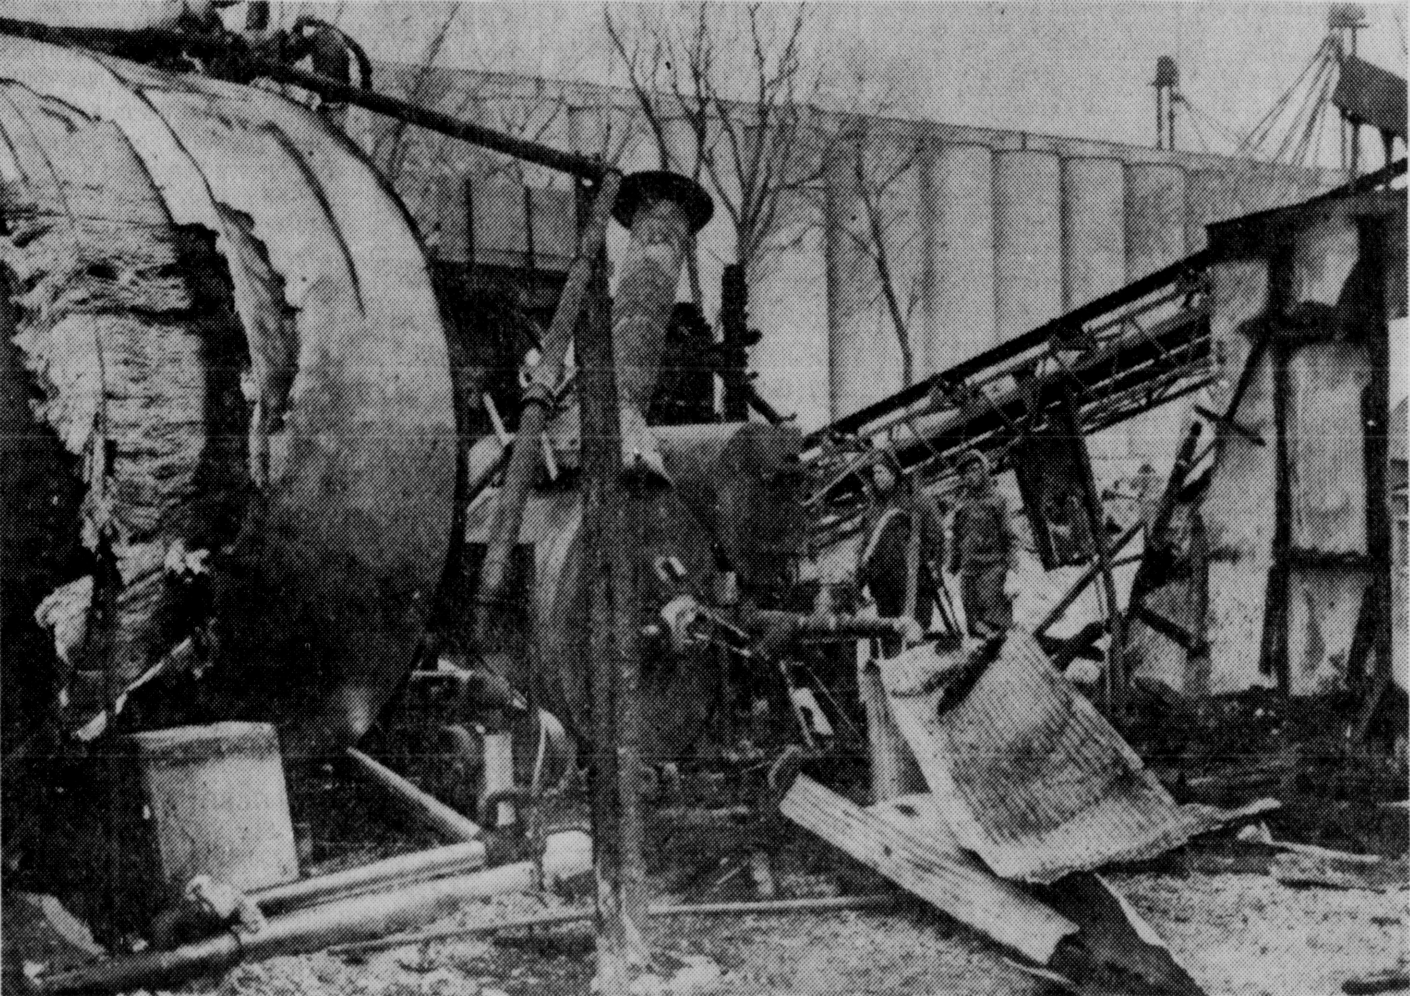

Barnett said he decided to delay his plan because there were too many problems in deciding what income to tax and what income to exempt to get the bill ready this session.

Burrows developed his plan with the help of University of Nebraska Professor Bert Evans.

Burrows said he had talked to only a few senators about his plan and found them receptive, but he said he was not ready to predict the bill's chances of passage.

He said he was impressed with the openness of the Unicameral and was sure his status as a freshman would not hurt his bill.

The Adams senator said his bill would definitely take away pressures which prevent the consolidation of school districts. He said his bill would help school districts to reorganize into more efficient units.

BURNED PLANT ... forces city to use low-grade street patching this winter.

Fire Damages Asphalt Plant

Fire at the city's asphalt plant early Thursday morning caused about $25,000 worth of damage and will force the city to use a lower grade of asphalt patching during street repairs this winter.

The fire, caused by faulty wiring, according to Lincoln Fire Inspector Michael Durst, destroyed a corrugated metal shed and a gas-fired heater used to heat oil for the asphalt patching mix.

Durst said it took firemen about 30 minutes to bring the fire under control. Durst said a night employee had left the building for about 45 minutes. When he returned shortly before 6 a.m. the building was in flames, Durst said.

The fire was fed by natural gas from a line leading to the oil heater, contributing to its rapid spread, Durst said. Firemen closed a valve in another building to shut off the gas.

According to Lee Boehmer, superintendent of paving repair, the fire will force the city to switch to a "cold" patching mix purchased from a local outlet.

The mix, he said, is temporary. A "hot" mix, he said, is a permanent street repair.

Boehmer said he did not know how long it would be before the equipment can be replaced.

Ford Skis Too Fast For Buff

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — President Ford skis so fast that he can't keep up, a 14-year-old snow buff says.

"He's really fun to ski with," Mike Parma said in a telephone interview from Vail, Colo.

"He has good form — keeps his feet together, bends his knees and goes really fast. He skis so fast and so well the rest of us always are behind."

Mike's family was invited by the President to join the Fords in Colorado. His father, banker Leon Parma, is a close friend of Ford.

Mike said he, his parents and three sisters plan to stay at Vail through this weekend "if our legs hold out."

Homestead Exemption Applications Available

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Homestead exemption applications are now available and may be filed after Jan. 1 and before April 1 with the Lancaster County Assessor's office.

For persons 65 and older, the exemption may mean no real estate taxes while for other owner-occupied property owners, a partial exemption.

Although a change in the law is being considered which would require annual filing, homeowners need file only once unless use of the home has been changed.

Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer said he is sure many persons 65 and older who can meet the income requirements are not making application for the exemption to which they are entitled.

Under provisions of the law, individuals 65 years of age or older, who occupy their own home, may qualify providing they meet the following income requirements:

- $3,000 if single, widowed, separated or divorced.
- $3,800 if married, with one spouse 65 or over.
- $4,800 if married, with both husband and wife 65 or over.

Meyer said that the law provides that regardless of when in 1975 a homeowner becomes 65, that person may qualify and should make application before the April 1 deadline even though the birthday may fall later in the year.

He also notes that some people may not meet the income requirements the first year they are 65 inasmuch as the previous year's income is what is considered.

This confuses many, Meyer said, noting that some applications are rejected on this grounds; people filing in 1975 should consider their 1974 earnings (excluding social security) to determine their eligibility for the exemption, he said.

Qualified applicants will receive a 100% exemption on the first $15,000 of actual value of their homestead as recorded in the assessor's office for tax purposes.

Homeowners who are under 65 receive an exemption of the first 25% of the actual value of any homestead having an actual value of $1,500 or less and the first 20% of the first $4,000 actual value of any homestead having an actual value in excess of $1,500.

There are no income requirements for this exemption.

Meyer notes that anyone who purchased a home within the last year should file an application for the exemption if the home is owner-occupied.

He said an application previously filed on another property is voided once that property is transferred.

Meyer said the forms will be mailed upon request or may be picked up in the assessor's office on the first floor of the County-City Building.

In 1974, 3,688 Lancaster County properties owned and occupied by persons 65 or older received exemptions for a total tax exemption of $1,025,214.

A total of 22,695 other properties received the 20% exemption for a total tax exemption of $526,094.

Meyer said that the loss in tax dollars to the county is picked up by the state through the broadened tax base.

Burrows said he had experimented with the formula using 1970 census figures and found it worked well for both rural and urban areas.

He said his formula worked out well according to the "ability to pay" principle because areas with high numbers of children also had relatively high incomes.

The plan differs in several ways from the state aid to education bill which went down to defeat in a general election referendum. It would:

- Not increase sales taxes.
- Eliminate local school property taxes. The state aid bill only put half of the cost of operating schools on the state. The state aid bill also left the cost of capital construction to be borne by the property tax.
- Increase the share of the income tax load borne by corporations.
- Decrease the amount of loopholes available to wealthy individuals.
- Limit the number of deductions for children to two per family.

Kimball Man Killed In Fall From Tower

Kimball (AP) — A Kimball man died late Thursday morning in a fall from a 40-foot, television antenna tower.

Authorities identified the victim as Gene Blake, 59, the manager of the I-80 Inn, a motel just south of here.

The antenna is owned by the motel, and Blake was apparently climbing the structure to make some repairs, officials said.

Apparently no one observed the accident, so it is not known how high Blake was on the tower when he fell. The death was ruled accidental.

Foreign Relations Chairman Sen. Fulbright Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for the last 15 years, has submitted his resignation from the Senate effective Dec. 31.

However, Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers, elected to succeed Fulbright in last November's elections, is ineligible under the state's constitution for appointment for the remainder of the senator's term.

Fulbright, first elected to the Senate 30 years ago, is the fifth senator to submit his resignation this month in advance of the expiration of their present terms.

Fulbright is away, but a spokesman said the senator decided to resign since the Senate's work was over and he was going on vacation.

The spokesman said he assumed a cost of living increase in retirement benefits also was a factor.

The five senators could have stayed in office until Jan. 3 when the new 94th Congress comes into being officially even though the Senate and House will not convene until Jan. 14.

By resigning before the end of the year, Fulbright and three of the others became eligible for a 6.4 per cent cost of living increase in their retirement benefits they would not otherwise receive. Sen. Howard H. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, was the exception to this. He wasn't in the Senate long enough to be eligible for a pension.

But the resignations earlier this month of Metzenbaum and Alan Bible, D-Nev., enabled their successors to gain an advantage in seniority over other newly elected senators.

Former Astronaut John Glenn, who defeated Metzenbaum in Ohio's Democratic primary and then won a landslide general election victory, became the new senator from the state last week.

And Republican Paul Laxalt, Bible's successor, was sworn in before Congress adjourned on Dec. 20 and will outrank all other newcomers to the Senate in seniority.

Sens. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., and Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., also submitted their resignations effective as of Dec. 31, but the Senate Secretary's office said it had received no notice of appointments to complete their terms.

All of those resigning either had been defeated for re-election or did not run for new terms.

Fulbright, the most prominent of them because of his long tenure as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was defeated for renomination to a sixth Senate term by Bumpers in the Arkansas Democratic primary.

Then Bumpers went on to win an easy victory over his Republican opponent in the November general elections.

However, because of his ineligibility for appointment, Bumpers cannot gain an edge in seniority over other incoming freshmen senators by filling out the last two days of Fulbright's term.

Bumpers and Lt. Gov. Bob Riley met for 45 minutes Thursday to discuss succession to the governorship, but neither would say what developed.

Bumpers said he would reveal at a news conference Friday what had taken place.

He said that if he does decide to resign the governorship, it will be at noon on Jan. 3, when he officially becomes a senator.

Protectors Unruffled By Breakin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's protectors displayed unruffled confidence in their security procedures Thursday, even though a man about whom they had been warned crashed through a traffic gate with his auto and drove to the doorstep of the White House.

Earl L. Drescher, head of the Executive Protective Service which mans the White House gates, said he was certain a study group would be formed to give the incident quick attention.

But neither Drescher, the Secret Service, nor Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, the cabinet head responsible for the Secret Service, were involved in any formal meetings Thursday to analyze the situation, aides said.

"We're constantly re-evaluating and making changes where we see need," Drescher said. He indicated no changes can be expected this week.

No forthcoming Soyuz spacecraft missions have been announced in connection with the new space station. But this is not unusual since the Soviet Union, unlike the United States, reveals its space flights only after a successful launching. It was considered quite likely that the Salyut-4 would be visited by Soviet astronauts such as happened last summer with its predecessor in one successful linkup and a subsequent unsuccessful one.

originally planned. By 6 p.m. Moscow time Wednesday, the Salyut-3 had completed 2,950 orbits around the earth, reports here said.

It was assumed here that the Salyut-3 was being brought down to avoid possible interference with the new space station, fired into almost the same orbit as its predecessor.

According to Tass, the Salyut-4 was put into an earth orbit lasting 89.1 minutes at an altitude ranging from 137 to 169 miles high and at an inclination of 51.6 degrees.

normally, Tass said. The flight of the Salyut-4 station is being monitored by tracking facilities in the Soviet Union and in the Atlantic Ocean aboard the ship "Academician Serget Koroley," named after the late Soviet space designer.

The new station apparently replaces the Salyut-3 station lofted by the Soviets last June, which is ending its mission after six months in orbit, the newspaper Pravda said.

That flight lasted twice as long as Soviet space scientists had

Moscow — The Soviet Union launched a new orbital research station Thursday, indicating that it might attempt another linkup in space possibly early next year.

The official press agency Tass, which announced the launch, said that the Salyut-4 station was orbited for further tests of the design, onboard systems and equipment of such stations and for further study of space flight conditions.

All systems were functioning

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
